BIG PARTIES FUSE ON THE JUDICIARY

Tammany and Republicans to Have No Contest Over Supreme and City Courts.

A. E. SMITH FOR SHERIFF

SWANN TO OPPOSE PERKINS

Lorenz Zeller for City Court and J. M. Tierney for Supreme Bench Are Promotions.

Fusion between Tammany Hall and the Republicans on six Justices of the Supreme Court and a Judge of the City Court was accomplished last night. Chairman Samuel S. Koenig of the Republican County Committee said his organization would take whatever action was necessary to eliminate any serious contest at the polls over candidates for the Judiciary. After the Democratic County Executive Committee had decided to designate these candidates for the Democratic rimary ballot:

For Justice of the Supreme Court—John Proctor Clarke, Samuel Greenbaum, Clarence J. Shearn, Francis B. Delehanty, Edward R. Finch, John M. Tierney.

For Justice of the City Court—Lorenz Zeller.

Tammany decided to designate Judge Edward Swann of General Sessions as the organization candidate for District Attorney and Alfred E. Smith for Sheriff.

The Judiciary slate was the result of a fusion arrangement with the Republicans, Tammany accepting the two Republicans, Justices Clarke and Finch. In return the Republicans will support the Democratic Justices. The arrangement also included the City Court candidates. In return for the Tammany indorsement of Justice Finch for the Supreme Court, the Republicans will accept a Tammany man, Lorenz Zeller for City Court. The Republicans have already recommended Paul Rogers for he City Court, but his name will be withdrawn and Zeller's substituted.

The Republicans will no indorse W. W. Niles of the Bronx for Supreme Court Justice as had been planned originally, but will take Tierney for that place. Tierney is at present Municipal Court Justice for the Bronx district.

Smith's Choice a Surprise.

The selection of ex-Speaker Smith for Sheriff was the big surprise of the slate making. Murphy. Murphy, it was generally understood, wanted ex-Street Cleaning Commissioner "Big Bill" Edwards for the place, and let it be known that he would not stand for the indorsement going to a district leader. In giving up his own candidate, Murphy was practically overruled by the Executive Committee, something that the oldest member of Tammany Hall said he could not remember having occurred before.

The Executive Committee met in the afternoon, but could not agree on a candidate for Sheriff, and an adjournment was taken until 7 o'clock last night. The committee fought for an hour and a half before an agreement was reached. Murphy's suggestion that the committee take Edwards did not meet with the approval of a single district leader. They had candidates of their own, including Frank Dowling, Tammany leader on the Board of Aldermen; Peter J. Dooling, Michael J. Cruise, John J. Dietz, James J. Hines, and John V. Coggey, all district leaders, and Richard J. Delany of the Seventh District.

Daniel Finn, leader of the First District, started the ball rolling for Smith by casting his vote for him. "Big Tom" Foley, leader of the Second District, in which Smith lives, followed suit. The other leaders then fell in line, Mr. Murphy also casting his vote for Smith. Frank J. Goodwin, leader of the Seventh District, moved that Smith's selection be made unanimous, and this was done.

Swann Won Easily.

Previous to this the candidate for District Attorney was chosen. Two-thirds of the leaders were for Judge Swann from the beginning, but half a dozen or more wanted Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan. The name of President Thomas W. Churchill of the Board of Education was not mentioned. Leader Charles W. Culkin of the Fifth District moved that Judge Swann's selection be made unanimous, and it was carried.

Murphy moved that the selection of Justices for the Supreme Court and Zeller for the City Court be made unanimous. The following committee was named to fill vacancies: Henry G. Scheuerman, Michael J. Mulqueen, John F. Galvin, Henry Schneider, Thomas F. McAvoy, and George N. Reinhardt.

The selection of Assemblyman Smith for Sheriff was considered by Tammany men as being particularly fortunate. They said that ex-Senator Elihu Root had only recently pronounced him to be a splendid type of politician. Smith is popular in and out of the organization. He has been in the Assembly for a dozen years and was Speaker in 1913. He is at present minority leader of that body and also a member of the Constitutional Convention.

The fact that Murphy gave in to the district leaders caused a lot of comment around the Fourteenth Street wigwam. Some said it looked as if the Tammany Chief was "losing his grip." Still others said it was all a clever play on the part of Murphy and that his advocacy of Edwards's candidacy was to make the public believe he was for a candidate of the independent Democratic wing, while being for an organization man all the time. Murphy would not

TURKS REPORT ANOTHER ALLIED CRUISER SUNK

Said to Have Foundered off Smyrna—Say 20,000 British Fell at Anafarta.

BERLIN, SEPT. 1, (by Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—A report was given out by the Overseas News Agency today that a cruiser of the Allies had met with disaster off the coast of Asia Minor.

"A telegram from Smyrna states that two hostile cruisers bombarded the city of Smyrna and the coast of the gulf to the south of the city," says the news agency. "One cruise foundered. The second ship attempted to go to the rescue, but was prevented by Turkish artillery.

"Telegrams from the Dardanelles report that the morale of the expeditionary force is badly shaken. A French soldier who was taken prisoner declared that the Germans would be in Paris before the Allies got to Constantinople. The troops are repoted as pessimistic over the prospect of a winter campaign. Spread of the dysentery epidemic that already is decimating the forces is feared."

TURKISH HEADQUARTERS ON THE GALIPOLI PENINSULA, Aug. 22, via Berlin and Wireless to Tuckerton, N. J., Sept. 1.—It has been impossible to ascertain the total losses of the British in the Anafarta egion, in the fighting which followed the landing of a fresh expeditionary force on Aug. 6 and 7. The losses in deed on the whole Gallipoli front which the Allies sustained as a result of the general offensive movement coincident with the Anafarta landing, exceed 20,000 men. Most of the bodies are still unburied. One battalion was annihilated.

Officers at the Turkish headquarters are of the opinion that the British have expended in the actions of the last two weeks, nearly all the troops landed on Aug. 6 and 7. The Turkish loses are not light, but they do not approach those of the British. The ground thus far occupied by the British is of little military value, if an attack on the Dardanelles forts is their objective.

The Associated Press correspondent saw a score of British prisoners. The faces of the men showed the strain under which they had been. They complained of the quality and quantity of the food which they had received. They said that they had had only meat, preserves and biscuits. The water supply was poor and insufficient, and the sanitary service was overtaxed by the numbers of the wounded, so that many sick soldiers were unattended. Some of them, the prisoners said, were abandoned and fell into the hands of the Turks.

From the stories of the prisoners it would appear that the great heat and the lack of sufficient food and good water are having a depressing effect on the British forces on the peninsula.

HONOR FOR DESIGNER OF 42-CENTIMETER GUN

Karlsruhe Academy Gives a Degree to Prof. Rausenberger—Big Mortars Prove Durable.

BERLIN, Sept. 1, (by Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.).—The Technical Academy at Karlsruhe has conferred upon Professor Otto Rausenberger, who designed the famous 42-centimeter Krupp gun, the degree of Doctor of Engineering honoris causa.

Making this announcement, the Overseas News Agency adds:

"A unique celebration has been held by the artillerymen with a battery of Austrian 30-centimeter mortars on the Isonzo line. One mortar fired its 1,200th shot. This same mortar last year helped to reduce the fortifications of Namur and Antwerp, Belgium. This demonstrates the durability of the heavy Austrian guns."

SAY AMERICAN HAD MESSAGES FOR BERLIN

James Archibald, Correspondent, Carrying Embassy Dispatches, British Charge.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—According o the Central News, James F. J. Archibald, an American newspaper correspondent whow as apprehended by the British authorities when the steamer Rotterdam, bound from New York for Roterdam, put into Falmouth a few days ago, was carrying dispatches to Berlin and Vienna from the German and Austrian Embassies at Washington.

It is reported by the Central News that Mr. Archibald was charged with performing an unneutral service. He was subsequently released, but the dispatches were retained by the officials.

SEE WILSON RENOMINATED.

President's Closest Friends Laying Plans for 1916 Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Indications were given here tonight that President Wilson's colsest friends expect him to be renominated for the Presidency in 1916, and are laying their plans accordingly. The President himself, it was said authoritatively, however, is taking no part in such plans.

Gratification felt by the President over the action of Democrats in the Tenth Congressional District of Wisconsin in indorsing his Administration at a mass meeting to prepare for 1916 was expressed in a letter from Secretary Tumulty, which became public here tonight.

Word that Kentucky Democrats assembled in a State platform convention had indorsed President Wilson for renomination also was welcome news at the White House, but no formal comment was made.

Last September Secretary Tumulty sent to a New Jersey Democratic leader asking that no steps be taken to indorse the President for another term, and saying, "The President feels that it might seem as if he were taking advantage of the extraordinary situation now existing to gain a personal advantage through such an expression of confidence."

As far as the President himself is concerned, he is understood to take the same position, but many of his friends are said to believe that no further efforts should be made to stop political indorsements.

AUSTRIANS TAKE LUTSK FORTRESS

RUSSIANS RETREAT SAFELY

London Thinks They Will Win Race Against Time with Rains Soon to Hamper Pursuit.

HUGE LOSSES RECORDED

More Than 1,000,000 Russian Prisoners Taken in Four Months—2,000,000 Austro-Germans Engaged.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The minor Fortress of Lutsk, which with those of Dubno and Rovno forms a fortified triangle on Russian territory just north of the Galician frontier, was captured by the Austrians today, according to the official report from Vienna. It is in this direction that the Austro-German offensive has betn the most aggressive during the last few days, the object being to separate the Russian army retreating through the pripet marshes from that operating in Galicia, which yesterday inflicted, so the Russians claim, a rather severe defeat on the Austro-Germans.

The capture of Lutsk, however, is likely to compel the Russians, despite their victory, to evacuate that part of Galicia still held by them; otherwise their flank there would be seriously threatened.

Among the rest of the front, except in the centre, where the Austro-Germans continue to make a slow advance, the Russians appear to be holding their own. They have thus far prevented the Germans from crossing the Dvina at Friedrichstadt, where a battle has been in progress for several days, they have arrested the German offensive between that point and the Gulf of Riga, and are still holding their ground between Kovno and Vilna and before Grodno, although the Germans have approached the outer position of Grodno Fortress.

The official Russian report shows fighting of a very desperate character at several points, notably in Galicia. The Russians have made successful attacks before Vilna, and a regiment that had been surrounded is reported to have broken through the ring, annihilating a hostile battalion. The withdrawal in South Russia is admitted, but heavy loses are being inflicted on the invaders, the report says.

In the opinion of military writers here the Russians now stand a good chance of winning the race for time. Within a few weeks the Autumn rains will begin, and, it is pointed out, unless they can succeed in gaining a decisive result before that time, the Austro-Germans can hardly hope to smash the Russian armies before, under cover of the long Winter, they are reformed and re-equipped. At present the Austro-Germans are straining every nerve to win this decision, but they have been greatly delayed by the intensity of the Russian counter-attacks and the stubborness with which the Russian troops hold the positions protecting their retreating comrades.

The Russian losses, of course, have been enormous. According to Berlin, the Russians have lost more than one million in prisoners since May 2, the date on which the drive commenced in Western Galicia, while during August alone the captured included over a quarter of a million men and 2,300 cannon.

The Austro-German losses, too, have been heavy for killed and wounded, while the strain on the troops has been terrific. They still have, according to Petrograd estimates, about 2,000a000 men on the eastern front, 300,000 being in the Riga region, more than 1,000,000 in the centre, and from 600,000 to 700,000 in Galicia.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The Russian success in Galicia, reported in yesterday's official statement, was wobtained against the army of General Pflanzer, which is estimated to comprise five Austrian and German army corps.

VIENNA, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The following official communication was made public today:

The fortress of Lutsk has been in our hands since yesterday. Archduke Rainer's Fifty-ninth Infantry regiment in a bayonet attack dislodged the Russians from the railway station and from the barracks north of the twon, where they penertated simultaneously with the flight o fthe enemy. In the evening the town was cleared of the enemy, and our beaten adversary retreated toward the south and southeast.

Near Bialy-Kamien, Northeast Galicia, General von Boehm-Ermolli's broke through the enemy's lines on a front of twenty kilomters (twelve and one-half miles.) This double defeat compelled all the Russian forces still fighting west of the Styr River to retreat beyond the river.

During the course of this morning the enemy's backward movement extended also to the front near Zborow, which town General von Bothmer's army took yesterday.

On the River Strira fighting is still proceeding. Yesterday in the region of Korzowa one of the Russian counterattacks was repelled by one German and one Austro-Hungarian brigade, and the enemy was driven back some kilometers. Our troops started a flank attack in order to disperse the enemy, but before it was delivered the Russians hurriedly retreated on the ast bank.

North of Buczacz the enemy's attacks were repulsed and he sustained heavy losses.

The number of prisoners captured in the last few days in East Galicia and east of Vldaimir-Volynskyi rose to 36 officers and 2,200 men.

The total number of prisoners captured in August by the allied troops under Austro-Hungarian command amounts to 190 officers and 53,290 men. The war booty taken was 34 gunds and 121 machine guns.

The total of prisoners and booty captured by these forces since the beginning of May amounts to 2,100 officers and 642,500 men and 394 guns and 1,275 machine guns.

BERLIN, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The official German report on the operations in Russia and Galicia is as follows:

On the western front of Grodno our troops are in front of the outer line of forts.

Between Odelsk, east of Sokolka, and the Forest of Bialowies, the enemy is being further pursued.

Gratifying, Says Roosevelt; Hopes Germany Keeps Pledge

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 1.—Colonel Roosevelt said tonight at his home at Sagamore Hill that he was very much pleased to learn of recent developments in the German situation, and then made the following statement:

> On its face it appears to be most gratifying, and if the acts of the Germans bear it out, and if suitable amends are made for the lives lost on the Lusitania and Arabic and for the Gulflight and Falaba and similar cases, and if there is no provision expressed or implied as to action on our part, such as was requested by Germany before, as regards England and France, the results will in every way be satisfactory.
> I wish to call attention, however, to one thing. This is in no sense a confession from Germany, as it has been styled in some papers.
> It is an announcement that she intends to stop the policy of assassination. To stop the policy establishes no claim for gratitude; and I take it for granted, of course, there will be the most ample amends, so far as such amends are possible, made not only for the property, but for the 120 lives of American men, women, and children who have been assassinated during the four months and over that the policy has been carried out.

CHAUFFEUR IN PLOT TO KILL TWO IN AUTO

Tells Providence Police He Drove Machine Into Ambush, Where Doctor and Woman Were Shot.

PLANNED ONLY TO ROB

Names Discharged Employe of the Physician, Who Dies of His Wound.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 1.—Dr. C. Franklin Mohr and his secretary, Miss Emily G. Burger, who were shot last night during an automobile ride, as a result of which the physician died today, were led into ambush, according to a statement by the police tonight. The anouncement was based upon an alleged story told them by George W. Healis, the negro chauffer, who drove Dr. Mohr's car last night.

The chauffeur is said to have placed the responsibility for the plot upon a discharged employe of Dr. Mohr. This man, Healis is alleged to have told the police, made arrangements with him to stall the automobile at a certain place and share in the proceeds of the robbery, which the other claimed was to be the object of the ambush.

Healis is said to have insisted tonight that he actually saw no one when the shots were fired into the machine while it was stopped in a dark spot on the Nayatt Road, in Barrington, which he named as the place selected for the suggested hold-up.

On the strength of the statements attributed to the chauffeur, the police tonight are looking for a man formerly employed by Dr. Mohr and who is thought to have gone to the Roxbury district of Boston.

Dr. Mohr was well known in this city and in Newport, in both of which places he practiced his profession. He came here from Pennsylvania and was married twelve years ago, when he was 30 years of age.

Mrs. Mohr recently began a suit for separation, and the physician brought a counter suit. Twice recently he had appeared as a defendant in court. Once he was charged with assault upon a domestic employed in his home, and on another occasion he was fined $100 and costs for recklessly driving his motor car.

According to the story told to the police by Miss Burger, the two were motoring when engine trouble developed and their car stopped on a lonely spot in the Barrington road. As the chauffeur was attempting to remedy the trouble, she said, another car dashed by, an occupant of it firing upon the Mohr automobile as he passed. Mohr received a bullet in the head and another in the right shoulder. Miss Burger also was shot in the head and shoulder, but the wounds are not wounds are not serious

WOMAN LOST IN RIVER CRASH

Tug Runs Down a Launch Near the Sunken eMadows.

Transfer Tug 10 of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad ran down a launch in the East River, between Sunken Meadows and the Long Island shore, last night, crashed through the frail craft and threw the five occupants—three men and two women—into the river.

The tug was backed at full speed and the crew rescued the three men and one woman. One woman was missing, and is supposed to have been drowned.

According to the police report sent to Harbor Squad B, the Captain of the tug did not see the launch until he was right upon it. The heav ytug crumpled up the smaller boat and swept over it.

SAVED BY A TOW LINE.

Two Men from Upset Launch Cling to Cable—One Is Lost.

Andrew Gunn, a clerk living at 43 Andrew Street, Bayonne, N. J.; John Hagen of 38 West Twenty-seventh Street, Bayonne, and a man from Staten Island, whose name the police could not learn yesterday afternoon, started across from Staten Island to Bayonne in a motor boat. When they were half way across the Kill van ull—a quarter of a mile from either shore—the engine stalled, and the boat drifted with the tide toward a tug which was approaching, dragging three scows.

The motor boat was swept between the first scow and the wash from the tugboat's propeller upset it. Then the Captain of the tug slowed down so that the two rope dragged on the surface of the water, and Hagen and the unknown man succeeded in swimming to it and holding on until a launch that put out from Bayonne rescued them. Gunn, who could not swim, was drowned.

GERMANY GIVES A WRITTEN PROMISE TO SINK NO LINERS WITHOUT WARNING; POPE BEGINS NEW MOVE FOR PEACE

GIBBONS TO SEE WILSON

Call at White House May Relate to Pontiff's Plans.

WANTS NEUTRALS' SUPPORT

WILL WARN OF DISASTER

And Seek to Shaw That Civilization Is Now Imperilled by the Conflict.

WASHINGTON IS INTENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 1.—Pope Benedict is preparing a new document with a view to inducing the belligerent nations and their rulers to conclude peace.

It is asserted that in this document the Pontiff will for the first time speak in regard to the general merits of the situation, showing the advisability, in the interests of all countries, of a cessation of the inhuman struggle. Its continuance, he will declare, will be even more disastrous than hitherto to all those participating in it, while an honorable peace would still succeed in saving European civilization.

It is asserted that neutral countries will be approached with a view to obtaining their support of the step which the Pope is about to take.

CARDINAL GIBBONS TO SEE WILSON TODAY

May Be the Bearer of a Message from the Pope in the Interest of Peace.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A request made at the White House today on behalf of Cardinal Gibbons for an interview with President Wilson was regarded as significant in official and dipomatic circles in view of recent reports of the Pope's hope to bring about peace in Europe through co-operation with the head of neutral governments. The interview was arranged for tomorrow afternoon.

Many officials here believe the success of the negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare places the United States in an advantageous position to bring about an agreement between Germany and Great Britain on the question of maintaining the freedom of the seas, which ultimately may pave the way to a discussion of peace terms.

At the White House the object of Cardinal Gibbons's request for an interview was not disclosed, although it was indicated that he wanted to discuss the international situation. Mgr. William T. Russell of Washington, made the engagement.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—It is believed here by friends of Cardinal Gibbons that he will be the bearer of a message from the Pope to President Wilson. There are some persons of high authority in the Church who believe that the question of bringing about peace will be discussed.

About a month ago information was cabled from Rome that Pope Benedict would send personal representatives to sound various countries on the question of peace. When the Cardinal returned from New Orleans some time ago he stated that he expected to have an interview with the President or the Secretary of State on the situation within a reasonable time. Since his return from the South he has not been at the White House.

The Rev. S. Byron Hershey, a Protestant minister of Washington, called on Cardinal Gibbons today in the interest of a church movement for the peace of the world. For more than half an hour Mr. Hershey talked with the Cardinal, laying before him a plan for united effort on the part of all denominations to bring to an end the war and to prevent such struggles in the future.

Mr. Hershey subsequently volunteered the information that the plan had received the Cardinal's warm approval and endorsement.

Mr. Hershey said he expected to be at the White House tomorrow. Asked if it was in the interest of his peace movement, he answered in the affirmative, and further stated that he hoped to be there with the Cardinal.

Text of German Pledge Sent by von Bernstorff to Secretary Lansing and the Latter's View of It.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Following an oral statement to Secretary Lansing today that Germany had accepted the declarations of the United States in the submarine warfare controversy, Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, sent the following letter to Mr. Lansing:

> WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.
> My Dear Mr. Secretary: With reference to our conversation of this morning, I beg to inform you that my instructions concerning our answer to your last Lusitania note contains the following passage:
> "Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of noncombatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance."
> Although I know that you do not wish to discuss the Lusitania question till the Arabic incident has been definitely and satisfactorily settled, I desire to inform you of the above because this policy of my Government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred.
> I have no objection to your making any use you may please of the above information.
> I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing, very sincerely yours,
> J. BERNSTORFF.

In connection with the letter, Secretary Lansing made the following statement:

"In view of the clearness of the foregoing statement, it seems needless to make any comment in regard to it, other than to say that it appears to be a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended."

FEW CONCESSIONS, LONDON THINKS

IT FEARS MORE OUTRAGES

Daily News Is Sure German Yielding Will Not Affect Our Neutral Attitude.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 2.—The London newspapers in their editorial columns this morning devote much attention to the German Government's announcement of its submarine policy.

The Daily News says: "Whatever the ultimate effect of Ambassador von Bernstorff's note to Secretary Lansing, its immediate result must be a material relief of the present critical situation, but neither in America nor here can there be any illusion as to the significance of Germany's recantation. It is much to have so far reformed a criminal as to reduce him to the observance of the letter of the law, but in this case it was too clearly to the force that lay behind the suasion that a return to outward decency must be ascribed.

"Despite a probable revulsion of feeling in America now that the immediate crisis is passed Germany will be deluding herself once more if she imagines, as there are already signs, that she does, that her forced concession reestablishes normal relations. She has chosen deliberately to forfeit every claim to respect, much less to friendship from the one neutral who it was supremely to her interest to conciliate, and the daily exposure of fresh offenses against American sentiment is effectively precluding the smallest relaxation of the frigid neutrality that the submarine concession enables Washington still to observe.

"The announcement that Admiral von Tirpitz has seized the occasion as an opportunity for an extended holiday is the strongest possible confirmation of the belief that the real crisis precipitated by the Arabic was not in Washington, but in Berlin."

Says Wilson Has Changed Attitude.

The Daily Chronicle says: "Germany's concession over the submarine question would be quite insufficient to satisfy the principles laid down in President Wilson's first Lusitania note, in which he condemned and denounced the submarining of merchantmen in any event, on the ground that a submarine could not insure the safety of the crews, but must needs expose them in open boats to the mercy of the sea, but in his last Lusitania note the President seriously whittled down these principles. He let it appear that if non-combatants were seen safely into boats he would consider it equivalent to insuring their safety, and he agreed that ships trying to escape or resist might be sunk. The German formula, therefore, only differs from his own in so far as it confines to 'liners' what he claimed for all merchantmen.

With his evident eagerness to catch at any straw that may preserve peace, it is plain that he will not press this difference.

"Mr. Wilson concedes, it would seem, that Germany may submarine and send to the bottom all enemy merchantmen except liners without notice and without making any provision for the safety of the crews. He concedes that even in the case of liners it shall be sufficient to see noncombatants into open boats in order to satisfy the requirement of insuring their safety. He concedes that even this precaution may be waived if a submarine likes to pretend that a liner attacked it, as has been semi-officially pretended by the Germans in nearly every much-commented case.

"These are very large concessions, whose effect is for the first time to give quasi-international sanction to odious and inhuman practices never before sanctioned by international law.

"From the point of view of law of nations, it might be argued that the President would have done better to maintain his protest on all the points, and to press it to an issue, or none, rather than purchase a recantation from the wrongdoer in one direction by giving him the chartered right to do wrong in the other.

"Protests on the side of international law do much to support it, even if they are not pressed, but when they are deliberately withdrawn the law disappears."

Calls Submarine War a Failure.

"Germany's compliance is due to several causes. The submarine campaign

VON TIRPITZ ILL; PLANS VACATION

Navy Chief Who Upheld Submarine Warfare Is Advised to Take a Rest.

HAD OPPOSED CHANCELLOR

And Objected to Conciliatory Tactics Toward United States—Visited the Kaiser at Front.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says reports from Berlin are to the effect that Admiral von Tirpitz, the German Minister of Marine, is ill from overwork and exhaustion, and, on the advice of his physician, intends to leave Berlin for a holiday which will extend over several weeks.

Grand Admiral von Tirpitz is regarded everywhere as the chief advocate of the submarine warfare on merchant shipping. In addition to being the head of the navy he is regarded as the head of that unyielding faction which has made a bitter fight against any modification of orders to the submarine commanders. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, has led the faction favoring conciliatory tactics toward the United States, and their joint conference with the German Emperor at the Eastern front recently undoubtedly was one of the momentous incidents of the war. Recent press dispatches from Berlin have indicated conclusively that the Chancellor won a victory for his policy, which fact lends significance even to a temporary absence of the Grand Admiral from his post of duty.

BERLIN PRAISING WILSON.

National Zeitung Admires Him for Not Yielding to Peace or War Factions.

BERLIN, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The National Zeitung publishes today a leading article under the heading, "Wilson, Bryan, and Roosevelt," which is noteworthy for its friendly tone, and for the ungrudging admiration expressed for President Wilson.

The article begins by saying that discussions of the Arabic affair have been in a quieter tone since Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, presented his request to the American Government to delay action until Germany had had the opportunity of presenting its side of the case. Even the anti-German newspapers admitted the justice of this request, the article says, and there now remains no obstacle to friendly discussions of differences, which, while real, are by no means of such a nature as to prevent a satisfactory compromise.

The personality of President Wilson has been illuminated more strongly than ever before, the National Zeitung says, during the exciting days through which America has just passed. The President will appear to many in a new light. Never was his position more difficult than during the Arabic crisis, "when Mr. Bryan was calling on Americans for peace at any price and Colonel Roosevelt was summoning them to war against Germany."

President Wilson is pictured in the article as standing between the two rivals, whose activities threatened to bring about such a situation that the President might make his attitude toward Germany dependent on domestic political considerations.

"That President Wilson withstood this temptation and may be counted on to withstand it further must be acknowledged," the newspaper says, "notwithstanding the fact that the German people certainly have reason to be dissatisfied with his attitude in the matter of submarine warfare."

Mr. Wilson is characterized as a more clever politician than "the unlucky Bryan and the astute politician Roosevelt." The article concludes with the statement that Germany has always desired to maintain the traditional friendly relations with America, and that it may be hoped the Arabic case will serve to clear up misunderstandings on both sides. The National Zeitung adds that it must be possible to reach an understanding, inasmuch as the points in dispute are matters of principle and not of conquest, victories, or defeats.

BERLIN YIELDS TO PRESIDENT

Bernstorff Brings Pledge for Safety of Non-Combatants at Sea.

DISAVOWALS TO COME NEXT

Oral Assurances Quickly Followed by a Formal Letter from the Ambassador.

VICTORY, SAYS WASHINGTON

Recognition of Fundamental Principle of Our Demands, Lansing Asserts.

GERMANY'S NOTE TO FOLLOW

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Any doubt that may have remained of Germany's intention to acknowledge the justice of this Government's contentions respecting the illegality of the German submarine warfare and to furnish guarantees of a new line of policy was removed today when Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, gave to Secretary Lansing, both orally and in writing, assurances that liners would not be sunk by German submarines without warning and that provision would be made for the safety of noncombatants. This expressly concedes the major contention of the American Government as set forth in the three notes on the sinking of the Lusitania.

The only qualification of the German pledge was that this practice would be adhered to, provided the liners did not try to escape or offer resistance. But that is hardly a qualification, for the United States has acknowledged that resistance or effort to escape on the part of a merchant vessel would give the submarine the right of attack.

The importance of Count von Bernstorff's assurances, which were given in the form of a quotation from Germany's forthcoming note in answer to the American representations concerning the Lusitania, is indicated by a brief statement, made by Secretary Lansing, in giving out the text of an informal communication from the German Ambassador. Mr. Lansing said that the only comment needed was that the Ambassador's communication appeared to be "a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended."

This conservative description of the German assurances, however, hardly represents the gratification with which Count von Bernstorff's statement has been received. It is not beyond the mark to say that officials are elated and feel that not only have President Wilson and Secretary Lansing won a notable diplomatic victory, but that the danger of war with Germany is definitely removed.

No Quibble Intended.

Count von Bernstorff's note to Mr. Lansing seems to leave uncertain the question whether the duty of visit and search, now pledged by the German Government regarding "liners," will apply equally to freighters and passenger ships. But it is clearly understood that no such quibble is intended, and it was officially explained at the State Department that the death of an American sailor on a belligerent merchantman, whether a passenger or freighter, would be regarded as probably even more serious than the death of an American passenger. This view was explained on the ground that the sailor would be carrying out simply his normal calling, while the passenger might be regarded as voluntarily putting his life in jeopardy.

The full text of the German note, replying to the last American communication on the sinking of the Lusitania, of which Count von Bernstorff quoted one sentence, has not been received in Washington, and it may be delayed until the Arabic case is definitely disposed of. But when it comes it is hoped that it will in set terms clear up all uncertainties regarding the scope of the pledge to exercise visit and search hereafter before sinking merchantmen. The German word translated as "liners" might in itself clear the whole subject.

One strong reason for believing that the German Government does not intend now to quibble over the difference between passenger and freight vessels lies in the known motive prompting of the publication of the promise at this time. Some weeks ago German officials let the American Government understand that the reply to the last Lusitania note would not be delivered before the United States sent forward its protest against the British blockade. The change of mind in this respect resulted from a desire on Germany's part to show her willingness to meet the wishes of the United States without regard to Great Britain's course. A desire to show this friendliness before Great Britain had a chance to make any further concessions to American demands might also explain the haste with which an isolated sentence from the coming formal note was cabled to the German Ambassador for transmission to the State Department.

Bernstorff's Success.

It is not difficult in all this to see the initiative of Count von Bernstorff. The circumstances under which he wrote his note this morning made it certain that he did so without consultation with his Government, altough, of course, that did not rob the quoted sentence of its formal character. It has been known for a long time that Count von Bernstorff was bending all his efforts to prevent a break between Germany and the United States. And to avoid that contingency he has pressed upon the German Chancellory the seriousness with which the marine incidents were viewed in the United States and the necessity of meeting that view by official concessions rather than by argumentative notes in justification of the submarine war, or by unofficial propaganda in this country. Today's events show he has succeeded.

As expressed at the State Department this afternoon, the next move is Germany's. This probably means that until the full text of the note is received the United States will not formally accept the assurances as satisfactory. Or it might mean simply that the policy upon which those assurances were based, which, as Count von Vernstorff pointed out, was agreed to in Berlin before the sinking of the Arabic, must be formally applied to the Arabic in order to close that incident.

The German Ambassador's statement that the policy was agreed to before the Arabic incident confirmed the report, first printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES, that there had been some embarrassing delay in the German Admiralty in giving effect to the policy of the German Chancellor. While a disavowal of the sinking of the Arabic is certain to follow, the assurance that attacks without warning would not be made in the future, it is believed that the reported loss of the offending German submarine will obviate the necessity of Germany accompanying that disavowal by the punishment of any German officer or official.

What remains now to meet the American demands is a disavowal in the Lusitania, reparation for lives lost on belligerent and American ships, and for damage done in mistaken attacks on American vessels. But it is quite probable that the German Ambassador in his conversations with Mr. Lansing has already indicated fully that American suggestions as to how reparation can be made will be satisfactory to Germany. A formal disavowal of intention to injure Americans will probably be accepted in view of Germany's present conciliatory stand as sufficient response to the American demand for a disavowal of the act of the submarine commander immediately responsible for sinking the Lusitania.

How Delay Was Gained.

It is believed that the German Ambassador conveyed informally to Mr. Lansing news of the German order ameliorating conditions of submarine warfare when he called at the State Department following his telegram ten days ago in which he asked that no action be taken until the German position could be sent out. His telegram made it certain that there had been a change of front on Germany's part. It is hardly likely that he would not have fully explained that inference to Mr. Lansing, who waited, however, till the statement could be made on official direction from Berlin with a textual citation of the assurance.

For some time back, dating probably from the Ambassador's New York telegram, if not before, the German plan as to the final disposition of the whole controversy has been clearly outlined. The ameliorating order was to be communicated officially to the United States as an assurance for the future. A disavowal of the sinking of the Arabic would clear up that incident. Then would come an invitation to the United States to suggest a way in which reparation for loss of American lives and property could be adopted. No difficulty is expected on that score.

While the State Department was reluctant this afternoon to add anything to Mr. Lansing's stattment appended to the press copy of the Ambassador's note it was said that the general principle, such as the German assurances conceded, would ordinarily cover all incidents to which it was applicable, even if the incident arose subsequent to the events about which the first dispute arose. That makes it certain that no developments of fact regarding the loss of the Arabic will be allowed to impair the complete understanding toward which the United States and Gtrmany seem to be rapidly coming.

It is not believed here that the new German policy will have any marked physical effect upon the results of her submarine warfare. Freight steamers, probably because of their slow speed, or because there was no question of their being attached to the British Navy, have almost uniformly if not quite always received warning and time for the escape of the crews. And only two large liners have been sunk, so that a change as to them would be negligible.

The British Blockade.

As officially expressed this afternoon, in a smiling response to a question, the next move as to the British blockade will come whenever the United States chooses to take a step. It is believed this will be soon. If the United States takes a determined stand it is not believed that Great Britain will be able to refuse important modifications of the Order in Council, for while the threat of war lurked at the back of the communications to Germany, the threat of an embargo would be equally as effective against Great Britain.

President Wilson once said of himself that he had a "single-track mind." That the diplomatic victory of the United States in its critical controversy with Germany was due largely to the President's adherence to the single-track principle, was more than ever apparent today. From the beginning of the differences with Germany the President has adhered to the policy of letting nothing interfere with a straight course in dealing with Germany. Efforts to persuade him to attack Great Britain vigorously—in a diplomatic way, of course—during the German crisis will make an interesting story when it is told.

"One Thing at a Time."

From many angles the man in the White House was insistently urged to take up with the British Government in a positive way the questions arising out of interference with American commerce. But the President would have none of it, for the very simple reason that it would be dangerously unwise to pick a quarrel with Great Britain while the possibility existed that Germany and the United States might become involved in war. "One thing at a time," was the President's motto, and by adhering to the single track he has managed to bring about what promises to be a satisfactory conclusion of the troubles with Germany.

The President's position was that, aside from the necessity of not undertaking to create two delicate diplomatic situations at one time, the principle involved in the differences with Germany affected human life and should be attended to at once in order to prevent the sacrifice of any more American citizens, while the differences with Great Britain involved dollars and cents. Now that the German crisis appears to have passed, the Government is in a position to press its representations upon Great Britain.

Comment of This Morning's Newspapers on the German Pledge on Submarine Warfare

NEW YORK CITY

Re-Establish Law of Nation.

From The World.

President Wilson's patient but unyielding devotion to vital principles of law and humanity has brought peace with honor out of the German crisis. The memorandum filed by Count von Bernstorff with Secretary Lansing is a complete acceptance of the American case on the part of the German Government. The guarantee is specific: Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of non-combatants, provided the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance.

This pledge embodies the most essential rules of naval warfare for which the United States Government has contended since the Imperial Government issued its war-zone decree in February. It safeguards the rights of neutrals, for which the United States has contended. Chief Justice White describes Germany's surrender to the President's demands as "the greatest diplomatic achievement of the United States in a generation." It is that and more. The victory is a brilliant victory for the United States, but the consequences extend far beyond national boundaries. The President has re-established international law. He has again made it a living and compelling force in the affairs of a war-wrecked world. He has demonstrated that, even in the midst of a conflict that seemed to have turned law into anarchy, certain fundamental principles remained that even the mightiest military power known to human history could not continue to ignore.

This is the President's victory, and it is a victory shared by the American people, whose loyal suport and splendid common sense made it possible. His trust in them has been vindicated, no less than their trust in him.

By the successful use of peaceful methods in bringing the German Government to the American definition of neutral rights the United States has gained a new prestige among nations. It is a prestige that could not have been won by rushing blindly into war, no matter what our ships and our armies might have done in battle. This is a moral triumph which in the circumstances surpasses in its permanent value to mankind anything that might have been achieved by force. It has been gained because the President never allowed himself to be swerved by the war-at-any-price extremists or the peace-at-any-price extremists, but held steadfastly to his course.

Thanks to his firmness and tenacity of purpose, a code of law built up by the slow process of civilization throughout the centuries remains to govern the relations of nation with nation. Thanks also to his firmness and tnacity of purpose the Republic stands before the world as the great guardian and protector of that law.

Wilson's Real Great Service.

From The New York Tribune.

There seems now no reason to doubt that the crisis in our relations with Germany has passed. Unquestionably the first emotion of most Americans will be one of relief and even of jubliation that the peril of war has been averted. Such an emotion, however, can be but transient, nor will here be a much longer span of life for that pride incidentally stirred by the successful stand of American statemanship. We shall be more hankful that we have avoided war than exultant over any triumph in diplomacy, whether great or small.

What will be of permanent significance to Americans is the fact that lies above and beyond all else in the German-American controversy. American diplomacy—Mr. Wilson—and in all discussion it is Mr. Wilson whose responsibility has been complete and to whom all credit is equally due—has successfully defended civilization against barbarism, law against anarchy. It has vindicated the right to live assailed by the doctrine of "frigtfulness," which is but the policy of murder.

The massacre of the Lusitania was only incidentally an attack upon American citizens. Above all it was a question of the right of a great nation having the power to kill to use this power in defiance of all the agreements, conventions, principles which men have established and which stand as the sole monument to the progress of civilization.

Had we accepted this German principle, had we submitted to this new law, which was no law, international law would have become a mere nothing, a memory, a convenience. Nor would this have been the case solely in incidents affecting only Germany and the United States. Our case was the case of all neutral nations, of the countries which were small, as we were larke, weak as we were strong.

Mr. Wilson's supreme service is to mankind, not to his own country. It does not come from a successful avoidance of war, it comes from a victorious defense of civilization, of liberty; not the liberty of his own nationals alone, or primarily, but that of all nations. He has maintained international law, he has upheld civilization, he has defended humanity—this is the great service, this is the thing that Americans hereafter will praise as they would have praised it if to do it he had been driven to take up arms, as other Presidents would have done in our history.

The greatest praise due Mr. Wilson, in the opinion of The Tribune, is for the courage he displayed after the Arabic, in frankly recognizing that the time for talking was over, that the hour for action had arrived. Had he, after the Arabic incident, contemplated another note, another exchange of messages, we should not now be approaching an honorable and final settlement of our differences.

What Strings Are Attached?

From The New York Press.

The present appears an occasion when it is well to await full knowledge and detailed terms before assuming too much in regard to the significance of a fragmentary communication. While the announcement by Count von Bernstorff is reassuring, it cannot be regarded as conclusive without more knowledge.

To make the concession regarding submarine warfare would greatly weaken and handicap Germany in the employment of her most effective naval weapon. As has been pointed out by Germany heretofore, this would make it possible for England to insure vessels of this class by merely having a few non-combatant passengers on board. It is possible, of course, to assume that Germany is being converted to the humanitarian view of the whole question, but there is no very impressive accumulation of testimony thus far to such a conversion. If, in fact, Germany has been converted on this point, that is one thing; if, on the other hand, the present concession is merely a move in the developing of the general policy of aggressive, brutal war, then opinion as to its significance must be reserved until it can be known just what strings are attached to the very brief communication thus far made.

It is a Mighty Victory.

From The New York Herald.

Verily, in th ewords of Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court, it is "the greatest victory for American diplomacy in a generation." The ultimate results, however, will be determined, not by Germany's words, but by Germany's deeds.

"So far as reparation is possible for injuries which are without measure" Germany can be counted upon to make reparation for the lives of Americans murdered upon the high seas. But what reparation can the German Government make for the slaughter its surrender has caused in the ranks o' the faithful?

Another $5,000 might help with Fair Play, the usual "$1,750 per" may be sufficient balm for the sensitive soul of The Fatherland; but what of the Ridders, the Weissmanns, the Koeblers, and the lesser lights of the aiserbund who have so vociferously extolled the "kultur" that kills American men, women, and children? Where does this surrender leave these who have applauded acts which German itself now admits are indefensible and, in the case of the Arabic, says had been repudiated before committed?

And where does it leave the timorous person who scuttled from the Ship of State mumbling dire prophecy that the firm stand President Wilson was taking in behalf of American rights meant War? What reparation can Germany make for all the suffering it has caused Mr. Bryan?

But the casualties are not confinded to the Kaiserbund. Where does Germany's surrender leave Mr. Roosevelt with his insistent excoriation f "Wilson diplomacy" as a thing of weakness? It has proved strong enough to accomplish its purpose, hasn't it? And isn't that the true measure of any diplomacy?

Some Must Eat Crow.

From The New York Commercial.

In spite of Colonel Roosevelt and other beaters of the war drums who have been attacking the policy pursued by President Wilson, the German Government did not doubt that he mean what he said in his last note regarding "deliberately unfriendly" acts. German newspapers and German language journals in the United States will have to revise their line of reasoning by which they sought to justify the illegal and brutal submarine warfare which has happily been ended.

No danger of war but considerable risk of injuring our export trade will attend the protests which Washington gossips say will be made against the style of blockade maintained by the Allies. The British Government has granted important concessions regarding our importations of goods made in Germany. The Allies are better prepared to supply their own needs than they were last Spring, and they might curtail purchases of war materials and foodstuffs here that would outweigh tenfold all we could sell to the Teutonic allies if no restrictions were placed on exports of noncontraband goods to neutral countries of northern Europe. In no case would contraband of war for Germany be free to pass, so our possible gains cannot compare with possible losses.

From The New York Sun.

The United States has won a great diplomatic and moral victory in the square acceptance by Germany of those principles concerning neutral rights on the high seas for which our State Department has been contending since last February. To positive demand, firmly but courteously reiterated, and supported by the overwhelming preponderance of American opinion, the answer, most gracefully express in Count von Bernstorff's note to Mr. Lansing, is unqualified acquiescence ;fo r the stipulation that liners carrying non-combatants shall not try to escape or offer resistance is merely the statement of a universally accepted rule of war.

Ten thousand words could add nothing to the simple announcement that President Wilson has succeeded in this controversy in preserving for our people peace with full honor. The strain is over, the cloud has passed; and it would be ungracious, in welcoming now the result for which The Sun has hoped from the first, not to recognize the debt of gratitude due to the good sense and high estimate of the value of American friendship which prevailed at Berlin over the strongest temptations of military expediency.

ROCHESTER

Approach Great Britain Now.

From The Rochester Herald.

Now that Germany shows some signs of being willing to abandon its barbarous methods and evidence of little respect for this country, in conformity to international law, we can with more grace approach Great Britain in the matter of its interference with our trade with the Continent of Europe. Perhaps Germany has at last sensed the value of this with relation to its own affairs. If so, it was a long while seeing the light.

BOSTON

Victory for Pacific Methods.

From The Boston Globe.

Germany's decision means a triumph of the principles for which the United States have all along been contending. It means a victory of the pacific method of settling the gravest of international disputes, and, assuming that Germany intends to live up to this pledge, it means that, once this controversy is disposed of, our Government will be footfree to turn its attention to England's interference with the rights of neutrals, no less vigorously.

A Splendid Vindication.

From The Boston Herald.

The Imperial German Government has exhibited slight regard for the sensibilities of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and other denouncers of elocution, as contrasted with action. For the President's Delphic phrase that some people are "too proud to fight," he has suffered many a jibe. All that the world now needs to know is that he did not fight when he might have done so, and that the aim of his endeavors, so far as American interests on the sea are concerned, has now been amply realized. This is a splendid vindication of the President's course. For his wisdom and patience in working out a troublesome complication he is entitled to the gratitude of his fellow-countrymen.

President's Imperishable Glory.

From The Springfield Republican.

To the everlasting honor of the United States, the issue has been squarely met and a complete triumph secored for the rights o fneutrals; and it is to the imperishable glory of President Wilson that in defending neutrals he has also vindicated the claims of civilization and humanity against a renascent barbarism.

HARTFORD

From The Hartford Courant.

Count von Bernstorff told Secretary Lansing that the German Government had authorized him to say that "liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning," &c. Liners are not the only merchantmen on the sea. In fact, they constitute a very small part of the world's shipping. Our contention has been that peaceful merchantmen must not be sunk without warning or without visit and search and opportunity for noncombatants to escape. Our contention was never limited to the big liners.

ALBANY

May Presage Peace Overtures.

From The Albany Press.

The statesmanship of President Wilson has triumphed in the controversy with Germany over submarine warfare. * * * It is a triumph that outshines the signal victory of Hamilton Fish when he induced the British Government to arbitrate the Alabama claims.

There will be nation-wide rejoicing today over the fact that Germany has at last seen the light. There may be even greater significance than appears on the surface in Germany's concessions. The conciliatory attitude of Germany, her abandonment of a policy of provocation of neutrals, may presage overtures for peace within a few months.

BALTIMORE

Inadequate Reparation.

From The Baltimore American.

While Germany's formal agreement to the demands of this Government regarding submarine warfare is a brilliant victory for President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, it is more than that. It is an open confession on the part of Germany that its undersea campaign has been in direct violation of international law. To this admission must be added the fact that it has been carried on with utter disregard of all laws of humanity.

The Kaiser's Government now indicates that it will be good enough and kind enough to pay damages for the sinking of the Lusitania and for the Arabic if satisfied that it too was the victim of a submarine. But what about the American lives sacrificed on both vessels? What about the innocent women and children murdered without a moments warning? What atonement does it propose to make for those it has wantonly put to death? Does Bethmann-Hollweg think that money can pay for these crimes, that the relatives of the dead can be satisfied with German coin, in exchange for the sorrow and suffering brought upon them? There must be a reckoning for this some day, and Germany must be mawe to understand that its promise to do so no more cannot be taken as a valid excuse for the atrocious crimes already committed.

A Diplomatic Triumph.

From The Baltimore Sun.

It may be that Germany has concluded that this concession is the best way to aid the Washington government to induce England to remove the ban on cotton. It may be that Germany has finally realized that the submarine warfare upon non-combatants, women and little children, is barbarism and if persisted in would make her an outlaw. But, be that as it may, the outcome is a diplomatic triumph which will bring enduring renown to the administration of Woodrow Wilson and put his critics—the war party and the pease-at-any-price party—to confusion.

The scene now shifts to England.

CHATTANOOGA

A Most Reassuring Phrase.

From The Chattanooga Times.

The issue is: Does Germany propose to comply with international law hereafter in her submarine warfare? The intimation that the Imperial Chancellor, with the aid of the Kaiser himself, has secured from Count von Tirpitz, head of the Admiralty, a modification of his naval program so far as it effects submarines is, however, a most reassuring phase of the situation, and appears to have been so fr authorized that Washington has been relieved from any present apprehension of an enforced break with Germany.

CHARLOTTE

Wilson Divinely Appointed Leader.

From The Charlotte Observer.

Germany appears to have come unreservedly out for all the contentions of the United States Government, and President Wilson's vindication is about as complete as it could be made. The position of the President of the United States today is immeasurably strong in the eyes of the world. The Observer is not given to irreverence, but, viewing the emergencies that have arisen cumulatively since Wilson was elected President, it is strengthened in the conviction that has possessed it for some time past that Wilson was a divinely appointed leader of the people of this country.

CINCINNATI

From The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Since this nation at no time has occupied an uncompromisingly bellicose position and has been more interested in securing results than in exploiting a fictitious dignity, the Government well may afford to forget the brusque and undiplomatic language of the German notes written at a time when the Wilhelmstrasse statesmen thought Uncle Sam was sitting in the game with a pair of deuces. Whether or not their original estimate was correct is immaterial. A bluff is as good as four aces so long as it isn't called, and somewhere in the inner subconsciousness of the Teutonic mind there must have been a doubt that it was altogether a bluff.

CLEVELAND

Triumph for All Neutrals.

From The Cleveland Leader.

The success of the United States in bringing about important modifications of the German submarine was is a triumph, of course, for all neutral countries. It is far wider and finer than any possible advantage limited to this republic alone. It is a gain for humanity, a vindication of those who have insisted that no power could be great enough to place its war time needs above the rights of neutrals. Beyond doubt the United States will now exert heavy pressure upon reat Britain and France and their allies for the further advantage of neutrals and the honor of mankind.

Answers Wilson's Critics.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Germany's complete acceptance of America's interpretation of international law relative to the activities of undersea craft furnishes a sufficient answer to two groups of critics in this country. On the one hand, the any-price pacificists, who have decried the Administration's insistence that belligerents should respect the rights of neutrals because it was provocative of war, see the folly of their stand. On the other hand the jingoes, who have criticised the Government's stand as cowardly because it has preferred diplomacy to noisy bluster, and who would have had this nation declare war as the only fit reply to the Lusitania and the Arabic incidents, may now observe the complete triumph of methods they deemed inadequate.

PHILADELPHIA

Fundamental Principle Recognized.

From The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"It appears to be a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended."

Such is the comment of the Secretary of State upon the note that the German Ambassador sent to him yesterday. There could hardly be a better statement of the case. There is no definite explanation or disavowal of the sinking of the Arabic, no formal apology for a "deliberately unfriendly act." But if Germany now redeems the pledge which the Ambassador has given, if no more liners are sunk by German submarines without warning and provision for the safety of non-combatants, then the point for which the Administration has so earnestly contended will have been gained.

Safety Methods the Problem.

From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

The crisis brought about by the sinking of the Arabic has been passed. If Germany sticks to the assurances which she has given the United States through her Ambassador at Washington, a great victory will have been won and what has constituted a serious menace to peace will have disappeared.

The position of the United States all along has been impregnable and unshakable. The victory is complete, so far as "principle" is concerned. We shall now see whether it is complete in the actual operations of the submarines. In what manner is safety of human life to be guaranteed? That is the vital question that applies to the future.

Will Thank God for Wilson.

From The Philadelphia Record.

The Amrican people will unanimously give to President Wilson the credit for bringing Germany to this point of view without involving their country in the horrors of war or sacrificing one ot or title of the national dignity or honor. They will thank God for the wisdom and the firmness of their President, whose efficient handling of the Ship of State has immeasurably increased American prestige, not as a bully among nations, but as the stanch defender of justice.

INDIANAPOLIS

All Danger Not Removed.

From The Indianapolis Star.

It remains to be seen whether attacks on the passenger vessels will cease or how, if they are continued, the plan of giving time for passengers to take to the boats will work. Under such circumstances, even while it may be true that the submarines do not accomplish much toward ending the war, it is unlikely that the service will be given up, and, unless Americans are willing to take the risk of getting into small boats in mid-ocean and losing all their baggage, to say nothing of their lives, they will prudently hesitate before embarking under the British flag on a transatlantic journey.

KANSAS CITY

Service for All Humanity.

From The Kansas City Star.

The great service that Mr. Wilson will have rendered to the American people is doubly enhanced by the fact that it was a service performed for all humanity, in the name of humanity. The highest ideals, not only of the American Republic but of civilization, were contended for by the American President. They have been conceded, as it now appears, by the Imperial Government. That this great result will have been reached without a serious break in international relations will bring deep satisfaction to the United States.

PITTSBURG

Three Classes Discredited.

From The Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Germany having admitted the legitimacy of our demands, where does this leave those loud-voiced members of our home guard who have been consistently virulent critics of their country's course? There have been three classes of these critics: The pro-Germans, who in any dispute hastened to give the benefit of the doubt to the Fatherland; the jingoes, who howled for war without waiting for the aggressor to explain or justify or offer disavowal and reparation and who condemned the American Administration's policy before giving it a chance to make good; and the peace-at-any-price folk, who wanted President Wilson to back down for fear he might plunge the Nation into war. Now by Germany's action all three classes have been thoroughly discredited.

ST. LOUIS

Great Victory for Wilson.

From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

That this is a victory, a great victory, for the United States, for the American people and for President Wilson cannot be disputed. We could very easily have been drawn into a war over this matter. All the elements of a conflagration were present, and it but needed the touching of a match to se he country aflame. That the match was not struck is largely due to the clam, deliberate course of the President. Firmly, courageously and skillfully, he upheld the cause of government and the cause of humanity, and he won, as he deserved to win, for right was on his side.

The Better Germany.

From The St. Louis Republic.

Led by Woodrow Wilson, the United States has won a great victory for law and order. Germany, in acceding to our demands, has just awakened to her better self. This is the Germany whom we have known so long, with whom we have been friends for years.

The greatest thing that Germany could do today would be to repudiate and abandon the other practices by which she has alienated the sympathy of the neutral world, to disavow and make all possible reparation for her sin against Belgium.

DETROIT

Danger of a Rupture Over.

From The Detroit Free Press.

It would be a master stroke of diplomacy if, in return for abandonment of a comparatively ineffective means of reprisal, Germany could succeed in having her import trade restored through the aid of the United States. Taking the von Bernstorff letter at its face value, however, it indicates that the crisis in our relations with Germany has passed and that no further alarm need be felt over the situation. Whether the note is a complete disclosure of all the circumstances, or whether it covers unrevealed negotiations for aid to the Kaiser's Government by bringing American pressure to bear on Great Britain in behalf of Germany's ends, it could not have been written or accepted after all that has gone before it except with at least the tacit understanding that the two powers are no longer at odds over the Lusitania and Arabic incidents. The danger of a rupture with Germany must be over.

ST. PAUL

Will Bring Deep Relief.

From The St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Germany, her eyes at last opened to the enormity of her error, has withdrawn from a position impossible to a civilized nation, and we are of course satisfied. Having expressly recognized the justice of our position, reparation for the loss of American lives must come as a matter of course.

Thus ends the German embroglio. Thus the shadow of the European war, which has hovered perilously near these shores since last May, again recedes. To every American jealous of his country's honor, yet earnestly desiring to remain at peace with Germany, the news will bring deep relief.

RICHMOND

The Impossible Achieved.

From the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

We are perfectly willing to confess that the triumph of the President's patient diplomacy has attained what appeared to us impossible—we have said so on several occasions—but never before have we waked with more agreeable surprise to a conclusion of our own error. The President was wiser than the mass of his countrymen; his perfect faith is justified in attaining result. That Germany yielded awkwardly and unwillingly detracts nothing from the completeness of the President's triumph.

Bryan in the Nine Hole.

From The Richmond Evening Journal.

Germany yields on every point in controversy with us because Germany was wrong on every point. The Emperor's Government assumed positions it could not defend by any precedent or by any rule of morals. It was condemned by its own record. The result is a wonderfully complete triumph for the policies and methods of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing. It puts Mr. Bryan in the nine hole about as completely as any distinguished gentleman ever occupied that orifice.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

As Gratifying as Unexpected.

From The Arizona Republican.

The so-called German acceptance of the American interpretation of international law as applied to submarine warfare is only slightly more definite than Germany's second note on the Lusitania affair that led President Wilson to believe thare would be no repetition of that incident. Washington was, therefore, shocked when it heard of the sinking of the Arabic. While Germany does not expressly disavow the act of the commander of the submarine that sank the Arabic we have the statement that orders previous to that inciden had been given agains the sinking of passenger vessels without warning. So much acquiescence on the part of Germany is now as gratifying as it was geerally unexpected.

SAN FRANCISCO

Jingoism, Put Out of Business.

From The San Francisco Chronicle.

The so-called war cloud which was thought to be hanging over America has been completely dispelled and is now only a remembrance of the hare-brained jingoism in which it originated. Instead of a conflict, we are nearer than ever to a friendly understanding with Germany, England, Russia, and France, the countries whose actions caused such a stir in United States diplomacy. With our European relations in so satisfactory a condition, the only atmosphere of militarism in America is the vaporings of the alarmist clamoring for preparation on a scale which might easily prove a direct incentive to participation in foreign disputes. As for jingoism, it has been put completely out of business by the conciliatory attitude of European diplomacy.

GERMAN-AMERICAN PRESS COMMENTS

Gratified That Historic Friendship With Fatherland is Not to be Broken.

Following are comments of German-American newspapers on the latest turn in the controversy of the United States with Germany:

Cementing Bond of Friendship.

From The Colorado Herold (Denver.)

Germany's acquiescence in the principles set forth by President Wilson will go a good way toward again cementing the bond of friendship long existing between ermany and the United States, and, in effect, it will probably dispel all the war clouds that have been hanging so heavy of late and whose presence was seized upon by the jingoists to make bad matters worse. Coincident with the amicable settlement of these differences, the slump of the English pound may have a tendency to curtail the exportation of munitions to the Allies—whose financial sponsor England is and has been—and this will further the cause of pacification and perhaps peace.

Germany Magnanimous.

From The Cincinnati Volksblatt.

Germany has yielded more than one point to preserve peace with our country. This is in keeping with her conduct in the past. She fights heroically when pushed to the wall, but welcomes every opportunity to avoid war. We hope that the American public will appreciate her peaceful disposition and that the President will now insist England shall no longer outrage our maritime rights and our national honor.

German-American Press Comment Shelved by Mutual Concessions.

From The New York German Herold.

We are glad that the submarine issue between America and Germany has been shelved—we hope for good. Both parties have yielded to some extent. Mr. Wilson in his note of May 13 seemed inclined to extend the protection of the United States to all neutrals on board of vessels belonging to belligerents. In the later notes he confined his demands to the security of American citizens only. In his first notes he used the word "humanity" a great deal, more than might be expected from the chief of a nation whose principal ambition it is to become a base of supplies for warring nations. But the last note very properly restricts itself to the tenets of international law.

The agreement of the United States and Germany augurs well for further amicable relations between the two nations. We hardly need suggest that they may become closer if Mr. Wilson is able to overcome his pro-British leanings to such an extent that in his dealings with England he shows a little of the firmness which we found in his correspondence with Germany.

NEW RUMOR OF U BOAT'S LOSS.

Washington Convinced of Fate of Arabic's Destroyer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—In a semi-authoritative way, it was said at the State Department today that the only information the department had received with respect to the statements that the German submarine which destroyed the Arabic had been hunk, was that the British Admiralty had heard such a report. These statements, it was indicated, had not been confirmed. But State Department officials acknowledged today that a report was received from Ambassador Page at London on the day after the sinking of the Arabic indicating that a German submarine had been destroyqed near the scene of the Arabic disaster.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent feels justified in stating that information of a more positive character has reached Washington in an unofficial way, and this seems to leave no doubt that the German submarine was sunk. How any German submarine sent to the bottom by a British vessel could be identified as the one that destroyed the Arabic is not clear, but one suggestion is that some of the submarine's crew were rescued and told that their vessel had attacked the Arabic.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Admiralty has given out no information concerning the fate of the German submarine which sank the Arabic. Whether such information is in its possession is unknown, as it is the policy of the Admiralty to withhold news of this character.

Unofficial reports that the submarine has been sunk are being circulated widely. It is said that the craft attempted to torpedo the British steamer Nicosian, which arrived at Liverpool from New Orleans on Aug. 24, five days after the Arabic went down. According to this account, the Nicosian escaped and the submarine, while attempting to sink her, fell victim to a patrol boat.

has filled the world with indignation and has been an utter failure. The damage wrought to British trade has been inconsiderable, and the enemy is doubtless glad to have an excuse for abandoning a method of warfare that cost more than it was worth and has covered the German name with ignominy.

"Moreover, Germany cannot afford to add to the ranks of her enemies. She dare not quarrel with the United States. We need not, therefore, attribute her change of policy to repentance and change of heart. It is the result of fear and failure. If it had been a success Germany would never have surrendered."

BRITISH SAY FOES SUPPRESS WAR DATA

IT ASSURED NEUTRALITY

Promised That England Would Not Land Troops Unless Another Power Invaded.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—In a rejoinder to recent German allegations in the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung relating to the origin of the war, the British Foreign Office gives out a statement in which it intimates that an important document in the case, known to the rest of the world, has been suppressed in Germany.

The full text of the statement follows:

"First—The Germans maintain that the reason which led to the rejection of the proposal for a conference was the mobilization of Russia. In Paper No. 43 of our White Book, Sir E. Goschen (British Ambassador at Berlin) reported a conversation with the German Secretary of State, refusing a conference.

"The Secretary of State said that the suggested conference would practically amount to a court of arbitration and could not, in his opinion, be called together except at the request of Austria and Russia. He maintained that such a conference was not practicable. He further said that if Russia mobilized against Germany the latter would have to follow suit. As when he refused a conference he referred to the possibility of Russian mobilization, it cannot now be maintained that the reason for the refusal was the fact that Russia was mobilizing.

"As a matter of fact, the proposal for a conference was made July 26, 1914, and was refused by Germany July 27, 1914, while it was not until July 1 that orders were given for a general mobilization in Russia. On that day Germany presented an ultimatum to Russia requiring an undertaking that within twelve hours the Russian forces should be demobilized.

"Second—Doubt is thrown in Germany on the assurance we gave Belgium in 1913 that we should not land troops in that country except in the case of violation of its territory by any other power. Assurance was not only given to the Belgian Minister, but Sir F. Villiers gave Sir E. Grey's record of it to the Belgian Government at the time. This assurance appeared in the collected diplomatic documents. Why is it doubted? It is because the Germans have not allowed the reproduction of the document which is so damning to their case.

"Third—The final interview between Sir Edward Grey and Prince Lichnowsky (German Ambassador at London.) This interview, purely private, was held at a private house, and no record was made of it, but Sir Edward Grey is certain that he never made the statement quoted by the North German Gazette (Allgemeire Zeitung) with regard to the decisive factor in Great Britain's participation in the war, nor did he speak of mediation in favor of Germany. If need be, a fuller statement will be made in Parliament on the subject.

"Fourth—The immediate cause of this war was the dispute between Austria and Serbia, which then turned into a dispute between Austria and Russia. Yet it is worthy of note that it was Germany who declared war against Russia and France. The Austrian Ambassador remained in Petrograd after the German Ambassador left. Germany declared war on Russia on Aug. 1, and Austria on Aug. 6, 1914."

HAVENITH DEFENDS THE HONOR OF BELGIUM

Minister Denies That She Had a Military Convention With England.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Apropos of the reiterated German charges that Belgium had violated her neutrality before the German invasion, E. Havenith, the Belgian Minister, has issued this statement:

"The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the official organ of the German Government, publishes an answer to Sir Edward Grey's open letter. The former answer states that the Chancellor never said that Belgium sold her neutrality to England, but asserted that it had been proved by documents that Belgium had fostered British military plans, thus herself violating her neutrality. The article points out that the discussion of all eventualities by British and Belgian military officers must have been reported to the British Cabinet. Documents found in Brussels, it is asserted, show conclusively that the British Military Attaché coolly told his Belgian colleague that Great Britain would land troops in Belgium, without Belgium's consent, and that Belgium never had protested against this, having decided not to resist a British violation of Belgian neutrality; but that upon the mere supposition that the German invasion was possible, the Belgian Government prepared complete plans for co-operation with British forces. Such a country, it is declared, is not a neutral country.

"It would appear superfluous to return to a question which has been already decided by the common sense of the world. But the Belgian Legation thinks it its duty to call attention to the manifest discrepancy between the official German statement and the well-known and established facts. The statement asserts that Belgium never protested against the British Military Attaché's declaration that Great Britain would land troops in Belgium without Belgium's consent. What are the facts? The document published by the German Chancellor himself proves the contrary. This document refers to a conversation between the British Military Attaché and General Jungbluth of the Belgian Army, in which the former said that the British troops would effect a landing in case of invasion by Germany even if we (the Belgians) did not ask for assistance. To this, the Belgian General replied that our (Belgium's) consent was necessary, and he added that we (the Belgians) were, moreover, perfectly able to prevent the Germans from passing through Belgium.

"What could be clearer proof than this that there was no military convention concluded between England and Belgium?

"In addition to this document must be cited Sir Edward Grey's dispatch to the British Minister to Belgium, dated April 7, 1913, in which the British statesman declares:

"In speaking to the Belgian Minister today, I said, speaking unofficially, that it had been brought to my knowledge that there was apprehension in Belgium lest we should be the first to violate Belgium's neutrality. I did not think that apprehension could have come from a British source. The Belgian Minister informed me that there had been talk from a British source which he could not name, of the landing of troops in Belgium by Great Britain, in order to anticipate a possible despatch of German troops through Belgium to France. I said that I was sure that this Government would not be the first to violate the neutrality of Belgium, and I did not believe that any British Government would be the first to do so, nor would public opinion here ever approve of it. What we had to consider—and it was a somewhat embarrassing question—was what it would be desirable and necessary for us, as one of the guarantors of Belgium's neutrality, to do, if Belgian neutrality was violated by any Power. For us to be the first to violate it and to send troops into Belgium would be to give Germany, for instance, justification for sending troops into Belgium also. What we desired in the case of Belgium, as in that of other neutral countries, was that their neutrality should be respected, and as long as it was not violated by any other Power, we would certainly not send troops ourselves into their territory.

"The Chancellor bases his accusations against Belgium of having violated her neutrality on the fact that the military attachés mentioned the possibility of military operations in case Germany attacked Belgium. With equal justice a murderer could plead that his victim was justly put to death because friends of his had been heard talking to him of coming to his help in case he were assaulted."

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOR WAR WRITINGS

British Correspondent of American Newspapers Sentenced—Is of German Parentage.

MANCHESTER, England, Sept. 1.—Theodore Sington, a British journalist of German parentage, was sentenced today to six months in jail for writing for American newspapers matter "calculated to prejudice the relations of the British Government with neutral countries."

HELD UP AN AMERICAN BARK.

German Submarine Forces Explanations from Ruth Stark's Skipper.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—The American bark Ruth Stark of Boston was held up by a German submarine while bound from Liverpool for this port on Aug. 3. According to Captain Rawding, the submarine fired first what was probably meant as a warning for her to heave to, but a second shot, he said, appeared to be aimed at his vessel.

Soon afterward the submarine came alongside and after learning the identity of the bark and her destination permitted her to proceed.

The bark was carrying 700 tons of salt, and was 150 miles off Cape Clear, Ireland, when she was stopped. At the time her commander said there were two British torpedo boat destroyers within three miles of his ship. The Ruth Stark flew the American flag and American flags were painted on either side of her hull.

The bark had all her canvas set when the warning shot was fired. The Captain immediately ordered that the sails be lowered as quickly as possible. This was accomplished with difficulty, because of the heavy sea, and the sailors were doing their best with the canvas when, according to the commander, a second shot was fired, seemingly at the bark. hTis, if intended for the American vessel, went wide of the mark, and presently the submarine came alongside. The commander of the German vessel questioned Captain Rawling concerning his destination and cargo, and then told him to go on his way. The bark left Boston with a cargo of lumber for Liverpool on May 12, and began her return voyage Aug. 1.

PEGOUD KILLED IN MID-AIR.

Received Fatal Wound in a Battle with German Aviator.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The death in action of Adolphe Pégoud, the famous aviator, has been confirmed.

The news has caused sincere sorrow among the French people, who regarded him as a hero.

It is stated that Pégoud, unaccompanied, was making a reconnaissance. When close to Petite Croix he attacked a German aeroplane. He had fired several cartridge bands with his machine gun, when a bullet struck him, killing him instantly. His machine fell inside the French lines.

FORBIDS MUNITION WORK.

Dual Monarchy Threatens Subjects Who Indirectly Aid Allies.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 1, (via London.)—Following the example of Germany, the Austro-Hungarian Government now announces, according to the Frankfurter Zeitung, that all Austriasn and Hungarians in neutral countries, particularly the United States, are warned not to work in factories producing war material for enemies of the Dual Monarchy.

This newspaper says that violation of this decree is punishable by imprisonment of ten to twenty years, and even by capital punishment under certain conditions.

FRANCE TO DELAY MAILS.

Seeks to Prevent Forwarding of Military Intelligence.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—All transatlantic mail will be held hereafter by the French postal authorities for two days before being forwarded. An order to this effect was issued today. It applies also to English, French, and Swiss mails. The purpose is to delay the forwarding of letters which may contain military intelligence.

CLEARINGS AT KIRKWALL.

The Nordhaven and Siem Held—Three Other Steamers Freed.

LONDON, Aug. 30, (Delayed by Censor.)—The Danisht steamer Nordvalen, from Jacksonville for Nord-Sundby, with a cargo of rock phosphate, and the Danish steamer John Siem, from Baltimore for Copenhagen, with a cargo of wheat, have been detained at Kirkwall.

The Norwegian steamer Glitra, which was taken into Kirkwall in July by the British authorities, has been released.

The American tank steamers Pioneer and Platuria, after being held at Kirkwall for examination, have been released.

GERMAN WAR LOAN PLANS.

Terms for Subscription and Payment Announced in Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 1, (by Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—"Subscriptions and payments for bonds of the new German war loan will be accepted by post offices for the accommodation of small subscribers," the Overseas News Agency says today. "Other subscriptions are payable thirty per cent. on Oct. 18, twenty per cent. on Nov. 24, twenty-five per cent. on Dec. 22 and the remaining twenty-five per cent. on Jan. 22. War loan bonds are being dealt in on the Stock Exchange above par, indicating a satisfactory condition of the money markets.

"In advance of the official time for opening subscriptions the Continental Catoutchou Company of Hanover has subscribed for $5,000,000 worth of war loan bonds on its own account and $1,000,000 worth for its Directors and employes and pension fund."

FLY ACROSS SWISS FRONTIER

Five German Aeroplanes Violate Neutrality; One Alights and Escapes

GENEVA, Sept. 1, (via Paris.)—German aviators violated Swiss territory yesterday for the fourth time. Five German military aeroplanes flew inside the Swiss frontier opposite the French town of Delle.

Although under fire from French artillery, the aeroplanes turned back. One damaged machine came down near the Swiss village of Buix, but afterward took to the air and escaped toward Alsace.

EXPLOSION BURNS 6 IN MUNITIONS PLANT

MANY GERMANS EMPLOYED

Accident Followed Mysterious Fire and Suicide of Two Watchmen —Fear Strike Now.

An explosion in the sheet room of the National Conduit and Cable Company plant yesterday rocked the big foundry, where ammunition is being made for the Allies, from end to end, and resulted in injuries to six men. Patrick Martin was removed to the Dobbs Ferry Hospital in a serious condition. After the explosion a rumor was circulated that an attempt had been made to destroy the factory with a bomb which some pro-German agitator had hurled into a vat of boiling metal.

Investigation showed that a pot of hot metal had fallen from a crane into a puddle of water on the floor of the sheet room. The contact with the cold water caused the pot to burst and discharge a shower of steaming fluid, which fell upon and burned the six men who were in the room at the time. Dr. Frank R. Lyman attended the injured employes.

Nearly 4,000 men are employed in the foundry and among them are many Austrians and Germans. Several weeks ago two German watchmen employed in the foundry, Christopher Detchler and Gustav Groth, committed suicide, and it was reported at the time that they ended their lives because they could not endure employment in a factory where ammunition was being manufactured for the Allies.

Another circumstance which inspired belief in the bomb report yesterday was a fire which occurred in the foundry three weeks ago and destroyed the switchboard regulating the distribution of electrical power through the plant. The cause of this fire was not discovered.

The National Conduit and Cable Company manufactures metal cups, or disks, of brass and copper, which are shipped abroad and pressed into cartridge shells. The main foundry is being supplemented by five big new factories, which will result in the employment of an additional force of 2,000 men and 500 girls.

Certain evidences of a strike agitation have already manifested themselves. It is reported that J. J. Keppler, Vice President of the International Association of Machinists, in an address to be delivered at McCann's Hall in Yonkers tomorrow will launch an active movement for an eight-hour day and an increased wage rate in the National Conduit and Cable Company plant.

MAY HALT MUNITIONS PLANT

Yonkers and Hastings Machinists Agitating for Eight-Hour Day.

Returning from Bridgeport, where he had been directing the machinists in their efforts to get more pay, J. J. Keppler, President of the International Union of Machinists, will come to Yonkers on Friday night to address a meeting of machinists in McCann's Hall.

It is said that many of the machinists in Yonkers and Hastings have become dissatisfied with their wages recently, and they have asked Keppler to talk over conditions with their own officials.

None of the machinists will admit talking strike. It is said they will demand an eight-hour day and 40 cents an hour, with time and a half for overtime and double time for Sunday work.

There are a number of small shops in Yonkers, but at Hastings is the big plant of the American Conduit and Cable Company, where about 500 machinists are now employed, working night and day on war orders. If a strike occurs, it will affect about 4,000 persons.

The National people have recently begun the erection of five new buildings to take care of orders for munitions. It is planned to employ about 500 girls and 2,000 more men when these buildings are completed.

Although the National plant is an "open shop" there are many union machinists working there, and it is said that recently efforts have been made to get others into the union.

TELL OF STRIKES WON.

Machinists Give List of Plants That Granted Eight-Hour Day.

Officials of the International Association of Machinists issued yesterday from their offices at 116 Nassau Street a summary of the results of the first three months of the metal workers' campaign for an eight-hour day. The machinists say that the eight-hour day, without wage reduction, has been obtained in the following plants:

Remington Arms and Ammunition Company—Bridgeport, Conn., and Ilion, N. Y.

Winchester Repeating Arms Company—New Haven, Conn., with 10 per cent. wage increase.

E. W. Bliss Company, Brooklyn.

Scott Printing Press Company, Hall Printing Press Company, Vitaphone Company, Bosch Company, all of Plainfield, N. J.

Pond Machine Tool Company of Plainfield, with a 25 per cent. wage increase, and the Sauer plant of the National Motor Company at Plainfield, with a 20 per cent. increase. This also applies to the Mack Motor Truck Company of Allentown, Penn., owned by the same interests.

National Tool Company, Boston.

Wheeling Can Company, Wheeling, W. Va.

Hendee Manufacturing Company of Springfield, Mass., granted a fifty-hour week with 10 per cent. wage increase.

"The strike at the American-La France Fire Engine Company's plant at Elmira, N. Y., has been settled on a compromise basis," the statement says. "All strikers are to return to work; nine hours are to constitute a day's work, the wage question to be settled by arbitration."

BACKS UP TAILORS' STRIKE.

International Body Sanctions Action of New York Union.

The strike of the 20,000 ladies' tailors and dressmakers will have the support of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. This action by the International was decided last night at a conference between a committee of the General Executive Board of the International and the Executive Committee of the Ladies' Tailors' and Dressmakers' Union, Local 38. Acting Secretary Samuel Lefkowitz and Vice Presidents Solomon Metz and Jacob Halpern represented the International.

"The manufacturers have taken advantage of the workers' weak organization," said Mr. Lefkowits, "until conditions have become so bad that all are ready to revolt. If the manufacturers do not grant the union's demands there is no alternative but the general strike in the 600 shops of New ork."

Mott Shell Makers Strike.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 1.—The action of thirty brass finishers, employed in the L. L. Mott Iron Works here, in going on strike this afternoon, may rseult in about 600 men being thrown out of work, as it will be impossible to operate the plant. The concern is filling about $5,000,000 worth of orders for shells for the Allies, and the plant is being run night and day. An addition to the plant is under construction. The brass finishers were told yesterday that beginning today they would have to accept a reduction in piece work, which meant they would have to do the same work for less money.

BOTH SIDES ATTACK IN WESTERN WAR AREA

French Shell Germans' Aisne and Champagne Fronts; Silence Argonne Batteries.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Heavy artillery and trench guns bore the brunt of today's fighting on the Western front. Last night the Germans employed asphyxiating gas bombs in preparing an attack on trenches in the Vosges, but the French maintained their positions.

The French War Office issued this statement tonight:

Artillery actions have occurred in the sector to the North of Arras and in the regions of Roye and Quennevières.

The enemy has thrown some shells on Soissons and Rheims, and our artillery has directed a very efficacious fire against the enemy trenches on the Aisne and Champagne fronts.

In the Argonne the Germans during the course of the day bombarded our front on several occasions with bomb-throwers and guns of various calibers, particularly between the Ravine of La Houyette and La Fontaine-Aux-charmes. Our batteries and our trench guns replied and silenced the guns of the enemy.

In the Vosges there has been a rather violent cannonading in the Ban-de-Sapt and at Combekopf.

On the night of Aug. 28-29 our aeroplanes bombarded the German installations at Ostend, the cantonment at Middelkerke and the station at Thourout.

Enemy aeroplanes have dropped bombs on Lunéville. It is reported that there were some victims among the civil population.

Following is the French afternoon statement:

Several artillery actions were reported in the course of the night around Neuville-St. Vaast, in the region of Roye and in that of Ouberive on the Suippes.

In the Argonne there was violent cannonading yesterday to the North of Fontaine Houyette and on the Chevauchée heights. During the night it was calm.

In the Vosges, after a bombardment with asphyxiating gas bombs, the enemy last evening launched against our trenches at Linge and Schratzmannele a violent attack. We maintained our positions. At midnight a new German attack was also repulsed.

The Berlin War Office announces:

AUSTRIANS ACTIVE IN ARTILLERY ATTACKS

Italians Repulse Them, But Think They Mask a New Offensive.

ROME, Sept. 1, (via Paris, Thursday, Sept. 2.)—The official statement issued by the Italian General Headquarters under date of Sept. 1 and made public tonight, says:

On the upper Noce River our artillery opened fire on the enemy intrenchments constructed opposite the position recently conquered by us at the head of the Strino Valley. Well placed shells damaged the intrenchments and compelled the defenders to abandon a portion of them.

The enemy's artillery on Monte Panarota, in Val Sugana, renewed the bombardment of Borgo, now deserted, and batteries posted in the environs of Cherz, in the Cordevole Valley, opened fire on Caprile, damaging the hospital.

In the Plezzo (Flitsch) basin our adversary has thrown a number of inflammable shrapnel bombs on the houses, causing fresh fires.

During the night of the 31st the enemy began an attack on our positions on the slopes of Bombon, but did not go beyond directing an intense artillery and rifle fire on them.

On the Carso front late on the night of the 30th, during a violent storm, the enemy made two attacks by the light of volleys of brilliant rockets, but our troops were able, thanks to a well-controlled fire, to repulse both attacks. During reconnaissances pushed well up to the enemy's lines we were able to observe that the enemy was engaged in replacing the men lining the trenches by fresh troops who arrived during the last few days.

The unaccu The unaccustomed activity shown by the enemy in the form of artillery and rifle fire and bomb-throwing seems intended to mask a movement of troops.

GERMANY DECIDES A WAGER.

Sends a Letter from a Soldier at the Front to the Waldorf-Astoria.

A sheet of Waldorf-Astoria stationery that reached the hotel yesterday from the western battle front of the European war decided a bet and made Eugene Ensinger, Captain of the third-floor waiters, happy because it bore news from his nephew in the German Army.

Ensinger was arguing with some of his associates in June as to the possibility of communicating with anybody in the German Army. The theory was advanced that to send a letter and get an answer to it was next to impossible.

"I will write to my nephew and get an answer," asserted Ensinger.

"But how could it be established that the letter you might receive was an answer to the one you wrote?" he was asked.

"I will send a blank sheet of Waldorf note paper, and I will stamp on it the date by the office stamp," returned nEsigner.

A committee accompanied the Captain to the office, where, with due formality, the stamp was put on. That was on June 4.

When a month had passed and no reply had come, the man who had made the wager with Ensinger, began to make a demand for payment, but Ensinger was confident of winning. He was happy yesterday when out of an envelope, covered with the impressions of rubber stamps and queer-looking legends in German—not to mention a 10-cent due stamp—he drew a letter from his nephew, written on the shee of Waldorf paper sent to him. The letter came from Arras.

HORSE MEAT FOR ENGLAND.

Belgian Refugees Spreading Custom of Eating Equine Flesh.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The colonization of groups of Belgian refugees in various parts of England has brought with it the butcher shop for the sale of horse meat. The horse-butcher has hitherto been almost unknown in England, except in a few of the poorer quarters of London.

Three horse-meat shops have just been opened in Glasgow. Steaks are sold at 10 to 12 cents a pound, sausage at 10 cents a pound; pickled and smoked cuts are 14 cents. A Belgian butcher's shop at Stirling will give away several cartloads of horse meat to the English people of the town in the hope of popularizing their goods among a wider class.

There are probably twenty horse butchers' shops in London. Under the law, it is legal for any butcher to sell horse meat provided that a permanent notice is exhibited at the front of the shop to that effect, and provided also that the customers ask for or are informed that they are receiving such meat.

Carpenters Strike in Jersey.

Some 2,500 carpenters went on strike in Newark yesterday for an increase of 50 cents ada y in their wages. The strikers are under the jurisdiction of the Newark District Council of Carpenters and Joiners. It was said that many of the employers had agreed to grant the demands and that about 550 men would return to work. The strike involves union carpenters in Nutley, Irvington, Arlington, Harrison, Belleville and Kearny. By the increase the carpenters will receive $4.50 a day.

has been forced back across the marsh district.

Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen—Our pursuit continues. Wherever the enemy has made a stand he has been defeated.

Southeastern theatre of war—The troops of General Count von Bothmer, in the face of stubborn resistance by the enemy, stormed heights on the banks of the Stripa, north of Zborow, overcoming a temporary delay after a repulse of the enemy's resistance.

During the month of August the number of prisoners taken by German troops in the eastern and southeastern theatres of war, and the quantities of war materials captured during the same period, totaled more than 2,000 officers and 269,839 men taken prisoner, and 2,300 cannon and 560 machine guns taken.

Of these 20,000 prisoners and 827 cannon were taken at Kovno. About 90,000 prisoners, including fifteen Generals and more than 1,000 other officers, and 1,200 cannon and 150 machine guns were taken at Novo Georgievsk. The counting up of the cannon and machine guns taken at Novo Georgievsk has not yet been finished, however, while the count of machine guns taken at Kovno has not yet begun. The figures quoted as totals, therefore, will be considerably increased.

The stock of ammunition, provisions, and oats in the two fortresses cannot be estimated.

The number of prisoners taken by German and Austro-Hungarian troops since May 2, when the Spring campaign in Galicia began, has therefore increased to considerably more than 1,000,000.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The official communication made public by the War Office tonight says:

On the Riga-Dvinsk front the enemy during the course of Aug. 30 and 31 only showed activity in the region of Friedrichstadt, where there is no important change in the situation.

On the right bank of the Viliya we have continued to advance successfully, and during the 30th captured four guns and machine guns from the Germans. Between the Viliya and the Niemen the enemy, developing his offensive, occupied Orany.

On the right bank of the Meretchanka River the fighting is still of the same desperate character. One of our regiments which had been surrounded by the enemy broke through and annihilated a German battalion, taking seventy prisoners, including one officer.

In the district west of Grodno, on the 31st we repulsed a series of vigorous attacks by the Germans.

On the remainder of the front there is no important change in the disposition of our forces as far as the Pripet River.

In the direction of Lutsk and in Galicia we are holding the enemy while withdrawing to a less extended front, but at the same time inflicting heavy losses on the enemy's troops.

The total Austro-Germans made prisoner exceeds 100 officers and 7,000 men, of whom one-third are Germans, including some dozens of subalterns.

The enemy made most stubborn attacks during Aug. 30-31 in the districts of Radziechow, Zolvtcheff, Zborow and Bourkanoff on the Stripa and at Boutchatch. The enemy was repulsed everywhere, suffering enormous losses. In the region of Zborow the enemy made a series of repeated attacks, which were followed by counter-offensives on our side. The fighting in the region of Bourkanoff and Boutchatch also has been remarkable for its fierceness.

Here we repulsed numerous attacks by our fire and at the point of the boyonet. At some points the enemy was unable to stand the hand-to-hand fighting and withdrew to his trenches, leaving prisoners in our hands.

GERMANS SEE ODESSA AS GREAT OBJECTIVE

Asking Whether Their Armies Should Strike There, at Petrograd, or Against Italy.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The Chicago Daily News prints the following dispatch from a correspondent in Posen under today's date:

"Petrograd realizes more keenly than any other part of the world hod demoralized are the harassed and driven armies of the Czar. It is known that the Russian capital is already in the early stages of evacuation in view of the expected fall of Riga. If the latter city is captured by the Germans panic will reign in Petrograd.

"But will the German forces actually strike next at the Czar's capital?

"Politics and not military strategy may decide the objective of the next offensive movement by the German forces. The main Russian armies are apparently in a hopeless position in the Pripet swamps and the Bjalowiss forests and are ready to fall to pieces."

"Shall Germany's victorious armies strike at Petrograd or Odessa?

Petrograd would be the centre of the world's attention if the German armies marched toward it, but even the capture of Petrograd would hardly bring the Russians to their knees.

"To attack Odessa would mean the establishment of a German line of communication to the Black Sea around the Balkan States; it would also establish connections with Turkey and definitely end the doubt about the outcome of the fighting at the Dardanelles by making impossible further progress there by the Allies.

"The next possibility is a real offensive against Italy. So far the Austrians have only taken a defensive position toward the Italians and have suffered small losses in their attacks upon their mountain strongholds.

"On the west fronts the biggest objective is Calais, but the eastern war zones have gradually assumed greater importance. Here the German and Austrian forces are pounding away relentlessly, and terrible fighting is now in progress in the Russian swamps and forests."

RUSSIAN WAR EXPENSES $3,621,000,000 IN 1915

Plans Foreign Loan and More Paper Money to Meet Deficit Due to Conflict.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 1, (via London.)—The Finance Committee of the Duma presented a bill yesterday extending the rights of the State Bank to issue paper money. The committee report discussed the entire problem of meeting war expenses, stating that the sums needed were so large that all possible sources of revenue must be used—taxation, internal credit operations, an issue of paper money, and foreign loans.

"For 1915," the report stated, "the estimated war expenses are 7,242,000,000 rubles ($3,621,000,000), and other expenses $1,423,500,000, making a total of more than $5,000,000,000.

"The revenue from ordinary receipts is estimated at $1,398,000,000,* while credit operations up to the present time have yielded $2,090,500,000, leaving more than $1,500,000,000 yet to be provided.

"The Government must prepare the ground for another important loan in foreign markets to pay for material purchased abroad, but in view of our agreement with our allies there is no doubt of our success. In the whole financial history of Russia there never has been a moment's delay in paying creditors."

Regarding the proposed development of the issue of paper money the report said:

"Compared with other nations, Russia holds the greatest cover in gold for her paper money, with the possible exception of Great Britain."

Minister of Finance Bark, supporting the report of the committee, said that in spite of the exploitation of internal credit to a degree hitherto unprecedented, amounting to a total of more than $1,500,000,000, Russia possessed immense reserves of savings, of which the Government intends soon to make use. The Government is increasing the number of savings banks and simplifying and facilitating their use by the people.

German Official Review Says Prisoners Are 1,100,000; Killed and Wounded 300,000.

BERLIN, Sept. 1, (by Telegraph to Sayville, L. I.)—An official review of the eastern campaign, as given out here today by the Overseas News Agency, estimates that since May 2 the Russians have lost at least 300,000 men in killed or wounded and 1,100,000 men captured by the Germans.

The announcement from the Overseas Agency is as follows:

"General Army Headquarters publishes a review of the results of offensive movements in Poland and Russia since May 2, beginning with the battle at Gorlice. Army Headquarters estimates the strength of the Russian troops which were then directly engaged in that region was about 1,400,000. In the fighting since May 2, 1,100,000 have been captured and a minimum of 300,000 wounded or killed. This is a very conservative estimate. The actual figures are surely much higher, because the Russians saved artillery by recklessly sacrificing their infantry. It is thus evident that the armies which were first attacked at the beginning of the Austro-German offensive movement have been annihilated and their losses made up by withdrawing troops from other regions, especially forces which were ready to invade Turkey.

"Garrisons of half-drilled men were hurriedly transported to the front from interior fortresses. All efforts of the Russians were fruitless, however. They were driven out of Galicia, Poland, Courland, and Lithuania. They were rolled backward in two separate groups. Twelve fortresses, among them four large and modern ones, which formed the Russian outer and inner lines of defense, are in the hands of the Germans and Austrians. This is the result of a campaign of less than four months."

talk about the ticket. He wore a broad smile when he came out of the meeting.

Two Republicans Out of Seven.

Tammany leaders said they were well pleased at the judicial slate. For the six positions on the Supreme Court bench and the one City Court Judge, Tammany gets five Democrats, leaving the Republican but two. Justices Clarke and Finch, are the only Republicans. Justice Greenbaum is an independent Democrat, Justice Hearst Democrat, and Delehanty, Tierney, and Zeller are Tammany Democrats.

When Samuel S. Koenig, President of the Republican County Committee, heard of the action of the Democrats, he said:

"Critisims from various quarters have apeared to the effect that the Republican organization was not consistent in its attitude in declaring that sitting Judges should be renominated, inasmuch as Judge Zeller, who has had experience as a Magistrate and Justice of Special Sessions for nearly fifteen years, was not on the list indorsed by us. It seemed to many Republicans that in view of the principle sought to be established that sitting Judges should be renamed regardless of party policy, the criticism as to Judge Zeller was well founded. In view of the fact that the Democrats have carried out this non-partisan idea by naming Justice Edward R. Finch, it will be recommended to the enrolled Republican voters that the selection of these Judges be ratified at our primaries, thus eliminating them from party strife in a campaign.

Koenig Pleased at Fusion.

"It is also to be hoped that this principle will be recognized by the Democrats in the case of Municipal Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, in the Ninth District. He has served a full term with marked ability and is now up for re-election. Many lawyers hope that the precedent with regard to the Judges established this year will be adhered to in the future, thus for all time taking the judiciary out of politics—an object very much to be desired.

"With the judiciary issue eliminated our organization will start an active campaign to prevent the election of the Tammany candidates for District Attorney and Sheriff, and, with the aid of the good citizenship of this county, to bring about the retention of District Attorney Perkins and the promotion of Under Sheriff Bowers."

Tammany has not yet named its candidates for Municipal Court Justice for the Eighth and Ninth Districts.

PRIMARY FIGHTS IN QUEENS.

Astoria to Organize Society of the Native Born.

James P. Hicks for Sheriff and eGorge Emener for County Clerk will head an opposition ticket at the Democratic primaries in Queens. The Connolly-Keating machine has indorsed Mr. Benninger for Sheriff. Mr. Benninger was born in Canada, and yesterday a call was issued in Astoria for the organization of a society of the native born. An open-air meeting will be held next Tuesday night.

The Democratic enrollment in Queens is 42,312, Republican 12,329, and Progressive 2,078. The Republican machine indorsed no primary candidates, but the Bull Moose purpose naming a slate. Among the candidates talked of are Robert Price Bell of Flushing for County Judge, Samuel Sanders of Richmond Hill for County Clerk, and William Angel of Long Island City for Sheriff.

THINK CARRANZA MAY NOT ANSWER

Washington Officials Consider His Reply to the Peace Appeal Long Overdue.

HIS PARTY REPORTED SPLIT

Cabrera and Roberto Pesqueira Said to Have Withdrawn, Favoring General Obregon for President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Official Washington is wondering whether General Carranza is going to reply at all to the Pan-American peace appeal. It was the understanding two weeks ago that General Carranza's response would be in the hands of the American Government by this time. Since then, however, Carranza, through his Minister of Foreign Affairs, inquired formally of the American Government whether the invitation was private or official. Secretary of State Lansing was asked today whether any response had been made to the latter interrogation, and replied that it had not been answered. It is not the understanding that any answer will be sent by this Government to the Carranza message.

The delay of Carranza in sending any answer to the Pan-American appeal has given rise to two sets of opinions in Washington. One of these is that Carranza does not intend to reply and will base his refusal on the failure of the State Department to answer his question, which sought information as to whether the invitation was individual or official. The other opinion is that Carranza's delay is the result of influences at work to induce him to enter the peace conference.

Paul Fuller, President Wilson's special agent in Mexico, conferred with Secretary Lansing today on personal matters and with Leon J. Canova, chief of the division of Mexican affairs, of the State Department, regarding the situation in Mexico, but the conferences developed no announcement. Mr. Fuller has been sounding leaders of various Mexican factions regarding their attitude toward efforts of the United States o assist in a solution of the problem.

Mexican and official circles here were considerably interested today in a report from El Paso that Luis Cabrera, Secretary of the Treasury in Carranza's Cabinet, and Roberto Pesqeira, who was formerly the confidential agent in Washington of the Carranza Government, had split with Carranza over his attitude toward the Pan-American peace plan. According to this report, they had urged Carranza to acept the invitation and he had refused. The most interesting features of a story which was published in The Washington Star this afternoon, are as follows:

"Further details were received in Washington today of the reported disaffection from the ranks of General Carranza of Luis Cabrera. The latter has been General Carranza's Minister of Finance, and is now in New York, where he has nnounced that he does not propose o return to Mexico. He is said now to be leading a newly formed group, assisted by Rafae l Zuburan and Jesus Urueta. This group, it is said, favors the retirement of Carranza and placing Luis Cabrero in the position of Provisional President for the purpose of calling elections, in the hope that General Obregon, one of Carranza's principal military commanders will consent to become candidate for President, and be elected. In Villista circles today this is soid to be the first outward manifesation of a new so-called Obregonista party.

"Mr. Cabrera, who is a Mexican lawyer, is now said to be closely associated in New York with members of the banking firm of Brown Brothers & Co. Mr. Cabrera has been the lawyer and agent for this firm in Mexican affairs. This firm is said to be interested in an enormous estate in Coahuilla, known as Hacienda Tlahuahlo, where cattle, corn, beans, and a substitute for rubber are raised. Much of the estate is owned by a big British syndicate managed by James Brown Potter and the banking firm and the estate have a claim of millions of dollars against the Mexican Government. A year ago, when Carranza entered Mexico City, Mr. Cabrera is said to have persuaded the so-called Mexican First Chief to have Mr. Cabrera elected President of the National Railways of Mexico, and he assumed that position. Mr. Cabrera is said to have filled the Ministry of Finance with his personal following in the subordinate positions. It is said in Washington today that in consequence of these manœuvres a new Obregon party, backed by Cabrera and his friends, will soon appear in Mexico, as a result of which Carranza will, in all likelihood, lose much support among the generals who have apparently remained loyal to him."

The Villa agency, through Manuel Bonilla, issued a statment saying that certain Carrazanistas were lining up withformer Huertistas.

READY FOR OROZCO'S BAND.

Ranchers Under Arms to Meet Any Attempted Reprisals.

SIERRA BLANCA, Texas, Sept. 1.—Men of the Big Bend country, in the vicinity of the boundary line of El Paso and Culberson Counties, were under arms today for fear of reprisals by General Pascual Orozco's organization of "Colorados" as a result of the killing of the noted leader by United States soldiers and Texas ranchers on Monday.

Appeal was made for more military protection. It was believed that the followers of Eduardo Salinas, now at Bosque Bonito, were connected with Orozco's plans and might attempt to avenge his death.

From the reports, American authorities formed the theory that Orozco was trying to bring to a focus an organized invasion of Texas upon a large scale under the name of the Nationalist Party. Into this party were to be drawn malcontents of all factions. This party eventually was to align with Carranza and not Huerta in the event of Carranza's refusal to accept the A B C plan for a peace conference of Mexican leaders, according to reports.

HEAXY TAX ON MINES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1.—Great satisfaction is expressed in mining circles here and in Vera Cruz over the report that First Chief Carranza is willing to listen to representations of mine owners for a reduction in the annual tax on mining properties. The present tax decreed by the Constitutionalist Government is 12 pesos a pertenencia (one hectare) annually up to ten pertenencias but if more than ten pertenancias are owned by the same person in the same mining camp he must pay 15 pesos a pertenancia per annum on the excess up to twenty pertenancias, 18 pesos on each pertenancia above twenty up to fifty pertenancias, and 24 pesos per annum on each pertenancia above fifty.

The object of this law is to give the small operator a chance by making more expensive the holding of large mineral areas by single companies or individuals. The annual tax, which is distinct from the tax on the actual output of gold and silver, is payable in Mexican gold coin, which commands a premium over paper about nine to one, and is estimated at par in exchange rates with American money, viz., two Mexican pesos equivalent to one American dollar.

The reason urged by mine owners for a reduction in the annual tax is that many, owing to a variety of circumstances, are unable to operate their properties, also the scarcity and nearness of cyanide and other imported articles. The former annual mining tax was 6 pesos a pertenancia, with a reduction for large holdings.

FIBRE FROM MEXICO SEIZED.

Charged That It Was Stolen by Villistas and Sent Here.

On a writ of replevin obtained by Edward, Harold and Miss Kate Meade, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Cook seized yesterday 1,121 bales of ixtle fibre that had been brought here from Galveston and piled on the Southern Pacific pier on the North River. The Meades said that a squad of General Villa's soldiers had forcibly taken 2,300 bales of the fibre from a storehouse at Cerritas, in the Mexican State of San Luis Potosi.

The alleged theft occurred early in August and the bales, it was said, were sent away in a number of freight cars that had been commandeered by the soldiers. Each bale bore the brand of the owners and full particulars of the matter were sent to the British representatives in Mexico and at Washington. Some of the bales were traced as far as El Paso and information of the shipment to this port was obtained after the steamer sailed. The firm of G. Amsinck & Co. of 6 Hanover Street made the necessary affidavit for the issuance of the writ.

The bales seized have a market value of $20,000. Ixtle fibre is used in making rope and basket ware.

Troops to Move Tomorrow.

GALVESTON, Sept. 1.—It was learned today that the troops of the Second Division ordered from Galveston and Texas City were not likely to move before Friday. The first troops to go will be four companies of the Nineteenth Infantry to Del Rio. Then six companies of this regiment will go to Fort Sam Houston. The Fourth Infantry will go to Harlingen, Texas, and the Sixth Cavalry will follow to the same point.

NAVAL ACADEMY HEAD IS ORDERED RELIEVED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The United States Naval Academy at Annapolis is to have a new Superintendent because of what is believed to be the result of the belief of Rear Admiral William F. Fullam that the manner in which he had handled the examination cribbing case last Spring was not indorsed by the Administration when it approved the findings of the court of inquiry which investigated the affair.

Announcement was made by the Navy Department today, through Acting Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt, that Rear Admiral Fullam would be relieved from duty on Sept. 20. He will be succeeded by Captain Edward W. Eberle, now Commandant of the Washington Navy ard and Superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory.

Captain Eberle was born in Texas and brought up in Fort Smith, Ark. He entered the Naval Academy on Sept. 8, 1881. Graduating in 1885, Midshipman Eberle made his first cruise in the old Mohican to the South Pacific. Between 1894 and 1896 Captain Eberle was on duty at the Naval Academy in the departments of international law and English. After that he was ordered to the Oregon, and made the trip around the Horn in her to take part in the battle of Santiago. On the Oregon Captain Eberle was in command of the first gun division of the Oregon's forward thirteen-inch guns during the battle. Captain Eberle was ordered in 1899 to serve as aid to Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright when the latter became Superintendent of the Naval Academy. Two years later he became ordnance officer of the battleship Indiana.

From 1911 to 1913 Captain Eberle commanded the Atlantic torpedo flotilla of forty-two submarines and destroyers, and after another tour of duty at the Naval War College he was placed in command of the armored cruiser Washington. From the Washington he was ordered to the Washington Navy Yard last year as commandant.

Rear Admiral Fullam, on being relieved from duty at the Naval Academy, will be sent to the Pacific Coas to take command of the Pacific Reserve Fleet, which is stationed in Puget Sound. This fleet consists of vessels which are not in active commission and which cannot now be placed in active commission on account of the shortage of men in the navy without putting other vessels out of commission. The present commander of the Pacific Reserve Flotilla, Rear Admiral Charles F. Pond, has been ordered to Portsmouth, N. H., to take command of the navy yard at that place.

Rear Admiral Fullam is now commanding the Naval Academy practice squadron, which passed through the Panama Canal yesterday on its way back from San Francisco.

It could not be ascertained from officials of the navy today whether Rear Admiral Fullam was being relieved at his own request or being displaced by orders from Secretary Daniels. It has been understood among friends of the Admiral in Washington that he was not anxious to remain on duty at the academy because he felt that his administration did not enjoy the confidence of the Secretary of the Navy.

Rear Admiral Fullam made a preliminary investigation of the gouging scandal at the academy and recommended that seven midshipmen be dismissed. On top of that investigation, the Navy Department ordered a separate inquiry and the findings of the court of inquiry as approved by the Secretary of Navy resulted in the decision to dismiss only two of the middies. It is believed here that the change of superintendents at the academy will result in sweeping reforms and in certain other directions at the Naval Academy under the guidance of Captain Eberle, acting under orders from Washington.

The Pacific Reserve Fleet, which Rear Admiral Fullam is to command, consists of the armored cruisers South Dakota, Pittsburgh, San Diego, and West Virginia and the cruisers Milwaukee, Charleston, and Albany.

RIVAL ARMIES REST ON EVE OF BATTLE

TROOPERS GO SCOUTING

Work on Outpost Problem—Enemies Fraternize in the Clinton County War.

Special to The New York Times.

PERRYS MILLS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The advance of the Blue and Red armies was halted today and all the fighting that was done was of the outpost kind. It was in a way a day of rest, both for the regulars and the business men, to give them a chance to catch their breath before starting on the last three days of the campaign. These last three days will be the most strenuous of the mimic war and will keep the men in action right up to the city limits of Plattsburg, which the two armies plan to reach on Saturday night.

The present camp of the armies is on a high knoll, two miles west of the village of Champlain. The ground is dry and the conditions are as perfect as can be imagined for campaign. So rapid has been the pace at which the men have been pushed, that General Wood decided last night to give them a chance to rest, with just enough outpost work to keep them from forgetting that they are in war.

Indicative of the comradeship that prevails in the Red and Blue armies, it may be mentioned that, with the exception of the Second Cavalry, which is bivouacked a mile nearer to Champlain than this camp, the Reds and Blues are sharing the same ground. Enemies can be seen walking about arm in arm. A Red who yesterday killed a Blue comrade dined with his victim today, while late this afternoon Colonel McCoy, the Blue Commander in Chief, and Colonel Dickman, the leader of the Red army, were observed in friendly chat at the headquarters of the former.

While THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was in the joint camp of the enemies this afternoon, he witnessed a meeting of Mayor Normoyle of the Third Infantry, and Captain Herron, the commander of the Third Squadron of the Second Cavalry. Normoyle on Sunday last reported that he had captured Herron and his entire command. Herron found out that he had been captured early yesterday morning and rode over to the Third's camp to find out all about it.

"What's this I hear about your capturing me?" asked Herron, as he grasped the outstretched hand of Major Normoyle.

"Well, I got you all right, and as far as I know I still have you," replied Normoyle.

"That's funny, for I saw you killed yesterday," said Herron.

As a matter of fact both Colonel Dickman and Normoyle were umpired out as slain yesterday. Herron maintains that up to the present moment he has not even been wounded.

The men were told this morning that they would not break camp until tomorrow and were ordered to prepare for an inspection of tents and equipment by General Wood. Regulars as well as business men figured in the inspection, which consumed half the morning.

About 300 of the business men, among them Mayor Mitchel, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Robert Bacon, Sr., and Robert Bacon, Jr., Richard Harding Davis, and Perry Beadleston, this afternoon were set to work out an outpost problem. They operated as cavalry, using Second Cavalry mounts. Captain Lincoln C. Andrews commanded the squadron. The problem involved the discovery of the position and the composition of an enemy force that was scouting in the country to the west of Champlain. The rest of the Business Men's Regiment, the backbone of the Blue army, went out for tactical walks.

General Wood had as his guests today Major Gen John F. O'Ryan, commanding the National Guard of New York; Lieut. Col. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Lieut. Col. Edward Olmstead of General O'Ryan's staff, and Adjt. Gen. L. W. Stotesbury. They will witness the big battle that will start at sunrise tomorrow and will continue throughout the day. The problem for tomorrow will involve an attack upon the defense of a wagon train that will be more than three miles long. This battle, which will take the men toward the little border town of Altoona, is expected to be the most thrilling engagement yet fought in the war of Clinton County.

General O'Ryan, Colonel Vanderbilt, General Stotesbury, and Colonel Olmstead were all deeply impressed with what they saw today.

The members of the Business Men's Regiment held a meeting in the camp tonight and decided to effect a permanent organization of the command. The meeting was opened by Mayor Mitchel, who is a Lieutenant in Company A, and Robert Bacon, former Ambassador to France, was elected Temporary Chairman. It was decided to appoint a committee of eight, one from each company. The committee will later be increased to thirty-five members. The organization will be perfected before the regiment is disbanded next Sunday.

FRANK LYNCHING GRAND JURY MEETS

Members Charged by Judge to Investigate Fully, but "Not as Detectives."

MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 1.—The Cobb County Grand Jury, drawn for the July court term, was charged today by Judge H. J. Patterson to investigate the "resent lynching in this county," and at the close of the day several witnesses had been examined for information they might have of the hanging of Leo M. Frank. Indications were that the jurors would conclude the examination of the thirty-five or more witnesses called in time to report tomorrow.

Judge Patterson was emphatic on three points in his charge: That the crime should be thoroughly investigated; that this was not a special Grand Jury, as had been reported, and that the jurors were not "Secret Service men" compelled "to do detective work to perform their duties." He said Cobb County never had needed a special Grand Jury, and that the Frank lynching was not the sole cause of reconvening the jury that served during the July court term.

Soon after the jurymen retired witnesses called in the Frank case went before them, but the majority remained only a few minutes. Tomorrow it is expected members of the Georgia Prison Commission will be examined. The three members of the commission were at the State prison the night Frank was taken away.

Among the witnesses summoned is O. B. Keeler, a newspaper man, who will be asked to tell how he came in possession of Frank's wedding ring, which he says was mysteriously delivered to him with a request from Frank to see that it be returned to Mrs. Frank. Other witnesses are W. M. Swanson, Sheriff of Cobb County; G. M. Hicks, the deputy who took charge of Frank's body immediately after it was found; Mayor E. P. Dobbs and H. L. Looney, Chief of Police of Marietta.

In his charge to the Grand Jury Judge Patterson did not mention Frank's name. He said in part:

"I want to say that you are not a special Grand Jury, drawn by the Judge of the Blue Ridge Circuit, as has been stated, but the regularly organized Grand Jury of Cobb County. Not only in this, but in a great deal more that has been said recently in the press, the afcts have been deviated from, and I want to strongly assert that the press generally has done Cobb County a great injustice.

"I have been informed that a murder was committed here in the county the day after the July term of court was adjourned. Of that I do not know, but the information has come to me. It has been published broadcast over the world that a lynching has recently occurred in Cobb County. It is your duty to make a thorough and complete investigation of that, as it is of all charges of crime when brought to your attention. Your oaths bind you to honestly, fairly, and impartially make an investigation of it, but it is not your duty to assume the rôle of secret service men—the rôle of detectives. You were not selected in the capacity of private detectives, but as grand jurors of your county, and your work is that of Grand Jurors, and not the work of secret service men. And yet it is your duty to do what you can to ferret out any crime alleged to have been committed within your county, to do it fairly, fearlessly, and without hope of reward, or the reverse.

"I want to caution you that your oaths require you to keep your counsel and that of your State secret; you are not to discuss on the outside anything that is done within your room; that you gentlemen must keep secret."

Prior to charging the jury Judge Patterson cautioned the bailiff to be "especially cautious in the care of any papers or documents intrusted to your care. Any matter delivered to you for transmission to the Grand Jury should have your protection."

NO BAIL FOR MRS. HAMLIN.

Court Decides to Hold Her to Await Result of Chemical Analysis.

JACKSON, Ky., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Mamie Hamlin, who says she is a daughter-in-law of a former Attorney General of Illinois and is charged with poisoning Mrs. Polly Davis of Portsmouth, was ordered back to jail today to await a chemical analysis of the stomach and kidneys of the dead woman. The court held that while the evidence in the hearing of the motion for bail had shown some motive for a crime, yet the fact that a crime had been committed had not been established. The motion for bail will be determined after the analysis of the organs is made.

Mrs. Clara Meyers of Charleston, West Va., completed her testimony today by saying that Mrs. Hamlin offered her $100 to sign the will as a witness, and later, after her name had been put to it by some one else, Mrs. Hamlin came to her home in West Virginia and offered to make her wealthy if she would back her up and swear to the signature to the will. She said that she returned to Kentucky to aid Mrs. Hamlin, but later decided to tell all she knew to the Attorney for the State.

Brooklyn Jews Greet Gov. Alexander

Elaborate preparations are being made to welcome Governor Moses Alexander of Idaho, the only Jew holding such high office, who is now a visitor in this city, by the members of Congregation Sinai Zedek of Brooklyn, on his visit to that Borough Friday evening. The meeting will be held at the synagogue in Putnam Avenue.

DEFENSE LEAGUE ANGERS GARRISON

DECLARES HIS VIEWS KNOWN

Position as to the Imperative Necessity of an Adequate Military Policy Was Made Clear.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Crisp rejoinder was made by Lindley M. Garrison, the Secretary of War, today to the open letter addressed to him on Saturday by the American Defense League. In this letter, which was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sunday, C. S. Thompson, as Chairman, and Cushing Stetson, as Secretary, acting for the Board of Trustees of the league, accused the Wilson Administration of opposing all practical efforts to put the country in a proper state of preparedness for defense. The letter, in effect, asked Secretary Garrison for an explanation of the Administration's attitude on preparedness.

Secretary Garrison's response, which he made public today, reads as follows:

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1, 1915.

The American Defense Society, Incorporated, 303 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen: Your letter dated Aug. 28 reached my office yesterday. It was published in the newspapers of Aug. 29, and quite obviously was prepared and published to cause me embarrassment.

I am asked in it, either directly or indirectly, to pass judgment upon the capacity or the good faith of many officials and other people, some of whom are named and others of whom are left unidentified.

My own good faith and sincerity are impugned by innuendo and inference.

If any one in this country is in any real doubt about my position with respect to the imperative necessity of a suitable and adequate military policy, that doubt has arisen from a failure to read the many presentations of my views which have appeared in the public prints, and that doubt will be instantly dispelled when they have read them. Sincerely yours,

LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
Secretary of War

Senator Tillman, who is Chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, discussed national defenses today with President Wilson. Later he said he favored a reasonable increase in the Navy, and would support the President's recommendations to Congress this Autumn.

No definite program would be mapped out until the President had received a report from Secretary Daniels and discussed the subject with himself and Chairman Padgett of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

It was stated authoritatively by Administration officials today that theme was no basis for reports that the President had decided to recommend army and navy appropriations totalling 1500,000,000. One Cabinet member said he did not believe the amount to be asked for would be as large as that.

DEFENSE SOCIETY IS ACTIVE.

Trustees Will Keep Up Agitation for Preparedness.

The American Defense Society of 303 Fifth Avenue yesterday issued a statement saying that it would continue its agitation for a greater army and navy, although officials of the National Conference on Preparedness has decided, as stated in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Tuesday, to advise that the various organizations which it represents should quit agitating strenuously for the present and should concentrate on a vigorous campaign in November and December in order to influence Congressmen. The statement is as follows:

"The Trustees of the American Defense Society emphatically concur in the statement published in a morning paper to the effect that officials of the National Security League and certain other allied organizations are deferring all agitation in favor of adequate national defense until November or December. The Trustees conclude that the open use of Secretary Garrison's name at this time as the one chiefly opposed to agitating the question of preparedness is the first result of the open letter addressed to the Secretary on Sunday last, in which he was publicly asked to define his position, and to which, as yet, however, the American Defense Society has received no reply.

"In the meantime, however, the policy of the American Defense Society, as publicly announced in its literature and in the press, is to urge an immediate, aggressive campaign for proper national preparedness in case of war. If the President, as reported, has definitely decided in favor of an adequate army and navy, it still remains to bring Congress to his point of view, and to convert that entire portion of the public which is still unawakened or indifferent to our military needs. That this responsibility can be intrusted to leaders of Congress, or some reported spokesman for the President, we emphatically deny.

"'Congressman Kitchin, in an open interview on Friday last, declared: 'I am a small navy man, and have been so for years. The European war has convinced me that my position is right, and I shall refuse to vote any appropriation for the dreadnought type of battleship. There is not a nation that could get within 250 miles of our shores if we had enough torpedo boats to patrol the borders. Congress is not going to be stampeded into appropriating great sums because a few men are heeding the howls of the jingoes. Less than $10,000,000 will be appropriated for national defense by the next Congress, unless I am badly mistaken.'

"United States Senator Kern of Indiana is another Congressional leader to speak out flatly against the Administration's newly adopted policy of stronger national defenses. Thus, also, Representative Hay. The American Defense Society specifically charges that although one whole year has now passed since the outbreak of the war in Europe, and although as a nation we have had grave diplomatic exchanges with at least two belligerent powers, showing the need of preparedness, the preliminary step remains to be taken; that not a man has been added to the army nor a sailor to the navy. The American Defense Society does not see the wisdom of still further postponing definite action or discussion till November or December.

"The American Defense Society, therefore, is calling attention, and will continue to call attention, to the fact that aggressive action should be taken at once to upbuild our national defenses; that the people should be educated to this fact, and that every Congressman should be held personally responsible for his attitude in the matter of preparedness."

22 OGVERNORS AS ALLIES.

National Security League Announces They Are Members.

It was said at the headquarters of the National Security League yesterday that not more than one-third of the membership of the National House of Representatives was on record as committed to an enlarged plan of defense. The league hopes, the statement added, to obtain affirmative action from Congress in respect to the plans which are to be submitted.

It was announced that Governor Withycombe of Oregon, Governor Clarke of Iowa, and Governor Boyle of Nevada had consented to appoint State committees on national defense to aid the league in its work, and that some of these committees had already been appointed. Promises of similar action have been received from other Governors. It is the purpose of the league to form a State Committee in each State. Twenty-two Governors are already members of the National Committee of the organization.

The statement concludes:

"The league has not adopted any definite attitude as to what is necessary, but stands for the position that while it is insistent on proper national defenses it demands that the legislation be that approved by the expert minds in the country."

NINETEEN DEAD IN MINE.

Affected Section of Johnstown Colliery Had Been Condemned.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Sept. 1.—The explosion of gas in the Ordena mine of the Merchants' Coal Company at Boswell yesterday claimed its nineteenth victim today when James Bergalena died in a hospital here. Two other miners, George Pescutz and Frank Comalich, who were badly burned, are in a critical condition.

Mine officials said that the section of the mine where the explosion occurred had been condemned by John Taylor, the fire boss, who fenced it off. Martin McClure, the foreman, it was stated, made a careful investigation and, convinced that the entries were safe, allowed the miners to go to work. McClure was killed.

Rescue crews worked for hours before they reached the point where the tragedy occurred. There they found eight men unconscious, but still living, scattered among the dead. Many of the bodies when brought to the surface could not be identified.

Seek Long Island Florist.

Friends of John Eckhardt, 69 years old, a well-known florist of 850 Seventh Avenue, College Point, are much worried by his disappearance. His son-in-law, Henry Kramer, who lives with him has asked the Queens detectives to search for Eckhardt. Mr. Eckhardt is five foot, ten inches tall, weighs 160 pounds and has gray hair and mustache. He wore when last seen a pepper and salt suit, white shirt and collar, black derby hat, black socks and black shoes. According to Mr. Kramer, his father-in-law has not been heard from since July 16, when he was in Sullivan County on a vacation.

Neverbreak
(Patented)
Wardrobe Trunk No. 100
$15.00
is the most serviceable and practical Trunk obtainable
It is a small, compact, long-service trunk, that will outwear the bulky, clumsy kind heretofore used.
But don't for a moment think that it won't hold all you need for a week-end trip or an extensive tour—It will!
And besides it has these vital features:
(1)—You can't pack it with clothing or accessories to exceed the free baggage limit.
(2)—You don't have to fill it with unnecessary clothes, merely to have it packed tightly.
(3)—It can be conveniently carried on any cab or taxi.
(4)—The Self-locking, Removable Garment Rack holds the clothing crisp and unwrinkled, and swings every piece right out before you. It can be lifted "bodily" (clothes and all) from the trunk and hung away in one piece without disturbing a single garment.
(5)—Holds enough for any trip any man or woman wants to take, yet is light, strong and easily handled.
The days of the necessity of paying a big price for a satisfactory Wardrobe Trunk are over—
The "Neverbreak" is only $15.00

PASS BILL TO BAR SECRECY AT ALBANY

ROOT MAKES A WARM PLEA

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—Again today the voice of Elihu Root was raised in the Constitutional Convention against "invisible government." He deplored the lack of a public record to show what the Legislature was doing and offered and had adopted an amendment presented by the Committee on Legislative Powers of which William Barnes is chairman, which, if ratified by the voters, will compell the publication of the full debates on all measures in the Senate and Assembly.

The absence of any such record up to the present time has been the subject of much criticism. It is true that the debates are taken by the public stenographers in bath houses and their notes are preserved for reference, but there is no public record of legislative proceedings available for distribution to public libraries and to the newspapers. Not even the journals of either house of the Legislature are available in printed form until after a lapse of weeks, although the law says that the journal of the preceding day shall be on the desk of a lawmaker when he takes his seat in the Senate or Assembly in the morning.

Under the Root amendment all that would be changed. The record of each day's proceedings would appear in printed form the following day, as does the record of every day's debate in the Constitutional Convention.

Mr. Root said that Congress, the French Senate and Chamber of Deputies, and both Houses of the British Parliament followed the practice he recommended, and there was no reason why the Legislature of the State of New York should not do likewise.

"The efforts of this convention in dealing with the conduct of our Government," Mr. Root said, "has rightly been to bring about public action rather than private—I will not say secret, but unknown, action. We have required that instead of the Governor sitting down for thirty days after the adjournment of the Legislature to revise in his own chamber the acts of the Legislature in making appropriations and in passing all kinds of bills, the Governor shall state in public before the action of the Legislature is taken precisely the considerations which hitherto he has acted upon in private in reviewing the action of the Legislature so that the expenditures of the State shall necessarily be a matter of public discussion before the Legislature acts.

To Keep the State Informed.

"This measure is designed to make the reasons for action on the part of the Legislature matters of public record. It is designed to enable the people of the State to know why the Legislature passes bills and why it refuses to pass them. It is designed to restore the art of debate to the Legislature of this State.

"It is designed to make the Legislature of the State an avenue to preferment, so that able and ambitious young men of the State may seek places in the Senate and the Assembly in order that they may demonstrate their capacity and become known to the people of the State. As it is now, no one knows what the Legislature is doing or why it is done except as the quite limited news articles of the public press are spread through the State.

"The record of this convention printed from day to day has gone to the libraries, to the newspapers, to the people interested in what we are doing, and has been the basis for a discussion of our affairs throughout the State. Already there has come back to us an expression of public opinion upon many of the measures before us, based upon the record of our debates, which has, in turn, had its just and salutary influence upon opinion in the convention.

"I see no reason why this great State of eleven millions of people should permit its Legislature to do its business in such a way that there is no means of knowing the reasons for its action."

Mr. Root said that he had prepared a statement showing the cost of printing the convention's record. The total cost of transcribing the stenographer's minutes and having them printed up to date had been only $15,475, he said.

"If you assume that each House of the Legislature would have as much debate as we have had, which I think is going quite beyond the probabilities," Mr. Root continued, "you would have the record printed and distributed for a little over $30,000 a year for both Houses. This is an expenditure which, applied to the very vital centre of the Government of the State, may well be afforded and for which many expenditures of the State could well be foregone."

At this point Mr. Root paused to pay a graceful tribute to John Marshall, the stenographer of the convention, and to the public printer.

In the last Constitutional Convention, of which he was the majority leader, twenty years ago, hardly a day passed, Mr. Root said, without complaints regarding the unsatisfactory and dilatory manner in which the record was furnished. Contrasting conditions today, Mr. Root said:

"I have not observed in this convention since the early days of organization until this time, when we are nearly through with our work, a single dereliction on the part of either the stenographer or the printer, and the cost has been kept rigidly within limits and has been less, both as to the stenographer and the printing, than the original estimate."

In prescribing legislative procedure the Barnes Committee's proposal failed to include the present rule requiring the attendance of three-fifths of the members of either house when tax measures or financial bills are being considered on final reading. The committee cut out all of Section 23 of article II. of the present Constitution, on the ground that as such measures could be passed by a majority, the attendance of only a majority should be required.

Alfred E. Smith was on his feet in an instant protesting. He urged that the attendance of at least ninety members in the Assembly when such measures were debated was highly desirable. Finally the section was restored, but amended to provide for the presence of three-fifths of the members at the final consideration of all bills.

This amendment was accepted by the Convention, in committee of the whole by a vote of 51 to 38. President Root and a number of the leaders voted against it on the ground that it would enable a minority to tie up legislative procedure. When the question came on the adoption by the Convention of the report on this proposal by the committee of the Whole, Herbert Parsons of New York moved dissent on this provision.

The debate on Mr. Parsons's motion was continued at the night session and the convention finally rejected the amendment requiring a three-fifths attendance. The proposal was then advanced to third reading with the amendment eliminated.

Prepare for Final Rush.

The convention leaders tonight made public their program for the remainder of the convention session. Thirteen measures were taken out of the General Order calendar and made special orders on second reading. It is likely that these are the only proposals which will receive any consideration in the convention, and that the General Orders calendar of the convention will be what it is in the Senate in the closing hours of a session, a place for measures which the leaders have no intention of pressing to final passage.

There are, however, only sixteen proposals which are likely to be on the left-over list when the convention adjourns, and some of these relate to matters for which provision already has been made in committee proposals which have been adopted or are included in the list of preferred proposals which the Rules Committee today shifted to the Special Order calendar.

The most important proposals not transferred are those presented by John G. Saxe of New York and Patrick J. Tierney of Clinton, restoring the party convention as a medium for nominations and the two proposals advanced by the Committee on Education, outlining the State's policy in educational matters.

With only three days remaining for public debate the Rules Committee today brought in a rigid cloture rule which the convention adopted without debate. This rule provides for debate limited to an hour on all except three of the thirteen measures which were made special orders.

A proposal for county home rule was the subject of a heated debate in the Committee of the Whole this afternoon. Several of the rural delegates objected to any curtailment of the Legislature's power in county affairs, but finally the measure was advanced to third reading without any change in its vital features.

Ex-Mayor Low of New York City objected to an amendment excepting the five counties in New York City from the provisions of this clause in the proposal:

"No local or special law relating to a county or counties shall be enacted, except upon request by resolution of the governing body of the county or counties to be affected."

Chairman J. L. O'Brian said that the committee was willing to accept the amendment, and it went in over ex-Mayor Low's protest. He objected to it on the ground that it might permit legislative tinkering with the county governments in New York City, a practice which, in the past, has caused many complaints from the city authorities. The home rule plan adopted by the convention was designed in part to eliminate this evil. It was learned tonight that the amendment had been prompted by the Republican delegates from Brooklyn as the price of their votes for the county home rule proposal.

Proposals Adopted by Convention.

The Convention today adopted these proposals:

Ray B. Smith's, providing that the Lieutenant Governor shall act for the Governor when impeachment proceedings against the former are pending. Provision is also made for the line of succession when a vacancy exists in the Governor's office, as follows: If there be no Lieutenant Governor, if he should happen to be under impeachment, the Temporary President of the Senate shall act as Governor. If for any reason this official should be unable to discharge the duties of the Governor, the Speaker of the Assembly is next in the line of succession.

Ray B. Smith's, providing that the Temporary President of the Senate shall act as Lieutenant Governor if that official is absent or under impeachment, and that the Assembly in the case the Speaker is unable to fullfil his duties shall have power to select a temporary Speaker.

Meier Steinbrink's, providing that the Legislature may enact laws for the registration on some date not more than five months prior to election of voters whose vocation keeps them away from the county on the regular days of registration.

The proposal of the Committee on Public Utilities, providing for the continuance of the two Public Service Commissions with their present powers and jurisdiction, subject, however, to change by Legislative enactments.

The proposal of the Committee on State Finance, providing that the Superintendent of Public Works shall certify the necessity or expediency of any local improvement before the Legislature can appropriate money therefor. The elimination of grade crossings and highway construction for which money is derived from authorized bond issues are excepted.

Louis Marshall's, referring to future amendments to the Constitution.

Louis Marshall's, providing that the revised Constitution, if ratified, shall go into effect on Jan. 1.

President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell University offered an amendment to the first Marshall proposal under which the affirmative vote of at least 25 per cent. of the electors would have been required in future to carry a constitutional amendment. Some of the leading men in the convention favored this, but the amendment was defeated after a bitter debate.

BELMONT PARK BETS INTEREST GOVERNOR

Telegraphs Sheriff Pettit He Purposes Starting an Investigation of His Own.

TO HOLD HIM RESPONSIBLE

District Attorney Smith Gets Copy of Warning — Sheriff's Men Reported No Bookmaking.

When he received a report that gambling started with the first race at yesterday's opening of the fifteen-day meet of the Westchester Racing Association at Belmont Park, Governor Whitman last night sent a telegram to Sheriff Stephen P. Pettit of Nassau County saying that the Governor would conduct an investigation of his own to find if the law was being violated and that he would hold the Sheriff personally responsible for violations of the law. The Governor's telegram to the Sheriff, a copy of which was sent to District Attorney Lewis J. Smith of Nassau County, read:

> You have abundance of power under the law to prevent gambling at the race track. I propose by independent investigation to learn if the law is being violated at Belmont Park. Shall hold you responsible for failure to enforce the law if such violations occur. The Sheriff is empowered, and it is his duty, to call to his aid as many Deputies as are necessary to put an end to law breaking.

Sheriff Pettit was not pleased to receive the Governor's telegram. He was found at the Elks' Club in Freeport, and when asked what he had to say about the Governor's proposed investigation, he said:

"And so the Governor is going to take the matter up himself. Well, I won't object. He is welcome to the job. There were no arrests today because no bookmaking was reported to me. I had my men on the job and I have done my duty. I have nothing further to say for publication."

Late last night the Sheriff said he would reply to the Governor's telegram today, either by wire or by letter. He did not wish to discuss what he would tell the Governor.

"If the Legislature would make it a crime to bet at a race track there would be no further need of investigations and equivocations," said District Attorney Smith. "As things are now, Belmont Park is no different from any other race track in the State. The courts have held that oral betting is no crime, and that's what we're up against.

"It is the Sheriff's duty to make the arrests when his men discover bookmaking. I am not anxious to spend the county's money to hire men to hunt for bookmakers, but if I have to I will. I will prosecute to the limit any one who is arrested for bookmaking.

"I have had no report that bookmaking has been going on at Belmont since May 29, when four men were arrested and charged with bookmaking. They are now under indictment and will be tried this month.

"There is private betting going on, of course, and it will go on as long as the law stands as it is."

The meet which opened yesterday is the third of the year at Belmont Park. The first meet, in May, was under the auspices of the Westchester Racing Association; another, in July, was conducted by the Empire State Racing Association, and the present meet is run by the Westchester Racing Association.

On May 27 Governor Whitman sent a telegram to Sheriff Pettit insisting upon an inforcement of the law at Belmont, and the same day arrests were made, the prisoners being charged with bookmaking.

A man who has attended all the Belmont meets this year last night described the system of betting there:

"The layers of odds are bookmakers in fact, though not under the construction of the law. They quote odds all day, but do not display them, which is considered the characterizing act of the bookmaker. The betting is oral. I go up to a layer of odds and tell him I want to bet on a certain horse on a certain race and ask the odds. He tells me, and if I want to bet he takes me on. No money is passed when the wager is made, and very seldom is money paid directly after the race, or even on the same day. Practically all of the money is paid over, both by winners and losers, the next day.

"This system does not provide for the man who is not known to the layer of odds, and whom he does not trust. For the stranger there is the 'third party' system. If I am a stranger I ask the odds, and if they suit me I am referred by the layer of odds to a third party, a coworker of his. I give the third party my money, and he places the bet, making no memorandum—at least, not where it is seen. If I win, I get my money the next day from the third party. This makes it practically impossible for a man who goes to the race track on rare occasions to do any betting. But as it is the same crowd that bets day after day, as a rule the layers of odds can still do a fair business.

"The courts have said that such betting does not violate the law, and so it is hard to see what the Governor is going to do about it."

TORCH PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE.

Women to March in Elaborate Parade on Saturday Night.

The first of the yellow torchlight parades, forerunners of the big parade of Oct. 23, of the women suffragists of the city, will take place on Saturday night, and will have several elaborate features. There is to be a large suffrage float, covered with cloth of gold with New York State, Miss Bessie Brainerd, asking Justice, Miss Elizabeth Becker, for enfranchisement. Justice will be clad in robes of yellow in Greek design and her throne will be a beautiful Venetian chair from an artist's studio. Her eyes will be blindfolded and in her hands she will carry old-fashioned scales lent by the Commissioner of Weights and Measures.

Representatives of different classes of women in the State will be seen on the float. Mrs. Joseph Mondelli, will represent a mother and will hold a real baby, which is warranted to sleep peacefully, in her arms. Mrs. Charles Darnton will be a college woman; Mrs. E. J. Best, the farm woman, will carry farm tools and wear a gingham apron and sunbonnet; there will be a trained nurse among others, and a bodyguard of Equal Suffrage States, young women dressed in white, wearing filets of yellow and white flowers and carrying shields.

East side mothers, all of them housekeepers, will fill a big Fifth Avenue bus gayly decorated with flags and banners and with a band of women musicians on the top. From thirty to forty children will fill a large auto van, Miss Ermine Kahn, the trumpeter, who is only 17 herself, going with them. The "Baby" poster goes with this van. It reads:

> Our food, out health, our play, our homes, our schools, our work, are all ruled by men's votes.
> Isn't it a funny thing that father cannot see,
> Why mother ought to have a vote,
> Oh, how can these things be?

Visitors from suffrage States, with Miss Rose Bower the cornetist, will be carried in the little suffrage wagon, Victory. East side politicians, local Captains, managers of boys' clubs, &c., with a fife and drum corps, will represent the Men's League East Side Branch. Marchers will get their Japanese lanterns from the lantern car on Sixtieth Street, east of First Avenue.

There will be many decorated autos, bands and transparencies, and Mrs. Frieda Kirchwey will be mounted on a white horse to represent the woman of the middle ages. The parade will start at Sixtieth Street and First Avenue, marching to 111th Street, and close with a big mass meeting in Jefferson Park. Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw is Chairman of parade, Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse the pageant, Mrs. Ethel Watts Grant the floats, and Miss Ida Proper the decorations.

KILL FOUR-YEAR TERM FOR STATE'S GOVERNOR

But Constitutional Convention Raises Salary to $20,000—"Federal Group" Breaks Up.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 1.—The Constitutional Convention at its session tonight by the decisive vote of 85 to 45 killed a proposal to increase the Governor's term from two to four years. Ex-Senator E. T. Brackett of Saratoga, was defeated in an attempt to keep the Governor's salary at $10,000. Under the proposal it is raised to $20,000. Governor Whitman, if the new Constitution is adopted, will enjoy this increase, from Jan. 1 next. The four-year term proposal had the support of President Root, George W. Wickersham, Henry L. Stimson, and State Chairman Frederick C. Tanner. Louis Marshall and President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell, who generally stand with what is known as the "Federal" group in the convention, tonight joined the opposition.

It was noticeable from the very start that there was tremendous sentiment against the proposal, which came before the convention with the prestige of an indorsement from the Committee on Governors and other State officers.

Lemuel E. Quigg, William Barnes and President Schurman made speeches in opposition. Mr. Stimson spoke in favor of the plan.

"The Governor should go before the people every two years," said Dr. Schurman. "If he has made good he will have no difficulty in getting continued in office. If you deprive the people of an opportunity to hold their Governor accountable at two-year intervals they will insist on the recall."

Mr. Stimson, in defending the proposal, said that it would give the Governor time to make good and do something of real constructive worth.

Many amendments were sent to the desk after the debate. One offered by Isidore Buxbaum, a Republican delegate from Kings, killed the four-year term.

HARRY THAW FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK CO-RESPONDENT

John Francis Named by the Plaintiff, but Papers Are Not Made Public.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—Harry K. Thaw, recently adjudged sane by a jury in New York and released under $35,000 bond by Justice Hendrick, filed a suit for divorce this afternoon against his wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, through his attorneys, Stone & Stone. John Francis of New York is named as co-respondent. The charge is infidelity.

Thaw was reported today to have arrived at the Panama Exposition in San Francisco, and his mother, Mrs. William Copley Thaw, at her home, in Cresson, Penn., said she knew nothing of her son's actions. Mrs. C. J. Holman, mother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, also said she would not discuss the case.

Asked for a statement relative to the court action, it was announced at the offices of Stone & Stone that the paper filed is brief and only intended to "start the ball rolling."

John Francis was a reporter on a New York newspaper when Stanford White was shot, and as such met Mrs. Thaw.

The brief papers in the case were not available at the Court House. Clerks said the papers were presented, and that Judge A. B. Reid read them, whereupon they were handed back to a representative of Thaw's lawyers, not to be made public until later.

It is understood the legal documents will not be spread upon the public records until notice has been served upon Mrs. Thaw. The case was made returnable Oct. 1, when the scheduled term of Divorce Court is opened.

On the day following his release by Justice Hendrick, Thaw announced in Atlantic City his intention of suing for a divorce. He called attention to the fact that he had denied more than a year ago reports that he was contemplating such a move if freed.

"There never can be a reconciliation between us," he said. "Ultimately there will be a divorce."

After Thaw escaped conviction on his plea of insanity and was sent to Matteawan, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who had been the chief witness for her husband, visited him several times in the asylum. About two weeks after he was sent there a quarrel arose between him and Mrs. Thaw, and she did not visit him at Matteawan again.

For some months Mrs. Thaw lived quietly, then she went on the stage as a dancer. Twice during habeas corpus proceedings which Thaw started in an effort to get out of Matteawan she took the stand against him, and once testified that Thaw told her that if he ever were released he would kill her. While Thaw was in Matteawan his wife became the mother of a child.

Mrs. Thaw is thought to be at a camp on Chateaugay Lake in the Adirondacks with Jack Clifford, her dancing partner, although her mother, Mrs. J. C. Holman of Mount Lebanon, asserted yesterday that she did not know her daughter's whereabouts. John Francis, who is named as co-respondent, lives at the Hotel Gerard.

TREAT FLIRTS AS VAGRANTS.

New Law Bears Down Hard on Annoyers of Women.

Hereafter the "male flirt" will be liable to arrest as a vagrant, just as a woman of the street, under a law which goes into effect today. Any one who accosts a woman on the street is a "vagrant" and may be sent to the Workhouse for not more than six months, with no alternative of a fine.

District Attorney Perkins, who was interested in the passage of the law, said that, besides the male flirts, disorderly resort keepers and proprietors of resorts where appointments are made over the telephone are also vagrants.

HOTEL BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Thought to be Due in Part to the War in Europe.

The hotel business, which has been better in New York this Summer than for many years, owing partly to the fact that many persons who used to go to Europe came to this city on the way to mountain or seashore, had a big spurt on Monday, and it grew even larger yesterday. At the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, for instance, where more than 400 persons registered on Tuesday, it was reported that the business yesterday was the biggest ever done by the hotel on a first day of September since 1903.

Fifth Avenue was lined yesterday morning with automobiles containing many people who bore indications of being tourists. The cold weather may have sent people in from the seaside and the mountains a few days earlier than usual, the big day for the hotels in September usually being the day after Labor Day. Good business was reported everywhere yesterday, and hotel men are cheerful over the outlook for the Fall and Winter.

CITY WARS ON MOSQUITOS.

Health Department Issues Pamphlet to Direct the Fight.

Determined to rid the city of mosquitos, the Health Department has issued a large pamphlet with a portrait of an enlarged mosquito on the outside, over which is the headline, "Stop, Thief." Beneath the picture is the assertion that the mosquito is a thief because he will steal a person's sleep if allowed to.

The pamphlet discusses the best methods of ridding the city of the pests. Householders are warned against stagnant water around their dwellings. Areaways, drains, gutters, tanks, cisterns, &c., in fact, anything which can hold the smallest amount of water, should be closed tightly with wire, says the pamphlet, so that the mosquito may not enter. If one has careless neighbors who disregard this warning, he is asked to notify the department.

Three hundred thousand of these pamphlets will be distributed by the Tenement House Department, the police, the Inspectors, and nurses of the Department of Health, the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

BALY SUES THE SHERIFF.

Strike Leader Says Kinkead Assaulted and Arrested Him.

Two suits for $2,000 each were filed yesterday in the Supreme Court of Hudson County by Jeremiah Baly of Elizabeth against Sheriff Eugene Kinkead for assault and for arrest and confinement in a Bayonne police station on July 20. Baly is a Socialist and acted as a member of the strikers' committee during the strike of the Standard Oil and Tidewater Oil Company's employes in July.

It is alleged he represented himself to be an employe on strike, although he had never been employed by either of the companies. When the Sheriff learned of this fact he called Baly to account, and, Baly says in his complaint, assaulted him "without justification."

GERMAN LINE RENEWS LEASE

Lloyd Company Takes Its Offices Here for Another Five Years.

The North German Lloyd Company renewed the lease of its spacious offices at 5 Broadway yesterday for another five years, beginning in 1916.

Charles von Helmolt, the General Manager of the company for the United States, said that he had increased the office space by including a large double room on the second floor in the new lease to give more room for the staff which would be needed in the near future.

Negro Suffrage Headquarters.

Headquarters for the work of the negro suffragists were opened at 207 West Sixty-third Street last evening with a big open-air meeting outside the building. Miss Lyda D. Newman is in charge of the work, and will continue canvasing and organizing street meetings through the thirteenth Assembly District from now until election day. Dr. Mary Halton and Miss Portia Willis were among the speakers last evening. Sixty-third Street was opened yesterday as a play street with no traffic from 3 to 9 P. M., and moters are invited to visit the headquarters and watch their children play from the windows.

THE NEW YORK TIMES acknowledges receipt of the following contributions for Louis Shapiro: J. L., $3.00; Ishultz Farm at Liberty N. Y., $5.00; L. D. M., $5.00.

TANNER OPERATED UPON.

Republican Chairman Doing Well—His Fiancee at Hospital.

Frederick C. Tanner, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, was operated on successfully for chronic appendicitis yesterday afternoon in the Post-Graduate Hospital, and was reported last night as making excellent progress. Dr. John F. Erdman of 60 West Fifty-second Street, who performed the operation with the assistance of Dr. Thomas Chalmers of Forest Hills, L. I., said that Mr. Tanner would be up in a few days.

Mr. Tanner came to this city on Tuesday from the Constitutional Convention at Albany accompanied by his fiancée, Miss Jane Ogden of Albany, and her mother, Mrs. Charles Ogden, who spent yesterday at the hospital. Miss Ogden, whose engagement to Mr. Tanner was announced last May, is a daughter of Charles Ogden, a prominent architect of Albany. Two years ago she made an extensive tour of Europe and Egypt and was received in audience at the Vatican by Pope Pius X.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 1.—President Elihu Root of the Constitutional Convention at the afternoon session read from the rostrum a telegram he had received announcing that Frederick C. Tanner, Chairman of the Republican State Committee and delegate, had been successfully operated on for appendicitis. The announcement was greeted with applause, and on motion of Majority Leader Wickersham the convention directed President Root to convey its felicitations to Mr. Tanner and its wishes for his speedy recovery.

Bridge Marketmen Celebrate.

The Queensboro Bridge Marketmen's Association members held their first annual celebration in observance of the opening of the Queensboro Bridge Market yesterday. The markets under the bridge were decorated with flowers, and the marketmen sold food at cost and did a tremendous business. Brass bands played at the bridge all day long. The first annual outing will be a clambake on Sept. 5.

Frelinghuysen, Charles M. Bull versus F. H. Harris.

Thirty-two representative tennis players from various parts of the country survived the second round of the national championship singles yesterday on the courts of the West Side Club at Forest Hills, L. I., after a series of matches, in which sensational tennis was the rule rather than the exception. The group included the entire California contingent, a number of Eastern experts, and a sprinkling of Southern and Middle Western entrants.

The chief interest of the spectators, who followed the various matches, naturally centred in the showing of R. Norris Williams, 2d, the playing through champion, and Maurice E. McLoughlin, the former title holder and Williams's chief rival for the premier honors of the courts this season. While both the Eastern and the Pacific Coast stars won their contests it remained for other players of lower ranking to furnish the thrills of the day.

Williams defeated F. C. Inman of New York, 7—5, 6—1, 9—7, and McLoughlin came through at the expense of Dean Mathey, the Princeton University youth, by scores of 6—1, 6—2, 8—6. Of the two American internationalists, the showing of McLoughlin was the more disappointing, although it is probable that the majority of the spectators expected greater spectacular play from the California comet than they did from Williams.

The title holder in his contest against Inman exhibited a somewhat erratic game, although he always gave the impression of having something in reserve for the crucial stroke. He opened with a beautiful collection of placement shots, nicking the corners and baselines repeatedly. Inman, however, refused to be disconcerted by the champion's shots and played back every "getable" ball, forcing the Harvard expert into a deuce set before he would admit defeat.

Williams fairly ran away with the second set, his strokes and generalship being wellnigh perfect. In the third he appeared to grow careless, and the local player, taking advantage of this, lifted his game to a high point, forcing the champion to play desperately at the end to finish without the loss of a set. While Inman used both his service and cleverness in length and placement shots, it was Williams's repeated outs and netted balls that prolonged the set to sixteen games.

In some respects McLoughlin's first session on the grand stand courts resembled that of Williams. He won his first two sets against Mathey by one-sided scores, but the Princeton player covered the length and breadth of his court with lightning speed and made the San Francisco wonder battle for every point. It was during these rallies that the famous expert showed that he had not as yet reached the point in his play that gave him victory over both Brookes and Wilding in the Davis Cup matches of a year ago.

McLoughlin at times was reckless netting and outing the ball far more frequently than has been customary for him to do in past years. He evinced a disposition to play deep court most of the time, and when he rushed to the net for killing smashes, he appeared to lose his sense of distances, for he drove the ball into the net almost as often as he did into his opponent's court, much to his evident displeasure. Nevertheless, he held Mathey in check until the third set, when the Easterner made a strong bid and carried McLoughlin into a fourteen game contest before he could clinch the match.

More evenly matched players of high skill furnished the real thrills for the spectators in the other grand stand contests of the day, in one case establishing a new national tournament record in their efforts to win. The record-breaking occurred in the struggle between Walter Merrill Hall of New York, and Wallace E. Johnson of Philadelphia, for the first set went to 18—16 before Hall could conquer the Quaker City expert. This is the longest set in the history of modern American championship tourney play.

Notwithstanding this gruelling set of thirty-four games, which abounded with the highest class of tennis, Johnson came right back and took the next set 6—4. Then Hall added another to his string at 6—2, and Johnson won the fourth at 6—4. Hall finally clinched the match when he won the fifth set at 6—2. The exhausted players received a great send-off as they dragged themselves from the scene of their exceptional tennis battle wherein they had surpassed the record of 17—15 made by McLoughlin when he defeated Norman Brookes in the first set of their Davis Cup contest on the same turf a year ago.

Another bitterly fought match was that between George M. Church, the captain of the Princeton tennis team and present intercollegiate champion, and W. M. Washburn of New York, which was won by the latter 7—5, 9—11, 6—4, 6—2. The contest developed an unusual number of long drawn out rallies, in which all manner of strokes and shots were used by both players. The defeat of Johnson and Church came in the nature of upsets as they were both favored to win their matches.

HALL DEFEATS JOHNSON.

Philadelphia Star Loses Match with Record for Championship Set.

With the elimination of the second flight contestants in the first round of the national tennis championship tournament at Forest Hills, Long Island, followers of the sport are now beginning to critically discuss the possibilities of the ranking players, and yesterday afforded a splendid opportunity to gauge their playing strength. The three leaders, R. Norris William, 2d, the title holder; Maurice E. McLoughlin, the world's champion, and Karl H. Behr, the internationalist, came through yesterday's ordeal with credit, and no other player loomed up as a dangerous contender for titular honors. Each of the trio won his match in straight sets, and while extra games were required to reach a decision in three of the nine sets played, it is doubtful whether these would have been necessary had the leaders played their real game.

The unexpected defeat of Wallace F. Johnson, the chop stroke racquet artist from Philadelphia and George M. Church, the intercollegiate champion, together with the remarkable 18—16 first set of the Johnson-Hall match, were the outstanding features of a day of brilliant contests and interesting developments. Although bearing a more important influence on the final outcome of the tournament, the matches in which the stars of the East and West completed, under the conditions, were relegated to secondary rank.

The downfall of Johnson was the first real upset of the tournament, and his vanquisher, Walter Merrill Hall, former Middle States champion, must face Champion Williams today. The first set established a recognized national championship record for games, when it was carried to 18—16. This is two games more than the famous contest between Maurice E. McLoughlin and Norman E. Brookes, in the Davis Cup match last year, which was played almost on the same turf. It was stated that twenty-five years ago Palmer E. Presbry and another player engaged in a contest that was decided at 20 to 18, but no authentic figures are obtainable, and the 18—16 score of Hall and Johnson must remain a National Association record.

Hall's system of attack uncovered a greater variety of strokes, while the Philadelphian depended almost entirely on his chop stroke and kept well in the back of the court. He appeared over-confident, and when Hall came up to the net the Philadelphian attempted to pass him. In this he at times succeeded, but Hall repeatedly enticed Johnson out of position, and in the end was returned the victor by three sets to two at 18—16, 4—6, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2.

In his match with Frederick C. Inman on the championship court, Champion Williams displayed the finer elements of his game, although at times the forcing tactics of Inman compelled the champion to stiffen his service and put forth his best efforts. The passing strokes of the young and energetic defender were perfectly timed and he gauged Inman's plunges for the net to a hairsbreadth, and except at certain periods he held the mastery. At times Williams showed an inclination to shoot the ball over the line, but when the occasion warranted the effort he strengthened his game and by a series of swift attacks at the net, in which he outmanoeuvred Inman, the champion carried everything before him. The point score:

The sizzling drives of Maurice McLoughlin in his match with Dean Mathey, the former intercollegiate champion, brought about the speedy downfall of the latter in straight sets at 6—1, 6—2, 8—6. The Californian always used his heavy artillery service and depended upon it as much as ever. He forced his attack and drew whatever sting Mathey had from the start, and afforded the spectators a splendid opportunity of witnessing his flashing attack. He moved into the rallies with all his old-time abandon, and took all kinds of chances of being passed, so that by the power of his wonderful form. The supposed softening of his game was not apparent, except possibly in instances where he placed the ball down the lines with good judgment instead of smashing for all corners of the court. The point score:

The contest between T. R. Pell and Edward H. Whitney, the former Harvard Captain and intercollegiate champion, was a baseline duel. Long driving rallies played the most important part in the match, with Whitney using every endeavor to keep the ball away from his opponent's powerful backhand drive. Whitney displayed a wholesome respect for Pell's ability to pass, a feature which the latter used with conspicuous success. After losing the third set, Pell resumed his forcing tactics and easily outplayed Whitney. The point score:

Washburn depended almost entirely on his famous short volleys to overcome the intercollegiate title-holder. The Harvard player's steady and consistent volleying at critical times was the principal source of strength. Church was at times fast and aggressive. Church blended strategy with pace. He blocked many passing shots and scored continually by tremendous cannon shots, but his eagerness with the lobs and disposition to go into the net proved his undoing. In attempting to return a ball in the fourth set he fell over a linesman's chair, but this did not affect the result of the match. The point score:

Bernard C. Law, the Princeton football star, advanced to the third round at the expense of J. S. O'Neale, the former Columbia University baseball pitcher, after four sets at 4—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4, and Craig Biddle disposed of E. W. Peaslee in straight sets. Irving Wright was at his best to win from G. C. Caner of Harvard, dropping one love set to his opponent.

The California contingent came through with flying colors. Ward Dawson defeated Louis Graves, but was forced to extra games in the second and third sets. William M. Johnston found an easy straight victim in C. C. Pell and C. J. Griffin dropped one set to C. S. Garland, the Yale interscholastic champion, before qualifying for the third round. The summary:

ALL Comers, men's singles championship, second round.—L. I. Grinnell defeated L. W. Knox, 7—5, 6—2, 6—1; Walter L. Pate defeated J. H. Blackstone, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4; William Rand, 3d defeated W. I. Plitt, 6—0, 6—0, 6—2; Leonard Beekman defeated W. Halsey Wood, 6—1, 6—1, 6—2; S. Howard Voshell defeated C. L. Johnson, Jr., 6—2, 8—6, 6—2; R. Norris Williams, 2d, defeated Frederick C. TURF SHOWS WEAR AND TEAR.

The courts at Forest Hills are beginning to show signs of wear, although they have borne only two days of competition so far. Thirty-two matches were scheduled for yesterday, but it was decided to rest half of the courts, in order to keep the turf as smooth as possible. It is, however, the four championship courts that appear to have suffered mostly. This is due to the long drawn out matches and lengthy rallies. Charles M. Bulger and Lyle E. Mahan fought for fifty games on Court No. 4 and spiked it badly. Wallace Johnson and Walter M. Hall added seventy games yesterday, which did not improve it.

The furiously fought rallies in the match between Bernard C. Law of Princeton and J. S. O'Neale of Columbia attracted the biggest crowd of the day, outside of the featured events. Law's smashing and his fiery style made matters very interesting for a couple of hours.

The popularity of tennis as a college sport is attested to by the number of prominent past and present collegians now playing a prominent part in the championship tournament. In addition to the playing through title holders, the following intercollegiate champions are among the championship survivors: Frederick B. Alexander, Princeton; Robert Le Roy, Columbia, E. H. Whitney and Dean Mathey, Princeton, while Wallace F. Johnson, Pennsylvania; N. W. Niles, Harvard, and G. M. Church, Princeton, were eliminated in the first or second rounds. There are many other collegians of note still in competition who are not title holders.

Of the first ten ranked players six remain in the running for the title. They are McLoughlin, 1; Williams, 2; Behr, 3; Johnson, 6; Alexander, 8, and Washburn, 9. Church, who was ranked at No. 7, was defeated by Washburn, and R. Lindley Murray, No. 4; William J. Clothier, No. 5, and Elia F. Fottrell, No. 10, did not compete.

Maurice McLoughlin's polo coat was compared to Sam Langford's bath robe, which has covered the colored boxer when entering the ring for the past decade. Charlie Watson says the two garments are so much alike that he should be pardoned for the comparison.

George M. Church, the intercollegiate champion, narrowly escaped a bad accident during his match with Watson M. Washburn. After a brilliant rally, Washburn drove the ball down the sideline. Church raced after it and in his eagerness to make a return ran into the linesman's chair. He was sent sprawling on the turf. He limped slightly for a few moments, but quickly forgot the incident.

McLoughlin has only to appear in flannels when there is a general rush to see him. When playing a match he is certain of a big gallery, no matter if every other court is deserted.

SCHOOLBOYS ON THE COURTS.

Interscholastic Tennis Championship Tournament Starts Today.

The first event of the interscholastic championship tennis tournament, which is always a feature of the national tournament, will begin at 10:15 o'clock this morning on the turf courts of the West Side Club at Forest Hills, L. I. The present holder, Leonard Beekman, is a Yale student and a contestant in the national championships. Among the eight sectional representatives are four who have been eliminated from the all-comers' tournament. These are Herbert L. Bowman of Mt. Vernon, Harold A. Throckmorton, Charles S. Garland and Sidney Thayer, Jr.

Tournament at Forest Hills the championship is thought to rest between Thayer and Throckmorton, with the latter a slight favorite should he be able to control the wildness he showed in his match with E. H. Whitney. The draw follows:

Interscholastic Championship.—Herbert L. Bowman, Westchester, versus Sidney Thayer, Jr., Harvard; John Virden, University School, Cleveland, versus Charles S. Garland, Yale; [illegible] versus Harold A. Throckmorton, Princeton; Willis R. Harlow, University of Pennsylvania, versus H. C. Tremaine, Columbia University.

Nassau Boys Tennis Winners.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Sept. 1.—The Nassau Junior tennis team of the Nassau Country Club of Glen Cove, L. I., was again victorious over the Rumson Juniors on the courts of the Rumson Country Club today. This victory for Nassau gives the boys the silver loving cup and the individual trophies presented by [illegible] of the Nassau Country Club. The Rumson players were much more aggressive than in their previous [illegible] four of the [illegible]. The final score stands 12 to 6 in favor of the Nassau team.

TRAVERS AND OUIMET LOSE GOLF MATCHES

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—No greater upsets were ever recorded in a national amateur golf championship tournament than resulted in the second round of match play at the Country Club of Detroit today, when two champions, Francis Ouimet and Jerome D. Travers, were eliminated. These holders of the national amateur and open titles, respectively, were beaten by Jimmie Standish and Max Marston, both practically unheard of in national competition. Standish won his match by 5 up and 4 to play, providing the biggest surprise of the day, while Marston's margin was 2 and 1.

Marston was forced to play record-breaking golf to beat Travers, who was decidedly off his game because of illness, making the afternoon round of eighteen holes in 71, bettering the course record of 72 strokes set by Howard Lee of the Country Club one year ago. At that time fewer traps handicapped the play and the fairways were wider, making drives and approach shots easier. Marston, the Baltusrol youngster, had his match won after halving the seventeenth hole, but the final hole was played to give Marston an opportunity to set the record, which he easily did when he showed a 33 for the inward journey, three better than par.

Another precedent was established when Bob Gardner, the former Yale track athlete, who has been cutting a rather wide swath in the tournament, made the seventh hole in one stroke, his drive hesitating somewhat on the green, and then deciding that it would be advisable to roll into the cup after all. It was the first time that a hole on the Detroit course was ever made in one stroke, and it was also the first time that a ball was holed out in one in any tournament under the auspices of the United States Golf Association. The seventh is the shortest hole on the course, 144 yards, and par for it is 3. Gardner made his one on the morning trip out.

With the downfall of Ouimet and Travers, the big three—Travers, Ouimet, and Evans, all champions—are eliminated, and the highest amateur golfing honors in America lie among a crowd of players almost unheard of in the East, whence golf kings have been coming ever since the United States Golf Association was organized. John Anderson, Siwanoy; Sherrill Sherman, Yahnundasis, and Max Marston, Baltusrol, are the only Easterners who survived the second round of match play, which permitted only eight survivors for the third round to be staged tomorrow.

The other five are Westerners, and it is generally conceded by close observers of the qualifying rounds and the two match rounds already decided, that the next national amateur title holder will be a Western lad and a youngster. Jimmie Standish, Detroit Country Club; Howard Lee, Detroit Country Club; Ned Sawyer, Wheaton Country Club; Bob Gardner, Hinsdale C. C., and Nelson Whitney, Audubon C. C., are the others who still have a chance for the crown, which has been held for the past year by Francis Ouimet. Considerable play was made on the chances of the two Detroit boys, Lee and Standish, after their performances today, Lee's 9 and 8 victory over Hamilton Kerr equaling the largest winning margin of the day.

Both are playing sensational golf and their success has been due to their own accomplishments rather than to failures on the part of their opponents. Ned Sawyer and Max Marston are two who are considered the only real stumbling blocks in the paths of the local lads. Marston must be beaten by Lee tomorrow to enable him to remain in for the semi-final round. Judging by his prowess the past few days, which has been about as brilliant as any golfer could desire, namely, the mastering of two giants, Standish should survive his match with Sherrill Sherman. Although the "doping" is as difficult as possible, majority opinion in the nineteenth hole after today's play seemed to be that Sawyer would upset Gardner. In that case another victory would be gained by the West. That would cause a great deal of trouble for Lee and Standish by Sawyer's ability.

Nelson Whitney, who has been named the Evans of the South, is a lad whose successes are being slighted to a great extent and he must be carefully watched during the remainder of the tournament. Whitney draws John Anderson for his third round match and is generally considered to be the superior of the two in match play.

There was no alibi nor excuse for the defeat of Ouimet, but in the case of Travers, his illness explains this. Ouimet was merely outplayed from beginning to end and was fortunate in not being beaten by a greater margin, while Travers played good golf, as his cards of 76—73—149 for thirty-six holes prove. It was a nip-and-tuck battle that Travers had on his hands, and he was pitted against a player who had youth in his favor and was capable of keeping a stiff front in the face of the greatest reversal and playing his best at all times, a slip-up or flubbed shot bothering him only to the extent that it affected figures of his card.

Standish should have had Travers 3 down at luncheon time instead of being 1 down himself. Poor putting placed Jimmie in this position, and his mistakes were felt more keenly by the usually [illegible], which is always with the under dog, than by himself apparently, as he was constantly joking with friends in the gallery and always smiling, never appearing worried at any stage of the contest.

Similar mistakes lost the match for Ouimet. Francis realized that his own crown was gradually slipping from him, and this, together with the loud applause according Standish's shots, affected him a trifle, and caused his stiff upper lip to waver the least bit. He tried to figure his shots too closely, and usually by the time he was ready to meet the ball with his club he had lost his sense of direction and distance, and flubbed shots repeatedly.

Ouimet used a 42 going out in the afternoon and was doing little better when the match was terminated with the halving of the fourteenth hole. He sliced into the rough on the sixth going out in the afternoon, and placed his second shot behind a tree. He lifted the ball into the ditch with his mashie, and did not get on to the green until five strokes had been spent. He holed out in 6 on a four hole, requiring more strokes for that hole than he needed for any other or than were used by his opponent during the entire match.

Standish confided to a friend during lunchtime that he was "feeling great and like going out and doing something." He made good on this hunch by squaring the match on the second hole of the afternoon section by a 4-to-5 count. The next two were halved in 5, while the fifth, sixth, and seventh went to Jimmie with a 2-5-2, as compared to Ouimet's 3-6-4. The eighth and ninth were halved, leaving Standish 3 up at the turn, and feeling as chipper as it is possible for a golfer in the prime of youth to feel. Extraordinary good driving gave Standish his pairs of twos. He came within a few inches of making a one on the seventh, his drive dying just before reaching the cup. It was an easy two. He made the fifth by sinking a long putt from the rear of the green, while Ouimet required two putts.

Standish continued his sensational play on the play five holes, having a medal card of 18, par for them being 20, which the Boston Frenchman equalled. The Detroit lad did not appear overconfident nor bothered at any stage of the conflict. His attitude was always that of one who has everything to gain and nothing in particular to lose and of being willing to exert every possible means to attain the end desired. Jimmie, who is as eratic a golfer as has ever been developed in these parts, was enjoying one of his good playing streaks, and the best man in the world couldn't have beaten him while traveling along at that rate. In fact, Standish felt so well and so much like playing golf that he wanted to continue the match and finish the remaining four holes "just for the fun of it." If that spirit and coincident ability continues during the remainder of the week, Standish will be a hot favorite to struggle along under the national amateur honors which are at stake.

Two stymies laid by Ouimet, one on each the thirteenth and sixteenth hole, affected the defeated champion little, spectacular work with his iron enabling him to halve these holes in 4 and 5, respectively. This occurred during the forenoon play. Standish should have had a 2-up margin at this time, but his putter failed to do just what Jimmie desired, so he was forced to be satisfied with keeping the match even. The seventeenth was also halved, Ouimet gaining his 1-up advantage on the first 18 holes on the final green when a six-foot putt which seemed easy for Standish was rimmed and Ouimet gained a 3.

Ouimet realized at the start of the afternoon round that he was doomed unless he uncovered more brilliant golf than he had shown in his qualifying rounds and in the first round of match play Tuesday. Every movement made by the Bostonian showed that he felt himself slipping. Both equaled par on the nineteenth with a 4, taking two putts. A 4 by Standish on the next squared the match, Ouimet needing a par 5. Neither showed anything on the twenty-first and twenty-second, these being halved in 5's. A beautiful drive placed Jimmie on the green on the next and he holed a 10-foot putt for a 2, gaining the upper hand for the first time. Ouimet had a 3.

The Detroit boy flubbed his drive on the twenty-fourth, barely rolling his ball 100 feet. A poor approach and two bad putts gave him a 5 and the hole, as his opponent was having similar trouble, but more of it, and took a 6. Standish barely missed getting a 1 on the next hole, which he won 2 to 4. The turn was reached after the next two had been halved, placing Ouimet 3 down.

A drive into the wilderness on the twenty-eighth practically dispelled what little hopes were still entertained by the followers of the former champion. An accurate drive and mid-iron placed Standish's ball within easy putting distance and he sank a 3 to Ouimet's 4, which is par for that hole. Both bettered par for the next by getting 4's for the longest hole on the course. Jimmie played a nice wooden on the next and reached the green in 2, but a pair of putts were needed befort he dropped into the cup, taking the hole 4 to 5. The last two holes were holed in par 4's and 3's, and what chances Ouimet had to retain his crown another year were shattered.

Results of the second round.

Jimmie Standish, Detroit C. C., defeated Francis Ouimet, Woodland G. C., 5 and 4; New Sawyer, Wheaton C. C., defeated Gardner White, Flushing C. C., 6 and 5; Howard B. Lee, Detroit C. C., defeated Hamilton Kerr, Ekwanok C. C., 9 and 8; Max Marston, Baltusrol C. C., defeated Jerome D. Travers, Upper Montclair C. C., 2 and 1; Nelson Whitney, Audubon C. C., defeated A. C. Ulmer, Florida C. C., 9 and 8; Sherrill Sherman, Yahnundasis C. C., defeated J. N. Stearns, 3d, Williamsport C. C., 1 up, 37 holes; John G. Anderson, Siwanoy C. C., defeated J. B. Schlotman, Detroit C. C., 4 and 3; Robert A. Gardner, Hinsdale C. C., defeated T. M. Sherman, Yahnundasis C. C., 2 and 1.

MARSTON'S DRIVING LONG.

And His Approach Shots Excelled Travers's—New Record.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—They are making golf history and making it fast in the national amateur championship tournament at the Country Club of Detroit. In the short space of a few hours today both national titleholders, Jerome D. Travers, wearer of the open crown, and Francis Ouimet, the amateur champion, were brushed aside.

And then to thing of a hole being made in one stroke* That climax was reached when Robert A. Gardner, one of the Chicago players, put Thomas M. Sherman to rout by holing a mashie shot at the short seventh.

"I would not have minded it so much," said the Utica man, "if it had not been that I had a 2 myself."

The writer recalls only one other feat of this kind which happened in the tournament at Atlantic City in 1901, when A. G. Lockwood made the eleventh in one stroke against the late W. A. Holabird, Jr., who holed out on his second stroke.

Dame Fortune never smiled on Sherman today. In the early hours Gardner did all sorts of things in the way of putting, bringing off long ones on several greens, and making the round in 73. That left Sherman 4 down at the end of the morning, but he lived up to his reputation as a fighter by going after his man in the afternoon to such good effect that he actually stood 1 up at the thirteenth. Gardner then won three straight holes and the match. He brought off a putt at the fourteenth, laid a full brassie close to the hole out of the rough at the fifteenth, and got down another putt on the sixteenth green.

"What can you do against that kind of golf?" remarked Sherman.

While in no way wishing to detract from the victory so well earned by J. D. Standish, Jr., over Ouimet, yet it should not be overlooked that all the forward tees today were used. In an all-day match this placing of the disks as far forward as possible is bound to make a big difference and in a way gives the long driver little or no advantage. At least, that was the way Ouimet looked at it. Always yards beyond Standish, this extra length by Ouimet would have helped more had the tees been where they were yesterday. They would have made the second shots different. On the other hand, it is a question if Ouimet or any one else could have made any headway against the putting of the Detroit golfer. In looking back over the day's efforts, the winner must have recalled with pleasure the way he holed putts on about ten different greens. Ouimet's iron shots were not up to his standard, nor was his putting as deadly as it often is. When driving the Woodland golfer stands far from his ball, and, while usually straight, the wonder is that he does not pull into trouble more often than he does.

The short tee argument advanced by the Boston contingent certainly did not apply in the match in which Max Marston of Baltusrol dethroned Travers. Off nearly every tee Marston had the advantage over the Upper Montclair golfer, but had the latter been able to control his irons, he might have been just as near the pin after the approach as the New Jersey "champ." Strange to relate, it was with the irons, usually Travers's long suit, where Marston really won. The thousand or more in the gallery that crowded about the seventeenth green, where the match ended, were as silent as a stone as Travers took his stance to make the putt that meant either defeat or a chance to continue further, Marston was dormie and his third shot, a chip from short of the green, had left him a putt of not more than a yard, whereas Travers had to get a long one, probably twenty-five feet for a three. He missed by a hair's breadth. Marston's spectacular shot was the jumping of a stymie for a 2 at the seventh hole in the afternoon.

WOMEN'S GOLF ENTRY LIST.

Only Five from Metropolitan District Will Play at Onwentsia.

With the largest total ever known in the hisory of women's golf, the list of entries for the women's national championship was announced last night at the office of Howard F. Whitney, Secretary of the United States Golf Association, in this city. There were 105 names on the list. Never before has the number of entries exceeded the hundred mark.

There are three foreign entries, Miss Vera Ramsay of England a favorite among many; Mrs. W. A. Gavin of Shirley Park, England and Mrs. F. D. Payne of Canada. The name of Mrs. J. V. Hurd of Pittsburgh who was Miss Dorothy Campbell appears. Mrs. Hurd is said to be playing the game of her life. She won the title in 1909 and 1910. The entries follow:

Miss Ethel Chatfield, Kishwaukee; Miss Kathryn Motley, Morris County; Mrs. Ezra J. Warner, Jr., Onwentsia; Miss Marjorie Miller, Milwaukee; Mrs. A. K. Maxwell, Lake Geneva; Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, Ravisloe; Mrs. E. S. Farrand, Wheaton; Mrs. G. A. McKinlock, Onwentsia; Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, Nassau; Mrs. Philip Armour, Onwentsia; Mrs. F. H. Newcomb, Wheaton; Miss Ruth B. Helland Admits He Ran at Ilion.

Hal Helland, a member of the American Olympic team in 1912, yesterday admitted to Jacob W. Stumpf, Chairman of the Metropolitan A. A. U. Registration Committee, that he had participated in a professional foot race at Ilion, N. Y., on Aug. 21. The former Xavier A. A. athlete denied, however, that the exhibition was "faked" and that his opponent was Donald W. Lippincott, the University of Pennsylvania sprinter. Helland says he does not know who his opponent was, for he had never seen him up to the time of the start. He informed Mr. Stumpf that he was certain his rival was not a member of the Amateur Athletic Union, and that he will assist to the full extent of his power to identify the man. Helland, of course, has forfeited his amateur status.

The A. A. U. will not let the matter rest as it now stands, but will conduct a rigid investigation to ascertain the full facts of the case.

GIANTS DEFEAT AND SURPRISE PHILLIES—YANKEES TO GET "HOME RUN" BAKER—TURF

JIM THORPE PUTS LIFE INTO GIANTS

Returns from Minor League and Slams Ball All Around Polo Grounds.

Jim Thorpe, the Indian friend of the King of Sweden, came over from Harrisburg yesterday and halted the pennant rush of Patrick Moran's Phillies. Thorpe was ably assisted by Bill Ritter, who did his Spring training at Marlin on typhoid fever. The Phils were halted by the proportion of 6 to 5. The general appearance of the game was radically changed from a Philadelphia to a Manhattan victory in the eighth inning, when the Giants batted George McQuillan out of the box.

Harrisburg must be a great little town. It did wonders for Jim Thorpe. When the Giants sent him back to the minors, Thorpe wasn't batting enough to keep warm. Yesterday he made three hits—two singles and a double—scored two runs and put the Giants on their feet. Why not send the whole team to Harrisburg for a visit?

The only sleepy feature about this club of Pat Moran's is the name on their baseball shirts. The players are on their toes, are scrappy and keep up an incessant volley of miscellaneous chatter. Luderus, at firstbase, is the leader of the gab club, and Stock at third base is first tenor. Niehoff at second is baritone, and Dave Bancroft bass. On the bench, Beals Becker, Baumgartner, and Alexander keep up a continual chorus of chin music. Since the Phils have become imbued with pennant madness, they have developed into the liveliest and the noisiest club in the league.

If Moran should win this pennant, he will not be called a miracle man. He should be called the master builder. He has built up a club of outcasts. Stock wasn't good enough for the Giants, Niehoff was "fired" by Cincinnati, Demaree couldn't throw a ball fast enough to break glass when he was here, and Becker has made a general tour of the National League.

Any manager who can build a pennant winner with material of this sort could build a beautiful country villa on Long Island out of cigar boxes.

Ralph Stroud started to pitch for the Giants, and in the third inning the heavy hitters of the Phils made him think a cyclone had struck him. Here is where Bill Ritter came out of hiding. Just take a squint at what Bill did. He gave the mauling Phils two hits in six innings and struck out seven of them.

Up to the time that the Giants began to rally in the eighth, the pitching of George McQuillan was about as plain to them as looking through a ground-glass window. The Giants' hits yesterday went further than at any time this season, that is, further in the air. The higher they went, the easier it was for the Phils to grab them.

Philadelphia started after Stroud in the third inning and got him. After McQuillan skied to Merkle, Stock walked and went to third on Bancroft's double to left. Paskert smashed a triple over Merkle's roof in center and scored Stock and Bancroft. When the ball was returned to third, Grant muffed it and Paskert counted.

The Giants showed signs of consciousness in the fifth. Fletcher singled to centre and Ritter and Schang were easy outs on fly balls. Then Jim Thorpe cracked out a double and sent Fletcher to third. Burns singled to right and scored Fletcher and Thorpe.

In the first of the eighth, a lawless throw by Schang gave the Phils two more runs. After two were gone, Luderus tripled to right, the first hit off Ritter. Whitted got a hit to the infield. The runners started a double steal and Schang threw to third to catch Luderus. Both runners scored on the wild toss to left field.

Paskert made a wonderful catch of Schang's fly in the last half of the eighth, and Thorpe got his third hit of the day, beating out a bunt. Burns rolled to Stock who threw to second to force Thorpe, and Niehoff muffed the ball. Grant walked and filled the bases. Robertson's single to centre scored Thorpe and Burns. Larry Doyle pounded a double to right and sent Grant home. McQuillan was withdrawn and Mayer went into the game. He passed Merkle and filled the bases again. Fletcher lofted a high fly to Paskert, after which Robertson scored with the winning run. The score:

Braves Shut Out by Reds.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—Toney had the Braves at a loss to hit his delivery today and Cincinnati won, 4 to 0. The visitors hit Ragan consecutively in the fourth inning for three runs. Snodgrass, who made the only hit off Toney, was removed from the game after throwing his bat in the air in protest against a strike-out decision by Umpire Byron. The score:

YANKS BUY BAKER, 'HOME RUN KING'

Transfer of Famous Third Baseman for $15,000 Expected to be Made Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—The sale of J. Franklin Baker, former third baseman of the Athletics and "home run king" of the American League, will be announced tomorrow unless Connie Mack refuses to go through with the deal discussed here today. Ban Johnson, President of the American League; President Lannin of the Boston Club, Vice-President Huston of the New York Americans, and President B. S. Shibe of the Athletics were in conference all afternoon, and the transfer is expected to be made tomorrow. The sale was outright and the price is believed to be $15,000.

The sale of Baker is part of the plan devised by American League club owners to strengthen the Yankees and boost the game in New York, where interest in baseball has taken a big fall owing to the poor showing of the Giants and the tumbling fortunes of the Yankees. More than one American League club will contribute to the upbuilding of the Yankees, but Baker is the only player known to have been settled upon for transfer so far.

Ban Johnson stopped off in New York yesterday and came here today accompanied by Captain Huston of the Yankees, the tip being given out that Johnson's trip East was for the purpose of starting a crusade against gambling at the ball parks. As soon as the men got together, however, Johnson proposed the Baker deal and Huston expressed his willingness to pay a liberal price for the "fence buster." There is little doubt that New York paid well for Baker, because Connie Mack has repeatedly declared he would not allow Baker to go to any other major league club.

Many reports have been in circulation recently that Baker was to be sold, the name of the St. Louis team being repeatedly mentioned, but when the New York Yankees learned he was on the market they put in their bid and called Mack's attention to the fact that they offered to take him off Mack's hands last Spring, when Baker announced he had retired from baseball. New York has always been anxious to get the "home run king" because in addition to the strength he would bring to the club he would be a star attraction well worth paying a big figure for.

Baker is at his home in Trappe, Md., and will come here tomorrow to meet the New York Club's representatives. Baker has a contract with the Athletics which has three years more to run and which calls for a salary of $20,000 for three years.

Baker has received several offers from the Federal League, one stipulating that he was to become a member of the club to be placed in New York next season. It is understood the American League learned of this and at once got busy and persuaded Connie to sell the slugger to New York.

"Stuffy" McInnis, who has been missing from the Mack team for some time, turned up today and played first base for the Athletics. There are strong rumors in circulation, despite denials, that McInnis also will be sold by the Athletics, and four clubs are known to be bidding for him. The Red Sox, New York, and St. Louis teams all want him.

Red Sox Blank Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—Foster was in good form and received perfect support today and Boston defeated Philadelphia 6 to 0. The visitors made their runs by bunching hits with passes by Wyckoff and by bunting Nabors, who went to the rubber in the fourth inning. Jack Barry played his first game here against his former team, and was presented with a silver service by the fans. President Ban Johnson of the American League, President Lannin of Boston, and Vice President Huston of the New York Americans, were among the spectators. Score:

Detroit a Hoodoo to White Sox.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—Detroit defeated Chicago in another erratic game today, 5 to 4. An error by Weaver after Burns had driven out a three-base hit in the eighth inning gave the Tigers the winning run. Both Scott and Coveleskie were knocked out of the box, the former retiring in the fourth inning and the latter in the eighth, when an error and three consecutive hits allowed the visitors to tie the score. Chicago has won only one game here this season and has only one more to play on the local field. Score:

YANKEES FAIL IN PINCHES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—It took the Senators twelve innings to plaster a 2 to 1 defeat on the New Yorks this afternoon, and this time Ray Caldwell was the victim.

Pitifully weak hitting in the pinches proved the Yankees' downfall, for the visitors had more opportunities to send runners over the plate than did Washington, but the much needed hit failed to show.

Doc Ayers allowed four hits, only two of these coming in one inning, and in that chapter New York scored its only run.

If ever the breaks of the game went to one club, the Senators got them today, but there is an old axiom which says that "a team must have good pitching and breaks to win." Washington was that club.

Caldwell twirled a typical Caldwell game, almost unbeatable ball. On the other hand, Ayers was a little better at critical stages. It was a tough one for Caldwell to lose and it would also have been a tough one to be charged against the husky Senator.

Both clubs scored in the third inning, and from that time until the twelfth, the fans watched one of the prettiest pitching duels ever staged at National Park. The score:

Cleveland Climbs a Notch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 1.—Cleveland took sixth place from St. Louis by winning today's game, 6 to 2. Carter, a recruit pitcher for Cleveland, was strong in the pinches, and held St. Louis scoreless until the eighth, when Smith dropped Lavan's easy fly and let in the first run. Koob was forced to retire after yielding five runs in four innings. Score:

KRAMER LEADS FOR TITLE.

Bicycle Champion Vanquishes Goullet and Clark at Newark.

After an uphill battle, covering a period of five weeks, Frank Kramer, the American bicycle champion has assumed the lead in the series of races for the 1915 title. The fourteen times champion eliminated Alf Goullet of Australia in the semi-finals and then won the final from Jackie Clark of Australia in the two-mile championship at the Newark Velodrome last night. Before the start of the race Goullet was leading the Yankee by two points. The five points credited to Kramer for his victory gives him a margin of three points. This is the second time since the titular series was started in May that Kramer has led his Australian rivals. It was believed a month ago that Kramer's days as a champion were over, but he was as fast last night as at any time during his racing career of eighteen years.

Frank Cavanagh of New York won the one-mile professional handicap in the fast time of 1:49 3-5. Menus Bedell, Lynbrook, L. I., was second, and Fred Hill, Boston, third.

McFarland and Gibbons at Brighton

When Packy McFarland went down to the Brighton Baths yesterday and looked over the quarters where he was to train for his ten-round bout with Mike Gibbons, to be held at the Brighton Beach Motordrome on Saturday evening, Sept. 11, there was something about the place that did not quite suit the Chicago boxer, and he decided to make a change. He will train for the bout at the Brighton Beach Casino, and will only go over to Brighton Beach to make use of the pool.

As soon as Mike Gibbons heard of Packy's decision, he made an inspection of the training quarters where McFarland had intended getting in shape and decided that they were just what he wanted. He quickly made arrangements for their use, and will train at the baths instead at the New Polo Athletic Association. Both boxers have settled down to hard work and have taken on a large staff of assistants. Gibbons is close to the stipulated weight of 147 pounds at ringside, and McFarland expects to be within striking distance of that weight in a few days.

Despite the efforts of the management to keep tickets away from speculators, they are getting possession of many of them, and reports have reached the club officials that the speculators are selling the tickets at considerably advanced prices. In order that the public may see the bout at the popular prices agreed upon, Mr. Marshall, the promotor, has made announcement that the tickets can be procured at the regular prices at the club offices, and because of the facilities for such a large crowd, the enthusiasts will have no trouble getting the tickets they desire.

Engineers Win at Rifle Range.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The Twenty-second Engineers scored a victory today at the opening of the New York State rifle matches after a close contest in the division match. This is the second year the engineers have taken this match. The engineer team had to fight up hill in the three stages of the match—200, 300, and 600 yards. At the opening of the 600-yard stage Squadron A team led the Twenty-second by fourteen points. The engineers, however, soon overtook the cavalrymen, and at the finish had seven points to spare in a score of 1,584. Squadron A scored a total of 1,578, while the next competitor, the First Cavalry, finished with a score of 1,545.

The surprise of the day was the defeat of the Twenty-third Infantry of Brooklyn by the Forty-seventh Infantry team in the Second Brigade match. The Twenty-third has won this contest for many years, and their defeat is credited to too much confidence. The Forty-seventh scored 1,558, while the Twenty-third made 1,531. In the First Brigade match the Seventh Regiment took first honors with a score of 1,640, defeating the Seventy-first, Twelfth, and Sixty-ninth Regiments.

The weather was ideal for shooting, and a large gallery watched the riflemen at all the stages.

BORROW TAKES HANIDCAP IN ROMP

H. P. Whitney's Colt Finally Wins a Race on the "Home Track."

Up to yesterday Borrow, one of the pets of the Harry Payne Whitney racing stable, had been a disappointment while racing in the East, where Mr. Whitney particularly desired to see him win. Early in the year Borrow won the Kentucky Handicap, and a month or so ago he won a couple of races in Canada, but the best he could do at Saratoga was to run second to Roamer in the Merchants and Citizens' Handicap, and he could do no better at the local courses. Yesterday, however, he atoned for all the disappointments by winning the seventeenth renewal of the Municipal Handicap at the opening of the Autumn meeting at Belmont Park. He won in a big romp, for he was well in hand at the finish, while Sam Jackson, which ran second, and Stromboli, the third horse to finish, were all out at the end. Sam Jackson's efforts to defeat Borrow was a costly one for his owner, as Sam Jackson pulled up so lame in his left foreleg that he limped back to the judges' stand for his jockey to make his weight, with much painful effort, and evidently in such condition as to indicate that his racing days are over.

The Municipal Handicap was run as the fourth race of the afternoon. The preceding victories of True as Steel, Vermont and Wooden Shoes had put the crowd of about 8,000 in trim to see a real horse race. They saw it in the Municipal, for which Borrow had been made an odds-on favorite, The Finn having been withdrawn. From the rising of the barrier Notter made the race in front of the field, though it took something like a mile for him to shake off Stromboli, who gamely disputed every inch of the way. They ran like a pair all through the back stretch, with Sam Jackson, tightly held in wraps, running in third place, and Gainer last, as he was destined to be all through the race. Turner was riding Stromboli all the way, while Notter took things easily with Borrow, merely allowing the handsome bay to run just fast enough to keep the lead and break the heart of his chief competitor. That was done by the time the head of the stretch was reached, for then Stromboli tried to run out, and in so doing bumped into Sam Jackson, which was on the outside of the pair and trying to get up to Borrow when the pair collided. The collision threw Sam Jackson out of his stride just long enough to prevent him from making his run then. He did it gamely later, when he was straightened and when Stromboli had wabbled over to the inside rail. But it was useless, for Borrow had the foot of him, and was able to stall off the belated challenge without feeling the sting of the whip or spur. So Borrow won his first race of the year on his "home track," and finally convinced Eastern racegoers that he was a horse of class after all, for he won like one. The summaries:

BALTIMORE MAY QUIT.

Federal Club Officials Discuss Future—Sell Shortstop Doolan.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 1.—Baltimore Federal League fans were on the anxious bench tonight, due to the strong rumor that flew about the city to the effect that there would be no Federal team here next season. The rumor received more than the ordinary passing notice, due to the fact that the Directing Board of the club met in secret session this afternoon and went deeply into the affairs of the club.

Just as soon as the meeting was over reports were current that Baltimore would not be in the Federal League next year. When the officials were approached on the subject they had nothing to say, except that they would like to ascertain where the leak was among the Directors. They did not even want it known that a meeting had been held, and even withheld the news of the sale of Shortstop Mike Doolan to the Chicago Feds. The sale was known to be true, however, and when told that the fact would be printed, an official said that Manager Knabe, who is in Brooklyn, would give out the details. The deal for Doolan has been on for some time, and when the proper sum was offered for his services he was allowed to go, and will join the Whales in a day or two.

TERRAPINS BEAT BROOKLYN.

Heavy Hitting Gives Them a 7 to 4 Victory.

Perhaps if the Brookfeds had used more pitchers at Washington Park yesterday afternoon they might have won the game from the Terrapins. As it turned out they lost by a score of 7 to 4. John Ganzel, the new manager of the Brooklyn club, sent four men into the fray in the ineffectual effort to stop the invaders, but the clatter of hits was not stilled until Fred (Mysterious) Walker came to the mound. He lasted the longest of any, finishing out the last three and one-third innings. There have been others who have passed Walker in the hunt for a good pitcher, but not John Ganzel. Walker looks good to John now, for he allowed only one hit in the time he was in the game, while Falkenberg, Marion, and Wiltse were decidedly generous to Otto Knabe's crew.

Generally speaking, the Brooklyn team should have won the game. The men made hits enough in the early part of the struggle. The difficulty mostly lay in the pitching, though the fielding was not of the highest order. At any rate, the Brookfeds opened up well. They scored two runs in a jiffy, a single by Anderson, a triple by Lee Magee and a sacrifice fly by Cooper bringing about the result. In the next inning Holt opened with a home run over the right field fence. Le Claire was pounded for another pair of singles in the third that furnished a run when combined with a sacrifice fly and Le Claire retired. Bailey, who succeeded him, held the Brookfeds to one lone hit and with the grab-bag assortment of Ganzel's pitchers proving ineffective, there was only one goal for the Brookfeds—defeat. The score:

COWLER STOPS HEMPLE.

Seconds Toss Sponge Into Ring in Third Round at Rink.

It didn't take Tom Cowler long to make Jack Hemple groggy at the St. Nicholas A. C. last night, but it was three rounds before Hemple's seconds would admit that the Californian had been beaten into submission. In the third round, after Cowler had sent Hemple to the mat with blood streaming from his mouth and cuts in the face, his seconds tossed the sponge in the ring to save him from further punishment.

The big crowd was wildly enthusiastic, and from the first time, in the first round, that Cowler's powerful right sent Hemple sprawling to the mat, the spectators were on their feet, yelling loudly until the sponge ended the battle. And it was not for Cowler alone that the devotees were cheering. They paid tribute to the game exhibition that Hemple put up, and it has been many a day since a boxer stood up unflinchingly under such terrific hammering.

When the two big boxers entered the ring Cowler weighed in at 211 pounds and Hemple tipped the beam at 186.

Cowler, the big boxer whom Jim Corbett brought into the limelight, has improved wonderfully. Last night he showed a knowledge of defense that was woefully lacking in his first bout, and he showed a confidence that was not misplaced. When Hemple landed a heavy blow Cowler took it smilingly, but was ever careful and cautious. By his victory last night Cowler has worked himself into a ten-round bout with Al Reich at the St. Nicholas Club next Wednesday night.

STALLION STAKES FOR HENRY TODD

Massachusetts Horse Wins National Championship in Straight Heats.

Chester W. Lasell, a wealthy amateur reinsman of Whitinsville, Mass., won the National Championship Stallion Stakes for three-year-old trotters at the Grand Circuit meeting at the Empire City track yesterday with Henry Todd, a young horse that he bred, developed, trained, and drove to victory. The prize was the largest of the Grand Circuit thus far this season, and the largest yet offered by the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, under the auspices of which organization the race was arranged. The winner received $5,092.50, and the total stakes were $10,435.

Henry Todd is by Henry Setzer, his dam being Nowaday, and is a handsome-looking horse with a wonderful turn of speed. Yesterday the track was three or four seconds slower than usual, and the two heats were timed at 2:11¾ and 2:12½.

Several years ago Mr. Lasell made two or three attempts to sell the sire of Henry Todd, as he was not at all satisfied with the stallion, and it was only owing to the repeated entreaties of his stable manager that he reluctantly consented to retain Henry Setzer.

There were six starters in the race. After many false breaks they were finally sent away in almost perfect alignment. Onward Forbes, driven by Thomas Murphy, drew the pole and led for the first half mile. But at the end of the back stretch he shot his bolt and Deroche, with Geers in the seat, assumed the lead.

Henry Todd, who had been in third place, moved up to second, and coming into the stretch, was less than a length behind the leader. Lasell went to the whip, and his horse quickly got on even terms with Deroche. Fifty yards from the finish they were racing neck and neck. Just before they reached the Judge's stand Lasell again urged the winner, who responded gamely, and the gelding crossed the finish line a head in front of Deroche.

The second heat was virtually a repetition of the opening one, the only difference being that the Colorado Bell was the contender to Henry Todd instead of Deroche, who could not do better than fourth, Onward Forbest coming in third.

Squadron A Reds Polo Victors.

A safety registered against J. F. Johnson in the third period gave the Red poloists of Squadron A a hard-earned victory over the Whites at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday by a score of 5 to 4¾ goals. The match was the prettiest of the practice series, and though beaten the Whites appeared to have an edge on the play. Their driving was erratic, for they missed efforts at the goal post that should have counted easily. The line-up:

Reds.—1, Dr. Blackwell; 2, S. M. Rumbough; 3, H. Holt; back, Dr. Richards.
Whites.—1, A. C. Smidt; 2, W. G. Eaton; 3, W. B. Boulton, Jr.; back, J. F. Johnson.
Referee, Fred Anderson.

The annual open polo tournament of Squadron A will be opened at Van Cortlandt Park on Tuesday with a match between the Piping Rock Freebooters and the Whitney Whips. On the ensuing day Squadron A will go into action against a team whose name is yet to be selected. On Thursday the Rumson Freebooters play the winners of Tuesday's match, and on Saturday the final will be contested.

Army Footballers Start Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Although Head Coach Lieutenant Charles D. Daly did not arrive today, the Army football players got under way with their first offical practice of the 1915 season. Seventy-five cadets answered the first call, among whom were several new men from the plebe class. Fries, a big, husky lad, who comes from the University of Cincinnati with an all-around Ohio reputation earned at the institution in the tackle position, is among the promising looking finds. The problem of replacing Butler, the veteran tackle, who is lost to the team this year, through a difficulty with a Tactical Department, confronts the coaches, as well as that of finding suitable men for the places at quarter back and end, respectively, made vacant by the graduation of Prichard and Merrillat. Trainer Harry Tuthill reported today and took up his duties with the team. The coaching this afternoon was in charge of Captain Dan I. Sultan, assisted by Lieutenants Thompson, Stearns, and Hayes and Cadet Weyand, the Captain of the Army team. The men worked for an hour and a half at getting down under kicks and catching punts. Passing the ball and forming interference also formed a part of the day's program. Daily workouts will be held from now until the cadets play the Navy in New York in November.

TWO HURT AT HORSE SHOW.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Two persons were injured, one seriously, when The Count, a hunter belong to Major W. A. Wadsworth of Geneseo, took the bit in his teeth as he was leaving the Horse Show inclosure this afternoon and jumped into a crowd lining the fence. To curb the horse's fractiousness his rider drew The Count's head up so high that the hunter stood perpendicularly on his hind legs for a second, within a few feet of the rail. The crowd, unfrightened, held its place, and when The Count got his head he went up and over the rail. He handed between the inner and outer fences and on top of Dwight Knapp, of Blustan, Ind. One shoe struck Knapp a hard blow on the chest, breaking two ribs, and causing other injuries undetermined as yet at the hospital where he was taken. A woman was slightly bruised.

Miss Isabelle Wanamaker of Philadelphia was easily the outstanding winner in the arena in the harness classes. In the hunt division the Meadows Farm of Avon and the Wadsworths leaped to the foreground.

Eve and Suave, the champion hunting pair of Tuesday, repeated for their young mistress in the judging of couples again today and her Princess won the blue, hung in the section for combination saddle and harness horses. Both victories were popular.

Miss Mapleton, the sterling hunter out of the Avon country, was sent into the ring in both the performance and jumping classes, and firsts were hers in both, although a spring of sixteen feet over the Grafton impediment was enough to win for her. In the performance class she was better than Revlo, her stable mate; the Wasp and a score of other princelings.

Spills were abundant, but none had the disastrous consequences of The Count's flight. Arthur White was tossed against the stone wall, but arose safely and continued his ride, and three other whips, including Donnolly, were unseated. Donnolly and his hunter sprawled in a jam of crossbars when the horse's hoofs hit both the lower and top bars, but the rider expertly pinned the horse's head on the ground until help ran to him.

Bluebonnets Grandstand Burned.

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—With the Autumn meeting of the Bluebonnets Jockey Club scheduled to open tomorrow, the $40,000 grandstand today is a heap of twisted steel girders and smoking cinders. The fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin, started during the night. By daybreak the grandstand had been destroyed. The loss will not, however, interfere with the opening of the meeting, it was announced.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPT. 2, 1915.

GERMANY YIELDS.

President WILSON is in a position to say with the fervor of full conviction that "truth is mighty and will prevail." The great diplomatic triumph which, with the able and fortunate assistance of Secretary Lansing, he has achieved in the long controversy with Germany is one for which the world will award him great credit, it will bring him high distinction, but it is a victory as well of truth and of the "many sacred principles of justice and humanity" for which in the various notes dispatched to Berlin he has contended with so much firmness and ability. He stood upon the very rock of truth when in the first Lusitania note, that of May 13, he called the attention of the German Government to the rule "that the lives of noncombatants, whether they be of neutral citizenship or citizens of one of the nations at war, cannot lawfully or rightfully be put in jeopardy by the capture or destruction of unarmed merchantmen." He proclaimed a recognized truth when he told Germany that the principles of international law and the rules of warfare at sea demanded that warning should be given and provision made for the safety of a merchant ship's company of noncombatants before she could be fired upon in the attempt to destroy her. Germany yields to President WILSON, she accepts and promises to honor and obey the principles of law upon which our protests have been based. Ambassador VON BERNSTORFF informs the Secretary of State that his instructions concerning the German answer to our Lusitania note of July 21 contain the following assurance:

> Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of noncombatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance.

This, as Secretary LANSING says, "is a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended." It is an assurance that German submarines will not without warning launch their torpedoes against passenger ships, whether or not they carry American passengers. It applies to all "liners." Observed in good faith this means that the crew and passengers of merchant ships will not be lawlessly put to death by submarines. Germany promises "safety" for noncombatants and the word must be taken in its natural meaning, not that noncombatants will have a chance to escape by being allowed to take to the ship's boats even though she be at so great a distance from the nearest port as to make that chance practically one of death only, but that their lives and their safety shall be assured.

There will be speculation as to Germany's motive, after prolonged resistance, in making this full concession. It may be said that she accepts the conclusion of Captain PERSIUS, who declared the other day that submarine warfare was in the military sense profitless; it may be said that the English Navy has destroyed so many of her submarines that she finds it necessary to abandon operations in the war zone, and there is apparent confirmation of the report published some days ago that more than fifty German submarines have been destroyed by the British. It is unnecessary to speculate concerning minor motives, however, when the greater and determining motive is plainly in view. Germany yields to President WILSON's firm representations, she promises obedience to law and usage, because she is unwilling to forfeit the friendship of this nation.

That was the situation that confronted her. We had told her in our last note of July 21 that the acts and contravention of our rights of which we had complained, if repeated, "must be regarded by the Government of the United States, when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly." The destruction of the Arabic, causing the loss of American lives, followed. We did not repeat our protests, we made no new demand. We made no representation whatever to the Berlin Government. We instructed Ambassador GERARD to inquire if that Government had received a report concerning the Arabic. The President was calling for the facts, the facts as reported from British sources and from German sources. Plainly, action would follow. The situation was full of danger. Germany saw that a rupture of friendly relations with us was imminent. Then we were asked to withhold definite action until we heard from Berlin. We now hear from Berlin and the message is one of compliance, of friendship, of peace.

Most fortunately Germany is able to say to us through her Ambassador that the action now taken "was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred." Obviously, that relieves the very great anxiety due to the destruction of the Arabic after we had told Germany that such an act would be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly." Germany can now disavow that act, for she tells us that the policy of attack without warning and without provision for the safety of passengers and crew had been abandoned before the Arabic was destroyed. It is now believed that the submarine which sank the Arabic was itself sunk soon after. Whether its commander had disobeyed orders, or whether the orders issued by his Government had never reached him, is now a matter of minor moment. In view of her declaration Germany has no course but to disavow his act. The case of the Arabic and the case of the Lusitania as well are now plainly in the way of honorable and friendly adjustment. Reparation will be made and the controversy will end in the only right and just manner.

The satisfaction of the Government and the people of the United States will be deep and sincere. We have not desired trouble with Germany, even to the extent of sundering diplomatic relations. We have earnestly wished to retain her friendship and to give her our friendship. It is most gratifying to be assured that she has had no intention to show deliberate unfriendliness and it is satisfying to know that she intends to conform to the usages of civilized warfare. And it is not in this country alone that this sense of satisfaction will be felt. President WILSON in the second Lusitania note told Germany that this country was "contending for nothing less high and sacred than the rights of humanity which every Government honors itself in respecting and which no Government is justified in resigning on behalf of those under its care and authority." The President spoke for all neutral nations, he had become the defender of their rights and the privileges of their citizens or subjects, which Germany now acknowledges and will respect. It is a triumph not only of diplomacy but of reason, of right, of humanity, of justice, and of truth.

Americans will be quick to recognize the very great part that Ambassador VON BERNSTORFF has played in these negotiations, and they will accord him full credit for the priceless service he has performed. What we have called the German propaganda in this country was a mistake, it did not promote friendship, it sowed the seeds of distrust and resentment. Count VON BERNSTORFF, it is now plainly evident, has put the truth before his Government with unmistakable plainness. He has told Berlin of the deep and universal feeling aroused here by the destruction of the Lusitania and of the Arabic, he has made his influence felt, he has succeeded in bringing his Government to see what he saw, to understand the sentiment of the American people. He shares in the triumph now won.

THE SELLERS' FESTIVAL.

American goods are the dearest in the world and yet, at the same time, Europe is so much in need of them that she has to go on buying them, with the effect of making them dearer still. Economic laws are turned upside down. We have, in this country, the best market in which to sell and the worst market in which to buy. But Europe has nothing to sell to us, or very little, and her necessities compel her to buy. So, the international account is thrown away out of balance. The buying is all on one side, the selling all on the other.

Normally, to continue at all, trade must be two-sided, tending always to come out even. In the course of a peaceful year it comes out so nearly even, between the United States and Europe, that only 2 or 3 per cent. of the total account has to be settled by the transfer of gold from one side of the Atlantic to the other; for the other 97 or 98 per cent. purchases balance sales, back and forth. Hence, the use of foreign exchange bills in lieu of gold shipments. A merchant in New York owing money in London would never think of sending gold. He would buy from a Wall Street banker a draft on a London banker for so many pounds sterling. Likewise a London merchant owing money in America, perhaps at the very same moment, is buying a London banker's draft on a New York banker for so many dollars.

This swapping of credit is but the means of swapping goods without the intervention of gold. It amounts to many hundreds of millions a year between this country and Europe. But now, because Europe buys so many more goods than she sells, the demand in London for dollar credit at New York is very much greater than the demand in New York for pound credit at London. Hence the premium on dollars and the discount on pounds. It is a premium not upon American gold over European gold; it is a premium on the means of settling debts in dollars without the use of gold. Europe would rather pay the premium than send the gold, because, for one reason, shipping gold is very costly and extra hazardous in time of war, and, for another, all the belligerents wish to keep their gold so long as they can afford to do so. It is, for instance, costing Great Britain 7 cents in every dollar to pay her American debts in credit rather than in gold.

Roughly, an American dollar buys a dollar and seven cents' worth of English goods. The English money equivalent of a dollar buys only 93 cents' worth of American goods. A little more than a year ago, when conditions were normal, a New York merchant desiring to make a remittance to London went into the foreign exchange market and bought an English pound sterling for $4.87¾. This week, on the same errand, he could buy an English pound sterling for $4.50. Normally, in the foreign exchange market of Wall Street, one would have to pay 19½ cents for a French franc; one can now buy it for 16 2-3 cents. Normally, one would have to pay 23¾ cents for a German mark; it now is worth a trifle more than 20 cents.

That is the measure in which the present state of foreign exchange favors the American who is buying foreign credit with dollars. On the other side is the corresponding disadvantage of the foreigner buying American credit with pounds, francs, or marks. The cost of remitting $1,000 to New York, through a European banker, in July, 1914, and now, compares as follows:

	In July, 1914.	Now.
From London	205 pounds	220 pounds
From Paris	5,162 francs	6,010 francs
From Berlin	4,210 marks	5,000 marks

Only countries at war could afford to trade on these onerous terms. They are not likely to become less onerous so long as the war continues. The amount of gold that the Bank of England has allowed to be exported recently to this country, together with large quantities of American securities, has not perceptibly retarded the fall of the English pound sterling in New York exchange value. And yet, there is somewhere a limit below which it cannot go without making the cost even of war munitions prohibitive. It is obvious, on the other hand, that the Allies cannot pay in gold for the goods they are buying here—at least not without utterly denuding themselves of the precious metal. We could no more afford that than they could, for without gold they would be disastrously impoverished as future customers. Neither can we afford to take their credit at too great a discount. That, also, tends to diminish their future buying power. Therefore, it would seem to be the task of the highest banking intelligence in this country to develop the ways and means of placing American credit at Europe's disposal on terms short of ruinous. We have plenty of it. The need is but to mobilize it for this purpose.

THE ONE CONVENTION CITY.

San Francisco has just launched a campaign to win the next National Convention of the Republicans. The National Committee is to meet in December to decide that question. Other cities are also in the race, or will be, and the National Committee may be misguided enough to select some other than Chicago. Bidding and wire-pulling decide this matter far too often.

But those who are not attending their first convention, those who go regularly as delegates or whose business takes them there, will pray mightily that the committee may be gifted with a sense of duty. "There ought to be a law" providing that all national conventions of the two principal parties be held in Chicago. A convention can never be comfortable, but it is nearly comfortable in Chicago. The surroundings of a convention can never be business-like, but they are as business-like as possible in Chicago. There is as little as possible there to fret and worry delegates into making a hasty decision on some momentous question so that they can get out of town on the next train. A convention can never be evenly-poised and calm, with an unfretted mind, intent only on the welfare of the party, and Chicago is the only place where the worries are so few that that condition can be approximated.

The reason is that Chicago is no amateur. Handling a convention is part of her business; she knows it from stem to stern, having set about acquiring the details in her youth and having studied and practiced it ever since. Chicago's advantage over such places as Kansas City is the advantage that a white-whiskered and prosperous merchant has over a youthful shoestring peddler. Denver is a fine town, and with forty or fifty years' practice might be able to handle a convention as well as Chicago, and better, anyhow, than she did the Democratic convention of 1908. Baltimore—but why rake up terrible memories? In Chicago everybody, from policemen to statesmen, understands his business the moment the advance guard moves into town, and does it like clockwork without even stopping to think how. "There ought to be a law," but since there can not be, there should at least be an unbroken custom with the force of law. Let Chicago be the convention town forevermore; and if there be any voice of uninformed dissent, silence it with the words, "Remember Baltimore."

A NEEDED AMENDMENT.

Hitherto it has been difficult or impossible to punish those defacers of the highways and sinners against the landscape as well as trespassers on and disfigurers of public and private property, who stick or paste advertisements along the road, to the disgust of persons of good taste. You could nab sometimes the man who put the sign up, but the principal escaped. Yesterday this amendment of subdivision eleven of Section 1,423 of the Penal Law went into effect:

> A person who willfully or maliciously displaces, removes, injures, or destroys a mile board, milestone, danger sign or signal, or guide sign or post, or any inscription thereon, lawfully within a public highway; or who, in any manner, paints, prints, places, puts, or affixes, or causes to be painted, printed, placed, or affixed, any business or commercial advertisement on or to any stone, tree, fence, stump, pole, building, or other object, which is the property of another without first obtaining the written consent of such owner thereof, or who in any manner paints, prints, places, puts, or affixes, or causes to be painted, printed, placed, or affixed, such an advertisement on or to any stone, tree, fence, stump, pole, mile board, milestone, danger sign, danger signal, guide sign, guide post, billboard, building, or other object within the limits of a public highway is punishable by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $25, or by imprisonment for not more than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any advertisement in or upon a public highway in violation of the provisions of this subdivision may be taken down, removed, or destroyed by any one.

For the protection of the public, for the protection of property owners, for the general good and pleasure, this amendment was sorely needed. May it be vigorously and uniformly enforced.

MIDDIES ASHORE.

It is pleasant testimony that The Los Angeles Times bears to the impression made on California landsmen by the naval midshipmen ashore there on their practice cruise. That journal expresses fears for the safety of any one who should sing, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Sailor" in Los Angeles after seeing "such wholesome, healthy, well-mannered, bright boys":

> Every one of those boyish faces was a delight. Not an evil glimmer anywhere, just wholesome, intelligent goodness, unspoiled, unashamed. At the middies' ball, the most anxious of mammas felt at rest. The informality was perfectly safe; even seven dances with the same young man caused no alarm. They were just shy enough, but not too shy; just merry enough, but not too merry; self-control, dignified bearing, courteous gratitude, gracious manners, were the order of the day.

What Los Angeles saw, any other city will see whenever it has the privilege of entertaining the midshipmen. The Government is impersonal to the American citizen; the nearest he usually gets to seeing it is when the letter-carrier comes around. The army and navy are abstractions. It is almost amusing that when this California city had a chance to see the future commanders "close to," it should have recorded its pleasure with exclamation points. "The mothers of those middies can know nothing but pride and satisfaction," says the Los Angeles paper. "There wasn't a smarty, fresh young man among them. Their bearing toward womanhood was almost old-fashioned in its courtliness." It would be a good thing if every American city had Los Angeles' opportunity, in turn. To most Americans the army and navy are two printed words of four letters each, and what manner of men the separate individual human beings may be who compose them is an unasked question.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Cause for Action, Not for Panic.

If the disease which developed on the German steamship President Lincoln had proved to be Asiatic cholera, there would have been excuse for some apprehension along the Hoboken water front, but none for excitement or panic, there or anywhere else.

It should not be forgotten that cholera, while still capable of producing frightful havoc in hot weather and among a densely crowded population ignorant of sanitary science or unwilling to take the precautions necessary for safety, is a disease far more easily handled, when and where those measures can be enforced, than is many another that is far less dreaded. For one thing, cholera is absolutely "non-contagious," to use a convenient description, though one now rather out of date. The method of its transmission being perfectly well known, the proximity of sufferers from it is dangerous only to those who by neglect of personal cleanliness and failure to guard against the use of infected food and water allow its living germs to enter their alimentary canals.

Cholera, in short, belongs to the class of diseases of which typhoid fever is a more familiar representative and it can never again last long or spread far in any enlightened and civilized community. Even where it is of comparatively easy prevention, however, once contracted, its cure is difficult and uncertain, and its mortality rate about what it was in the days when sanitation was the most rudimentary of sciences and its practitioners mere empirics, working entirely in the dark. There will never be another epidemic here now, for there will be no efforts to conceal the existence of such cases as may occur. That particular kind of folly is one of the few of which New York long since ceased to be guilty.

A Disaster Too Well Explained.

Obvious as it is from the report to the Navy Department on the submarines of the F class that the officers who made the investigation wanted to mitigate criticism as much as possible, they nevertheless told all of the facts. So sorry is the showing that it required much courage on the part of their departmental superiors to allow the publication of the report, but to let the truth be known was wise as well as courageous, for attempts at concealment would have been certain in the end to make a bad matter worse.

The F boats are of an obsolete type, of now recognized imperfection, and the wonder is, not that one of them went down, and remained down, off Honolulu Harbor, but that it or the others were allowed to be listed and used as units of strength for a "navy in being." Zealously as their officers worked at the task of keeping them in repair, they knew that it was an endless and hopeless task, and the statement that they have shown no reluctance to risk their lives in boats so dangerous is of course very far from either excusing or explaining the subjection of their devotion to "duty"—in other words, their readiness to obey without protest or complaint any orders from competent authority—to a test so severe and so unnecessary.

The investigators of the F boats say in substance that they have been kept in as good condition as their design permitted. They make clear, however, that the craft are what now would be called an unsuccessful experiment in submarine navigation. Boats no better, indeed, have been used in every navy, as was proved some years ago by the long series of disasters, exactly like the one that killed the twenty-two men on the F-4, that occurred in European waters. But the best and most modern of submarines are run with a margin of safety so small that it would hardly be tolerated for any except military reasons. Their susceptibility to accident is almost that of an aeroplane, and the consequences to them of what to boats of other kinds would be slight mishaps are always serious and usually fatal. For using submarines any, except those of the latest types, justification is hard to find in time of peace.

A Common Error Corrected.

A mistake made by many critics of women's colleges in particular and of higher education for women in general was made notably clear in the letter from Mrs. JESSICA G. COSGRAVE, printed on this page yesterday.

To the familiar complaint that college women do not marry, and to the assumption, so dear to one large class, that the failure is the result of too much study devoted to subjects not distinctively feminine or feminizing, Mrs. COSGRAVE replied: "It is not that the college turns out old maids, but that the natural old maid goes to college—and often becomes an extremely valuable member of the community."

That statement is quite true as it stands, but of course it is also true that the "natural," or predestined, old maids are by no means alone in the colleges. If they are more numerous there than in other groups of like size—which is probable enough—the phenomenon is easily explained by the greater need that enforced or preferred celibacy has for the sort of training that colleges give.

The error corrected by our correspondent is the old one of "after, therefore because." Few of us avoid making that error sometimes, but it seems especially to abound in discussions of every phase of what is called the woman question.

An Anti-Tetanus Fund for Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Italy, the home of so many of our sunny, industrious co-workers, is in crying, urgent need of tetanus antitoxin to hold in check the dread scourge of army life today.

With war fought in trenches, dug in richly manured soil, reeking with carrion, the germ of tetanus, (lockjaw,) and infection by it are ever present. Under the unspeakably horrible conditions in which the European struggle is being waged, where a truce of an hour or two to collect the wounded and transport them immediately to the rear for proper medical attention, contrary to all the laws of humanity and precedent, is not given, the dose of anti-tetanus serum that can be administered under fire by the Red Cross on the field is a possible life-saver—at least, a probable preventive against a most agonizing, lingering death.

In this emergency American ingenuity has devised a package that meets the conditions. Contained in a small wooden box, ready for individual injection, are a tetanus antitoxin filled phial and syringe, combined, and a ready, sterilized needle, so that the dose in each package can be injected into each of the many infected quickly where they lie—no sterilization each time of syringe and needle—no refilling—the whole apparatus, after use, is simply cast away.

If you Americans, who have been far away from the maddening strife, could peer into each and every of the hundreds of Europe's war hospitals today and see therein the hundreds of jaw-set, spine-set martyrs with imploring eyes, begging for a hasty ending of their torture,—if you can picture it—I shall not ask in vain for subscription to this anti-tetanus fund.

Checks should be made out to the order of Lionello Perera, Treasurer, and receipts will be acknowledged.

LITTLE BO-PEEP.

Little Bo-Peep
Has gone to sleep,
Left mother alone,
With a heart of stone,
And a three-legged sheep to remind her—
That little Bo-Peep
Has gone to sleep,

To little Bo-Peep,
Who has gone to sleep,
The world was of play and laughter;
For little she knew,
As some of us do,
Of the pain and the tears that come after,

So why should we weep
For little Bo-Peep?
And mother's own grief should remind her,
That curly-haired tot
Is spared quite a lot;
And Some Day or Other she'll find her—
That little Bo-Peep,
Who went to sleep,

ONE WOMAN'S GERMANY.

New York, Aug. 31, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

La belle Geraldine gave her reasons for pro-Germanism in a recent interview, and as gratitude is a rare and beautiful trait in human nature we, as well as the country to which she owes her magnificent equipment, can afford to commend her. But she is not the only one. I give, however, the following extracts from the letter of another American prima donna, resident in Germany, not only to show the profound feeling of loyalty with which a musical nation can inspire one of its distinguished pupils, but as a real curiosity. I had taken with a grain of salt much that I had heard of certain delusions regarding this country entertained by people cooped up in Germany, but this letter, written by a highly intelligent woman, but, of course with no sources of information save those emanating from the German Government, has prepared me for anything hereafter.

The writer is Maude Fay, a Californian by birth, who went to Dresden some fourteen or fifteen years ago to study for the operatic stage, and who has been chief lyric-dramatic soprano at the opera house in Munich since her début in 1906. She is as great an artist and as handsome a woman as Farrar, by the way—and as highly charged with electricity! She has been an idol in Munich from the first and has sung all over Europe, but is yet to make her American début. Including the fact that she has had a procession of young German noblemen (all officers, of course) in love with her, she would be a natural phenomenon if she were anti-German in her sympathies.

Here is the letter in part—her epistolary style has always been of the telegraphic order:

> Shall not begin with reasons and phrases why I have not answered your letter long ere this, for they would be many and boring. This has been such an eventful year—events that give one food for thoughts that never seemed to be there before. I am very happy I remained over here—many times was undecided—but I feel that I have lived through real things and with real people—for it is just the realness of these wonderful Germans that is pushing and leading them on to the victory they are willing to make sacrifices for—and which they deserve. Do hope this Warsaw victory will bring about peace with Russia at least.
> Hear you are not for Germany; is it true? Know you would be if you were here and could see and know conditions of all sides as they really are. Eastern America seems to have turned into an English colony—and can't they realize how England is laughing at them and always has? More than ever I call myself a Californian. California is certainly the most European place in the United States, and has individuality and courage of her opinions. The people there have something daringly elemental in them, and how I love it!—for they, too, are real. Have letters from people I never knew or met from there—since war broke out.
> Expect to cross over in December. Hope by that time the world will have become a bit sane. Doesn't it seem like a vast place now? Had a letter from [an English friend] the other day—took seven weeks over Rotterdam. England seems like antipodes now. Long letter from Marie Hay other day. Is at present with Liela von Meister in Hamburg—may come here to me. She stuck it out in Italy until hopelessness took complete hold of those poor betrayed Italians. Her letter is most interesting—don't dare inclose it to you, as America's English postman would hardly let it through—he'll not like this one either. I do wax violent, I know. * * * Munich is a real German city now. I think not more than 500 Americans have lingered on. No foreigners at all. I miss them very much. We are giving Parsifal and the Mozart Festspiel—and can you believe it—not a seat to be had even now. I feel I have sung a bellyband onto each soldier at the front—for it has been one charity concert after another. My coffers are empty, but I feel I've put a good load into my experience box—and enriched my ideals and belief in humanity. For this I must eternally thank these good Germans. * * * This terrible war has shown me the real German, and for this I am happy to have remained. * * *

I asked her in reply if she never had heard that New York was often referred to as the second German city, and gave her a few facts. I also asked her if it was really possible she believed that propaganda lie that the British Ambassador opened all German letters! Also told her that I had received several letters—untampered with!—from Marie Hay (Baroness Herbert von Hindenburg) even more pro-German than her own, one of which I published in THE TIMES, a pro-Allies paper. Also a few other facts, such as tiresome news stories daily via England of German triumphs in the east. As it was written in my worst handwriting I am hoping it will pass the censor.

I like to think that if I, too, were bottled up in Germany, seeing Germans far more intimately than ever before in some sort of work for their soldiers, hearing only of German triumphs, or the base treachery that caused defeat now and again, having absolutely no outside source of information, including the causes of the war, I should exercise my natural intelligence and refuse to believe absurd stories about my own country at least. But I am not so sure. Enthusiasm is communicable. Reiterated "facts" strike in. I might even refuse to believe that other countries were just as wonderful as Germany when at war; and Mr. Dunn, in his "Five Fronts," tells us that it is impossible not to be heart and soul with the country you are in at the moment. Miss Fay's brain is nearly as good as her voice, (which is beautiful,) and one day (when she has learned all sides of the present conflict as completely as she now thinks only being shut up in Germany can reveal) she may experience a sensation of amusement; but meanwhile enthusiasm will not hurt her. It is an experience for any artist to be grateful for. For any human being for that matter.

Flies That Come Down Chimneys.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to L. P. Jewell's letter in THE TIMES, I would like to pass on a helpful word. Mr. Jewell asks how the nuisance of flies coming down a warm chimney and thence into the room, on cold nights, may be overcome. A teaspoonful of formaldehyde in a saucer of water placed on the ashes, when the family leaves the fireside for the night, will discourage the flies. Of course, as formaldehyde is a poison, the saucer must be so placed that children and pets are protected; the fire screen does this in my fireplaces.

'TIS NOT LEARNING COOLS A WOMAN.

Old Maids Happen as Before, from Never Being Asked—As for the Race, It Requires Some Primal Fatherhood as Well.

BY A SPINSTER, A. B.

Women's University Club, Aug. 30, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The spirit of common sense has been goading me for this hour past to express in your horribly public columns my private sentiments on an article in Sunday's TIMES. I know I shall blush tomorrow, but I must speak tonight.

In this article Mr. (and Mrs.) Martin contend, on more than one page, that the higher education of women lessens the birth rate. One wonders how low an education is quite harmless, and why no scientist has estimated how far we may safely go, so that we may stop in time. And who clings to the higher education, anyway, per se? If I believed my education was responsible for my lack of proposals, (the only thing that has prevented my marriage,) I would feign ignorance with a skill no eligible man could detect. But the Martins have deduced their facts from a total of 20,000 graduates from a few of the colleges, sixteen years ago, of whom some 10,000 have remained old maids, (a regrettable circumstance,) and the rest have not yet had the proper number of babies. Surely this is not nearly enough cases, or recent enough, to justify generalizations. And if these are the only statistics available, why draw any conclusions at all? One of the three things I was taught in my higher education was never to make deductions from insufficient data. Let us, therefore, lay aside the whole question of the education of women till, say, 1930, and pass on to the higher education of man. The "perpetuation of the nation" will not suffer seriously by the delay.

The higher education of men has been going on for ever so many years, and is a widespread practice. Here we come to solid ground for reasoning, here are cases enough to deduce from. And we find that among men who have received a higher education, as opposed to the uneducated, marriages are later, and children are fewer. And, moreover, the higher the fewer, exactly like the mouse in the conundrum. And this is equally true, no matter how low the education of the woman implicated, for until twenty years ago the women of the upper classes were hardly educated at all, and still the birth rate was lower than that of the lower classes. (Is it possible that the education of the woman has so little to do with it? One thought it was the determining factor last Sunday.) Look for the man who marries in the early twenties, and has nine or ten children, and you find him in the laboring classes. Or among the Kings. Yes, and, by the way, Queens are the most highly educated of women, and look at Victoria's family, or the Queen of Spain's! But let that pass.

"Ultimately," say the Martins, in words that have a faintly reminiscent ring, "the woman's movement must succeed or fail according as it strengthens or weakens woman's motherhood." Kind friends, you will not disagree with me when I say, no motherhood without some fatherhood. (Oh! very little, of course, enough to be negligible to ardent minds like yours, but do not neglect it, it is almost indispensable.) And, since the higher education of man lessens his fatherhood, away with it! "Already" (to adapt the opening sentence by my coadjutors in the new movement for the total abolition of education) "the evidence is conclusive that the effects of education upon the inalienable function and immemorial duty of man, the begetting of children, are so appalling as to threaten the perpetuation of the race." What a truly awful thought, and improper, too! And to this Mr. and Mrs. Martin have logically led me.

It is here, Mr. Editor, that common sense comes to my rescue, and I begin to wonder if it can be possible that we are taking the degree of B. A. a trifle seriously? What, after all, so terrible thing does it represent? Not a vast amount of scholarship, hardly enough to hurt, nor a staggering amount of labor, nor years of heavy toil. Mr. and Mrs. Martin speak of "women who have studied hard for a decade, who have lived in cloisters where no child's laugh was ever heard." But whence this word "decade"? It only takes four years, and only part of those. And we didn't study "hard," and there weren't any "cloisters," merely boarding houses, and the laugh of children was just as freely heard on the campus as on East Sixty-eighth Street. So were the screams and quarrels of children, equally characteristic and lovable, of real children, though, I admit, out of key in an article like the Martins'.

Nay, I doubt if the average female Bachelor of Arts has had her primal instincts much affected by four years, and two letters applied in her downy youth. Yet Mr. and Mrs. Martin seem to say they believe this. Aye, and greater wonders than that. They speak of a "woman who, having won a salary and position as the guerdon of her pains, feels it hard to retire to the privacy of home." There are, then, men asking these hard-working old maids to marry them, and the old maids are refusing! Just Public, I commit these people to your judgment. To my simple mind it seems that they speak with a certain exaggeration.

SPINSTER, A. B.

THE GUARD IN ITS PLACE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

More than six years' former service in a "crack" National Guard regiment of this State, combined with some intimate observation of life in the regular army through the fact of relationships in the corps of officers, may warrant my pointing out that nowhere do the published communications of opinion regarding Secretary Garrison's and General Wood's interesting experiment at Plattsburg go to the root of the matter in relation to the National Guard.

Leaving aside the fact that the one month's intensive training at Plattsburg equals the aggregate number of field days' training received by the average National Guardsman in three years, there is this great fundamental and vital difference in favor of Plattsburg as against any number of years' service in the National Guard:

At Plattsburg there is given to the recruit, from the start, the right mental outlook upon organized military governance and its problems. In this statement I do not refer to that rather indefinite thing in mind in speaking of "regular army discipline." The tactical discipline of several of our leading militia units will bear favorable comparison with that of the regulars, when the occasion is actual service. This the writer knows from experience in emergency service. But no possible solution of the perplexing national problem now confronting us will be found in any force of volunteer permanent soldiery whose organized form and conduct rest upon the elective privilege and interest of its members.

Here is where, from the start, the Plattsburg idea differs strikingly from any solution which an exclusive extension of the State militia system can offer. The Plattsburg camp does not tend to put corps esprit, corps identity, and corps management ahead of the needs of larger military policy and problems—something bound to result where these things proceed from and rest upon elective interest or the club governing principle.

This difference is vital to the question of efficiency for national needs under the constantly changing requirements of progressive military organization. A wide training movement of the individual which will leave him to fall into place at need in whatever organized unit may be provided for him, within the limits of a general arm, such as cavalry, infantry, &c., provided and maintained for him by the discretion of United States War Department authority, and the transformation of which unit into any other form and identity it would never enter his mind to question, is the fundamental and vital essential which the Plattsburg idea gives the recruit at the start, and in the making of a real army of soundly disciplined men is worth ten years' training from an entirely wrong point of view.

The best proof of this is the announced intention of the National Guard interests of the various States to vigorously and collectively oppose, at the forthcoming session of Congress, the establishment of any other permanent organized volunteer force outside the present national guard system. Without for a moment impugning the patriotism of the National Guard in placing this upon the issue of fairness and the avoidance of a cumbersome multiplicity of kind in our organized land forces, this nation cannot contemplate the principle and the possibilities, in the sphere of national defense, which are recognizable in the words "organization control."

The National Guard has its place, and, within its place as a valuable immediate auxiliary of defense, should be everywhere encouraged. Its broader-minded members will surely agree that it is a question of "country first," and from this standpoint draw inspiration from the attitude of the regular army in welcoming whatever will aid. As to relative judgment of the means, the writer believes that the discretion of the United States War Department authorities can safely take precedence over that of the militia, and Secretary Garrison and General Wood should be strongly encouraged in extending the system of citizens' camps.

OTHER PREPAREDNESS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In no captious spirit, and as a patriot who believes in adequate defense and preparedness for real dangers, permit me to call attention to the following considerations, about which one should be very clear before urging "instant action by Congress" and preparing to assist a greatly increased army:

1. The new power of the submarine is making battleships and armies for a nation situated like ours a negligible factor as a necessity for defense from sea. Mines and submarines can make our coast invulnerable. No British ship has been able to bombard a German port, and no German ship could bombard our coast or land troops had we enough submarines and mines. A citizen army, trained to rifle practice, would be as futile for us as it has been necessary for little Switzerland, surrounded with old enemies a yard across her border. Moreover, rifle shooting has proved the least important feature of this war, even when fought across adjacent borders.

2. Of course, army men talk of our helplessness should Germany land several hundred thousand men on our shores. The points for us women to consider are these: Could Germany by any possibility win in this war it will only be after fearful loss of all her best men; at the end she will have no force adequate to hold down a hostile Belgium and acquire English, French, and Italian colonies in Africa, to say nothing of shipping an army beyond sea to meet our navy. This is already next in size to what she had a year ago, but maybe its equal when her losses are reckoned.

To prepare for possible dangers is madness. We can reasonably prepare only for probable dangers. In the whole history of our Republic we have never been attacked, but ourselves began three quite unnecessary foreign wars. It is a thousand times more difficult to land on hostile shores 3,000 miles from home than to march across adjacent borders. These facts are ignored in the present craze for a futile type of preparedness.

Militarists understand the technique of one kind of defense, but they are the poorest judges of danger, as they everlastingly look on all neighbors as possible enemies. Their ignorance of new and powerful agencies for defense through a League to Enforce Peace, through drastic, concerted economic compulsion, through other new preventive methods, makes them the poorest guide in a feverish time like this. Let women not fear to think for themselves and not blindly follow the noisy alarmists who are urging a policy that would supply no real preparedness for real dangers, but most inadequate preparedness even if their wildest imagination of danger were realized. To prepare for possible dangers means to prepare to face a coalition. We can never do this. Moreover, every new dreadnought we build means a heavier burden on the Orient and increase of militarism there. America must mark out a new course, not only for her own sake but for the sake of Asia and the world. If she fails and falls back on futile, Old World methods, she will largely be responsible for a militarized China, universal conscription, and perpetual terror.

We are being fooled by the doctrine that if only England had had a million trained men at the start this war might not have happened. But as The Westminster Gazette declared: "It would simply have come sooner."

Let our women study this problem far more carefully. Instead of helping by suggestion to create more war scare in offering their country houses for hospitals, in some war that will not come unless we choose to bring it on, why not offer them to help save the lives of a few of the over 600,000 Americans who yearly die from preventable causes? Why not throw their energy into preparedness against the absolutely certain destruction of a great army of innocents within our midst who might be saved were we preparing as we ought for real dangers, instead of remotely problematic ones?

A Post-Discharge Battalion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why could not veterans of the National Guard and naval militia, instead of dropping out of sight after an honorable discharge from active service, be encouraged to join a qualified, substantial, and dignified military organization such as the Old Guard of this city measures up to be? To become a member of this veteran battalion one should have served honorably either in the National Guard or naval militia of this or other States or like military or naval organizations, national or otherwise.

GEORGE F. H. McVAY.

MISS M. W. COLGATE, BRIDE IN VERMONT

ON TERRACE AT BEN VENUE

Bride's Sisters Serve as Maid of Honor and Bridesmaid at Old Bennington Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Sept. 1.—Many guests came from New York to attend the wedding at noon today in Old Bennington of James Shepard Dennis, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Dennis of Morristown, N. J., and Miss Margaret West Colgate, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Colby Colgate of New York. The ceremony took place in the open air on the terrace at Ben Venue, the country home of the bride's parents, and an uncle of the bride, the Rev. Dr. Edward D. Tibbits, rector of Hoosac School, Hoosick, N. Y., performed the ceremony.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white Georgette crêpe embroidered in pearls over white satin. The court train was old Brussels point and the long tulle veil which came to the end of the train was held by a lace cap bordered with pearls. She carried an armful of maidenhair fern.

The bride's sister, Miss Susan E. Colgate, was the maid of honor. Her white tulle frock was draped in pointed draperies over white crêpe de chine trimmed with white lace. The girdle was coral-colored satin, and she wore a large bronze tulle hat and carried gladioli of different colors.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Hope H. Colgate, another sister; Florance H. Colgate, a cousin; Elizabeth Stillman Kendall, Katharine Patteson, Louise Kellogg, Dorothy Freeman, and Dorothy Perkins of New York, Dorothy Lasell of Troy, Estelle Farrel of Ansonia, Conn., and Dorothy Dennis of Morristown, a sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned like the maid of honor and carried coral-colored gladioli. Little Miss Evelyn Colgate was her sister's flower girl, in white with a coral sash, a white lace hat, and carried a brown wicker basket filled with coral-hued phlox.

Mr. Dennis's best man was Hyatt Wight of Baltimore, and the ushers were George W. Perkins, Jr., the son of George W. Perkins; Ferdinand L. Mayer, Van Santvoord Merle-Smith, James Christy Bell, Jr., Matthew Gault, William Scott Pyle, Henry A. Colgate, a cousin of the bride; Oscar Ross Ewing, Samuel Reed of Pittsburgh, James B. Waller, Jr., of Chicago, and Frederick Wayne of Indianapolis.

A wedding breakfast was served at 12:30 o'clock to the family and immediate relatives and at 2:30 o'clock a large reception was held. Mrs. Colgate, who received, wore a dark blue net and silk frock.

Mr. Colgate had the children of Bennington and their mothers entertained during the afternoon in the public playground.

After their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will make their home in Short Hills, N. J.

The engagement was announced on April 7 last. Mr. Dennis was graduated from Princeton in 1910 and from the Harvard Law School in 1913. Miss Colgate made her début two years ago, and is the great-great-granddaughter of Aaron Hubbell, who took part in the battle of Bennington in 1777.

MISS CURTIS'S WEDDING.

Attendants for Her Marriage to Walter S. Ward on Oct. 8.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Berl Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Willard Curtis of 161 Arlington Avenue, Brooklyn, to Walter S. Ward of 165 Riverside Drive, which will be celebrated on Friday afternoon, Oct. 8, in Trinity Church, Brooklyn.

Miss Evelyn Huffman of Dayton, Ohio, will act as maid of honor. The bridesmaids chosen include Miss Ruth Martin of Pittsburgh, Penn.; Miss Alice Rorick of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Mildred Paterson of Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Dorothy Dickason of Chicago, and the Misses Elinor and Garnet Ward, sisters of the bridegroom, of this city. Miss Hilda Stark is to be the flower girl. Ralph Ward is to be his brother's best man.

The reception, which will follow the church ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, will be small. Many of the out of town guests for the wedding will be entertained at a house party at the Curtis country home at Belle Harbor.

MISS DOROTHY ROGERS WEDS.

Clark Settlement Worker the Bride of Frank D. Sprague.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Howard Rogers, daughter of the late Robert Ogden Rogers of Scarborough, N. Y., and Mrs. Rogers, to Frank Desmond Sprague of this city, took place on last Saturday, in All Saints' Church, Briarcliff, N. Y. Only the immediate families attended the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Thomas R. Hazard, assisted by the Rev. Henry A. Dexter.

The engagement of the couple was announced a few weeks ago. Miss Rogers is a graduate of Wyckham Rise School, Class of '09, and for the last two years has been engaged in settlement work in this city, being associated with the Clark Settlement.

Mr. Sprague is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Julian Sprague of 241 West End Avenue. He is a graduate of Cornell University, Class of '11, and is an associate member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He is engaged in business with his father, who is a pioneer in the development of electric transportation in this country.

PERRY-LLOYD WEDDING.

Plans for Ceremony in Church of the Heavenly Rest on Sept. 14.

The plans for the wedding of Miss Adele Augustine Phoenix Lloyd and John Prince Hazen Perry, a son of Alfred P. Perry, whose engagement was announced on Jan. 30, have been completed. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock on Tuesday, Sept. 14, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and the Rev. Herbert Shipman will officiate. Miss Lloyd's father, Dr. Samuel Lloyd, will give her in marriage. Mrs. Sherman Ford, (Miss Elinor Lapham,) will be the matron of honor and Miss Katharine Wyndham Smith will be the maid of honor. The Misses Eleanor and Katharine Du Bois of New York, Louise H. Ball of Chicago, and Priscilla Phelan of Boston are to be the bridesmaids.

Mr. Perry's best man is to be Karl T. Frederick and the ushers selected are Roger B. Emmons, Victor H. McCutcheon, Fitch Haskell, John M. P. Thatcher, Leland T. Buffum, R. C. Wilson, Samuel Lloyd, Jr., a brother of the bride, and Harold E. Plummer of Buffalo. A small reception is to be held at the home of the bride's parents, 12 West Fiftieth Street.

Miss Lloyd will give a dinner for her bridal attendants on Sept. 13, and Mr. Perry's bachelor dinner will take place at the Engineers' Club on Sept. 11.

Miss Lloyd is with her family at their country place, Rosebrook Farm, New Canaan, Conn.

Miss Jordan Escapes Drowning.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., Sept. 1.—Miss Elizabeth Jordan, the author and editor, had a narrow escape yesterday from drowning in Linikin Bay, near this place. A rowboat in which she was proceeding with three friends from Dace Point to Lobster Cove was overturned and sank a quarter of a mile from shore. Miss Jordan and the others reached deep sea floats from which finally they were rescued.

BROOKLYN RUNAWAYS HOME

Parents Bring Back Girl Who Fled with Youth in Boy's Garb.

Thoroughly repentant, the two runaways, Viola Stevens, 15 years old, of 859 Hancock Street, and Max Goodman, 16 years old, of 711 Eastern Parkway, both of Brooklyn, were brought back to their homes by their parents last night. Their return, under compulsion, marked the end of their plan to reach Arizona, where Goodman intended to make a fortune through a chemical composition which would produce radium.

The couple left their homes last Thursday. Before they were found a general alarm had been sent out and Boy Scouts in a dozen States made every effort to trace them. Both were dressed in boys' garb when found.

MISS DOMINICK A BRIDE.

Married to James Duane Pell in the Chancel of St. Thomas's.

The marriage of James Duane Pell, a son of the late Mrs. Walden Pell, and Miss Elsie Dominick, a daughter of Mrs. William Gayer Dominick of 35 East Fifty-seventh Street, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chancel of St. Thomas's Church, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of the church. None except the relatives and a very few intimate friends, less than fifty, was invited and they were seated in the choir stalls. Vases of white lillies were on the altar. There was a recital of music on the organ during the wedding. The wedding was very quiet as both families are in mourning.

The bride entered the church at the side with her brother, William F. Dominick, and her mother gave her in marriage. She wore an afternoon frock of pale gray chiffon and silk topped by a gray velvet girdle, and a small, high, gray chiffon hat, and orchids were fastened to her corsage. She had no attendants.

Mr. Pell had his brother Walden Pell as his best man, and the two ushers were Frank Hunter Simmons and F. Livingston Pell. There was no reception, but the relatives went to the bride's apartment in the St. Regis to congratulate her and drink to her health. Mr. Pell and his bride left for the Grand Cañon and California, and on their return will live at 118 East Fifty-fourth Street.

MABEL RUSSELL MARRIES.

One of Types in Times Contest Weds C. R. Runyon.

Miss Mabel Irving Russell, adjudged one of the distinctive types of American girlhood, in The Girl of Today Contest, by a jury of artists, for THE NEW YORK TIMES in December, 1913, was married last night to Carman Randolph Runyon of Yonkers.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Cornelius Brett of Jersey City, granduncle of the bridegroom, under a bower of smilax and pink roses, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Russell, 563 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers.

The bride wore ivory satin, and her veil of tulle was held in place by a sprig of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids. Her sole attendant was her older sister, Miss Louise Russell. The bridegroom's best man was his father.

The ceremony was followed by a supper attended by 200 guests. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Southern California and will live in Kansas.

Miss Russell was one of last season's débutantes. She studied at St. Margaret's Academy, at Waterbury, Conn., and later at the Halsted School, Yonkers. She is an active member of the Seaghill Golf Club, Park Hill Country Club, and Amackassin Club.

Mr. Runyon is a graduate of Cornell University.

Sperry-Oerzen Wedding.

The marriage of Edward Chambers Sperry, a son of R. B. Sperry, and Miss Eleanor Marguerite Oerzen, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Oerzen of Woodycrest Avenue, the Bronx, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, the Rev. George A. Oldham officiating. As Mr. Sperry's family is in mourning no formal invitations were issued. Miss Oerzen's sister, Miss Oerzen, attended her. On their return in October from their honeymoon trip they will live at 30 Hamilton Place. Mrs. Sperry was graduated from Barnard College, and Mr. Sperry was graduated from Harvard and the Harvard Law School.

Miss Harpley Weds A. O. Lynes.

The marriage of Miss Viva Jeanette Harpley of Orange, N. J., to Arthur O. Lynes took place at noon yesterday in the home which the bridegroom had fitted up for his bride at 75 Sussex Street, East Orange, N. J. The Rev. C. Duval Chambers of the Calvary Episcopal Church of New York City performed the ceremony. The bride's mother, Mrs. Andrew Grube, gave her in marriage. She was unattended. Julius Lynes was his brother's best man. Only the immediate families were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lynes will spend their honeymoon in Boston.

SLIMP—VAIL.

James Elbert Slimp of 35 West Sixty-fourth Street and Miss Elearnor Alberta Vail, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Vail of 208 West Seventieth Street, were married yesterday afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Palmer performing the ceremony. Miss Vail wore a blue traveling costume topped by a blue velvet hat, and carried orchids. There were no attendants for either the bride or bridegroom, and none except relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Slimp left after the ceremony on their honeymoon.

Ballou-Strong Wedding Today.

The marriage of Miss Helen Woodhull Strong, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Woodhull Strong, and Edward Richardson Ballou, formerly of Providence, R. I., will take place at 12:30 today in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and the Rev. Herbert Shipman will perform the ceremony. Miss Strong will have no attendants, and her brother, James Remsen Strong, will give her in marriage. Mr. Ballou will have Dr. Halsey De Wolf of Providence as his best man. A small reception for the family will follow at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Howard H. Henry, 344 Lexington Avenue.

RANDALL—NOBEL.

Mrs. Howard E. Kilborn of New Canaan, Conn., announces the engagement of her daughter Miss Ethel Randall, and daughter of the late H. Le Roy Randall of New Milford, Conn., to Russell Curtis Nobel of Waterbury, Conn. No date has been named for the marriage.

DIBBLE—HAWLEY.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Olive Thorne Dibble daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Irving Dibble of Norwalk, Conn., to Arthur Smith Hawley, son of the late Arthur Smith Hawley and Mrs. Hawley of this city. The wedding will take place in November.

'HOUSE OF GLASS' HIGHLY EXCITING

WRITTEN BY MAX MARCIN

New Playwright Auspiciously Introduced by an Able Company in Which Frank Thomas Excels.

THE HOUSE OF GLASS—A play in four acts by Max Marcin, in the Candler Theatre.

Nellie	Lila Rhodes
Margaret Case	Mary Ryan
Mrs. Brandt	Ada Gilman
Frank, a porter	Sam Myers
James Burke	Frank M. Thomas
Carroll, a detective	Thomas Findlay
Crowley, his Lieutenant	James C. Marlowe
A Policeman	E. J. McGuire
Watson, a butler	John Fenton
Harvey Lake	Frederick Burt
Edward McClellan	Harry C. Browne
Judson Atwood	William Walcott
Jap, a servant	Mann Wada
Edith, a maid	Florence Walcott
Gov. Patterson	Frank Young

A tense and engrossing melodrama of the school of "Within the Law" is the new play in four acts which was shown to this city for the first time last evening when the doors of the Candler Theatre were opened for the season. It is the work of Max Marcin, a playwright new to the New York stage.

After years of knocking at the managers' doors, he is to know all the exhilaration that goes with having two plays produced on Broadway in a single week, for he is also the author of the farce which will have its local première this evening at the Eltinge. Even before this second piece is presented for inspection, Mr. Marcin is decidedly to be congratulated, for while his play at the Candler will not exactly bring him immortality, it has all the marks of a pronounced popular success. What with the work of a competent company assembled by Cohan and Harris and what with his own handy use of sound and never failing theatrical material, there is evolved in "The House of Glass" a substantial evening's entertainment.

Ever since a certain evening just about three years ago, two inevitable questions have been put clamorously to all those emerging from the first night of any new melodrama in New York. Is it like "Within the Law"? Is it as good as "Within the Law"? And those coming from the first performance of "The House of Glass" must nod an affirmative to the first question and to the second, if it be sternly pressed, make answer: "No, not quite."

There is, indeed, a considerable resemblance between the two plays. A girl is arrested, convicted and sent to prison for a theft of which she was absolutely innocent, and those words of Mary Turner's, 'for something I haven't done' echo unspoken through the four acts of Mr. Marcin's play. But there is the difference that Mary Turner relentlessly pursued her past and Margaret Case is relentlessly pursued by hers.

The shadow of a prison wall falls always across the sunshine of the life to which she has made her escape by breaking her parole. The house of glass is that in which dwells a prosperous railroad head who, as he is sternly pressing the prosecution of a young employe caught stealing, learns at last through the very detective whose work he is backing up that his own wife is an ex-convict.

The great moment for which Mr. Marcin builds through the greater part of three acts is the one that comes when Mrs. Lake has to endure the meeting which for years has been her nightmare. Hurrying to speak to her husband and his guests in the reception room of her elaborate home in New York, she comes face to face with the central office man who had arrested her as a girl in a shabby downtown boarding house. The moment is cunningly sustained by a telephone conversation which holds the room silent and keeps these two facing each other, staring interminably.

For the remainder of that somewhat too protracted act, the interest slackens somewhat, but it is caught up again in act four and skillfully sustained till the last. It is rather too bad that the final turn of events is foreshadowed from the first by the tell-tale program, for if you are extremely clever you suspect from the fact of an able actor's being assigned to the rôle of the Governor of New York that executive clemency will ring down the curtain, and it is quite true that Mr. Marcin rescues his characters by the intervention of the god from the political machine.

As far as the sociological touch is felt at all "The House of Glass," like the Veiller melodrama and "Kick In," plays with the question of the discharged convict and his after-life in a distrusting world; but, fortunately perhaps, Mr. Marcin seems to care really for his story alone and this he has told with considerable theatrical ingenuity and with a dash—just a dash—of humor.

The performance is good, several members of the company lingering as if they had forgotten to leave when "On Trial" moved out for its long journey on the road. As with Mr. Reizenstein's play, so here, the leading rôle falls to Mary Ryan, a strikingly similar part, by the way, which she plays in much the same manner, nicely distinguishing the changing woman of the passing years and suggesting with success the weary collapse which comes when, beaten half insensible by adversity, Margaret Case's spirit of resistance leaves her utterly. In the intense emotional scenes Miss Ryan falls a little short, but it must be said in her behalf that Mr. Marcin has turned over to her an unconscionable amount of centre-stage agony.

In other rôles, Frederick Burt, Thomas Findlay, Harry C. Browne (who has learned not to shout), James C. Marlowe, Ada Gilman, and Frank Young all acquit themselves honorably. But, all in all, the finest single contribution of the evening is made by Frank M. Thomas, who takes a long stride ahead by his strikingly fine, sincere, and forceful performance as the thief who gets the girl into trouble with the police and as the ex-convict who fights all his days to protect her and make amends.

Mr. Thomas's work received the reward of a genuine and hearty response from last night's audience, which betook itself from the Candler looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to the first performance at the Eltinge tonight of "See My Lawyer," a new farce, by a young playwright named Max Marcin.

Paul Armstrong's Funeral.

The funeral of Paul Armstrong, the playwright, was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Armstrong apartment at 829 Park Avenue. The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church, conducted the services. These were most simple, without music and with only the reading of scriptural passages, the Episcopal burial service and the verses of "Abide With Me." There were some members of the theatrical profession present and many floral pieces were sent by them. The body was taken to Fresh Pond, L. I., for cremation.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Otis Skinner returned yesterday from an extended holiday trip through the West. He will begin rehearsals today of a new play written for him by Henry Arthur Jones.

Clifton Webb, the dancer, has been added to the cast of Ned Wayburn's "Town Topics," the revue with which the Century will begin its career as a music hall.

Jean Webster's play of last season, "Daddy Long-Legs," will play a return engagement at the Gaiety Theatre beginning Monday night. Ruth Chatterton and the original company will present it.

The last dress rehearsal of "Watch Your Step" will be held this morning and tomorrow the company will go to Chicago for an engagement in the Illinois Theatre. The Castles, Frank Tinney, Brice and King, and Harry Kelly will again be the principals.

Pauline Frederick has entered into a contract with the Famous Players Film Company whereby she will confine her services to the movies for a term of years.

A theatre party made up of more than a hundred contestants and officials of the national tennis tournament witnessed May Irwin's performance in "No. 13 Washington Square" at the Park Theatre last night. After the third act a floral piece, the gift of the West Side Tennis Club, was sent across the footlights to the comedienne.

REFORMS IN TICKET SALES.

Managers Give Details of Their Plan—Tyson Co. Distributer.

Details of the agreement entered into by the theatre managers to effect certain reforms in the sale of tickets were made public yesterday in a statement issued by the committee of five, appointed to arrange the final details. The main essentials of the plan agree with the outline in yesterday's TIMES, but there are some interesting points given as to its execution.

The statement emphasizes the fact that the question of hotel and other agencies received as much attention as that of cut-rate tickets, that the two questions were considered as features of one problem. The managers decided:

First: That hereafter there shall be no cut rate tickets issued, nor any device resorted to for the selling of cut rate tickets, nor any literature or advertisement published announcing that tickets can be purchased anywhere at less than the box office price. This, however, does not preclude any manager who wishes to reduce his prices of admission or seats regularly at his box office from doing so, provided he sells them to the entire public at that price.

Second: That there shall be no free list.

Third: The Tyson Company was selected as the distributor for the tickets usually allotted to the hotels and agencies, it being understood that the agencies now in existence shall get a certain allotment of tickets through the Tyson Company; and it is exacted in turn from the Tyson Company that it give a bond of $25,000, guaranteeing that no tickets shall be sold by it or any of its agencies for a sum of more than 50 cents in excess of box office price, and any agent caught imposing in excess of this price shall forthwith be cut off from the sale of tickets. On the other hand, the managers have bound themselves to each other to live up to their share of the contracts, and the managers' contract has been made a part of the Tyson contract.

It was further decided that there shall be prominently and permanently displayed at every hotel agency where theatre tickets are sold a sign calling the attention of the public to the fact that any tickets sold for more than fifty cents in excess of the box office price by said hotel or agency is an imposition on the public, and calling upon the public to report such imposition. This sign shall further inform the public that the salesmen or saleswomen who handle these tickets are there to assist the public in getting desirable seats for theatres, and are neither censors nor critics. They are forbidden to give their personal opinions of the merits or demerits of performances or to use their influence to sell one theatre's tickets to the exclusion of another.

At the end of the statement is this paragraph:

"This committee, and the association for whom it speaks, now asks the public to co-operate with them in running down any case in which an imposition has been practiced or an exorbitant price charged."

FANTASTIC GERMAN REVUE.

Sylvester Schaeffer the Hero of "Ein Ritterspiel" in Irving Place.

Sylvester Schaeffer, the ambidextrous descendant of a long line of German stage-folk, who appeared for a brief season last year at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre in an entertainment in which he was most of the cast, was the hero of a fantastic revue presented last night in the Irving Place Theatre. It is entitled "Ein Ritterspiel," and is intended to serve as a sort of prologue to the regular season of repertoire by Rudolf Christian's stock company that will follow.

A great deal was said then about this interesting young man from the German music halls, who smiles as unconcernedly whether he is playing Shubert's "Serenade" on the violin, balancing a yard of puppies on a ladder aloft on his foot, painting a Delft scene in a hurry or shooting a pipe from a hunting dog's mouth. To these and the other feats that caused the word "versatile" to be hurled at him from all sides upon the occasion of his first appearance, Mr. Schaeffer last night added that of authorship, for to him was credited the revue.

"Ein Ritterspiel" was not the least clever of his achievements. Its story of the dream adventures of Max and Moritz and Fipps, the monkey they stole from the zoo, gave the star a chance to exploit the varied facets of his skill. In the land of dreams Max becomes the King he wished to be and Moritz a Prince. But Moritz's choice was not particularly happy, for the Prince was enamored of a Princess for whose hand a Knight also contended, and in the lists the Prince's gold was a sorry match for the prowess of the Knight of the supple body and the sophomore hair. The Knight, you may have guessed, was none other than Sylvester Schaeffer.

The book was written in rhymes that rolled from the nimble tongues of the players, the majority recruited from Mr. Christians's company, Rudi Rahe, Christian Rub, Lotte Engle, and Emmy Nicklas among the number. Then there was Mizi Gizi, whose singing of a song in the uniform of an Austrian Hussar about the alacrity of her country to respond to the need of her ally struck the requisite patriotic note and brought a storm of applause. The lyrics were by Arthur Schoenstalt and Max Simon, and Anselm Goetzl, one of Andreas Dippel's conductors, led an orchestra that played his own music, music that was pleasing though, or because, generally reminiscent.

Dr. Samuel W. Dana.

Dr. Samuel W. Dana, a distant relation of the late Charles A. Dana of The Sun and Richard H. Dana, the poet, and who had been in active practice in this city for fifty years before he retired in 1908, died last night at his home, 162 West Ninety-fourth Street, in his eighty-eighth year. He was born in West Lebanon, N. Y., and after receiving his early education at the Kimball Union Academy, entered Dartmouth College, from which he was graduated in 1854. Dr. Dana then removed to this city and took his degree in medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, being graduated with the class of 1858. He was connected with the New York Dispensary for many years and was a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, the County Medical Society, and a number of other organizations. His son and two daughters survive him.

Ex-Minister Guicciardini Dead.

Count Guicciardini, who was twice Foreign Minister in the Sonnino Cabinet—in 1906 and 1909—was born in 1851 and was a descendant of the celebrated Florentine historian. By his marriage with a member of the Strozzi family, he united two of the most famous names of Florence. He entered the Chamber of Deputies in 1882 and identified himself with the interests of labor and agriculture. For a short time he held a post in the Ministry of Agriculture.

Mrs. Raynolds, Missionary, Dies.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions received a cablegram from the American Consul at Tiflis, Russian Transcaucasia, today, announcing the death of Mrs. George C. Raynolds, one of the party of American missionaries whose flight from Van, Turkish Armenia, to Tiflis, had previously been reported in news dispatches.

Earlier advices were that Mrs. Raynolds was suffering from a broken limb and was in a serious condition. Her death occurred two days before the arrival at Tiflis of her husband, who was returning from the United States, where he had been detained by the interruption of travel resulting from the war.

Mrs. Raynolds had been stationed at Van for 46 years.

Mrs. George C. Stebbins.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Elma Miller Stebbins, wife of George C. Stebbins, a singing evangelist and author of many gospel songs, died suddenly of acute indigestion at a hotel here today. She was 68 years of age. She and her husband had made several tours of the world with Dwight L. Moody, Ira D. Sankey and other evangelists.

Mrs. Stebbins sang with her husband for a number of years, both of them being members of the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church of Brooklyn. The family lived at 19 Verona Place, Brooklyn, and her son, George Waring Stebbins, is organist of the Emmanuel Baptist Church.

SUES TO GET BACK 5 FILM COMPANIES

ALFRED W. VARIAN BLAMED

Had Power of Attorney from Foreign Society's Officials, Who Were Called to Serve in Army.

Suit was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by Eliot Norton, representing the Société Française des Films et Cinematographes Eclair, a French corporation, to restore the company in this country to the standing it had prior to July, 1914. The defendants are the Pine Holding Company, the Eclair Film Company, the Motion Pictures Properties Company, the Leading Players Film Corporation, and the Feature Ideal, Incorporated. Individual defendants are Donald McLean Somers and Henry Calder as trustees, Emil Offeman, Alfred W. Varian, Frederic C. Rawolle, Arthur C. Rieger, George E. Van Vorst, and others.

The plaintiff company is one of the biggest film and moving picture machine companies in Europe. It was organized about seven years ago and has branches in South America as well as here. All of the defendant companies, except the holding company, were organized here in 1914. Charles Jourjon, President of the French company, and Marcel Vandal, its Vice President, were called to serve in the army and are somewhere in the trenches.

Mr. Varian received power of attorney to act for the company here with full authority to manage the local companies. These companies were in debt, and Mr. Varian set about setting them free. Jules Brulatour was a large creditor and much money was due others.

There were cable communications between Mr. Varian and the parent concern, the result being that Mr. Varian was confirmed in his belief that his power of attorney gave him a free hand. He organized the Pine Holding Company, which took over the stock of the other American companies, and it is alleged he transferred 51 per cent. of this stock of the value of $132,600 and used it to raise money to pay the debts of the various companies.

In these transactions it is charged that Mr. Varian exceeded his authority in signing the name of President Jourjon to the papers and that he was also wrong in sacrificing the control of the companies. A copy of the power of attorney given to Mr. Varian has been lost, and its precise provisions are not fully known to Mr. Norton.

The complaint asks that the stock of the local companies be restored to the original owners, that any notes in which the stock was used as collateral be declared null and void, and that the present officers of the companies chosen by Mr. Varian be ousted and the control be turned over to the parent company free of all entanglements.

Mr. Varian and Mr. Somers are members of the law firm of Black, Varian, Bigelow & Somers. Neither of them could be reached last night, but a man thoroughly familiar with the situation and directly interested in the pending suit said:

"All the money obtained by Mr. Varian was used in paying off the debts of the companies, and the main accusation against him is that he grossly exceeded his authority in the matter. The local companies are in a bad financial way. This was the natural outcome, because they lost their natural parents and missed the care and coddling such concerns need if they are to be successful."

HENRY M. STRONG DEAD.

Insurance Broker Was One of the Best Known of Old Brooklynites.

Henry M. Strong, a member of the insurance firm of Henry M. Strong & Son of 81 Fulton Street, Manhattan, and one of the best known of Old Brooklynites, died on Tuesday at his home, 680 Lafayette Avenue, in his seventy-ninth year. Mr. Strong was born in Rochester, N. Y., and came to Brooklyn in 1846 with his father. When the civil war began he enlisted in the Forty-seventh Regiment, serving under Colonel Meserole both at the front and in quelling the New York draft riots of 1862.

Mr. Strong was one of the oldest members of the insurance brokerage fraternity in this city, having succeeded his father in the business in 1861. With Darwin R. James, he and other associates helped found the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church in 1862, and upon the death of Mr. James Mr. Strong succeeded him as senior elder of the church. Mr. Strong was also one of the founders in 1852 of the Throop Avenue Mission Sunday school, where he met and married Agnes Scott Patterson, one of the teachers of the mission school. Mrs. Strong died in January of this year.

Mr. Strong was a Director of the Association for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor, one of the Board of Managers of the Brooklyn Bible Society, a member of the Society of Old Brooklynites, Bureau of Charities, and of the Brooklyn City Mission and Tract Society. He is survived by four daughters and a son, William M. Strong.

ALBERT HENRY WALKER.

Author of "Walker on Patents" and Law Lecturer Dies at 70.

Albert Henry Walker, the author, lecturer, former member of the Connecticut Legislature, who wrote "Walker on Patents," which has since its first publication in 1883 been the leading text and reference book on the patent law of the United States, died on Tuesday at his home in the Hotel Majestic, where he had lived for the last seventeen years, at the age of 70.

He was born in Fairfax, Vt., and was a descendant of Captain John Prescott of Lancaster, Mass., who came to this country in 1640. In 1877 he was graduated from the Law Department of Northwestern University, and was the non-resident lecturer in law at Cornell University from 1889 until 1905, and at the University of Michigan from 1896 until 1913. Mr. Walker argued many important cases in the courts of twenty-two States, including those of Maine, California, Michigan, and Alabama, and also conducted litigations in more than thirty-six of the States of the Union. He was the author of several books, including a history of the Sherman law and his book on patents, which was published in revised editions in 1889, 1895, and lastly in 1904.

Colonel Levi W. Barden.

Colonel Levi W. Barden died late on Tuesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Sabin, 432 Sanford Avenue, Flushing. Had he lived until Friday he would have been 95 years old. Mr. Barden was born in Benton, N. Y., and was admitted to the bar in this State. He went West about fifty years ago, and for more than half a century he practiced law in Portage, Wis. During that period he was a State Senator, a member of the Assembly, and a County Judge. Previous to leaving New York State Mr. Barden joined the New York State National Guard and rose to the rank of Colonel. His wife died fifteen years ago. He came to Flushing four years ago and had made his home with his daughter.

Mrs. Harry T. Herring.

Mrs. Harry T. Herring, wife of the Adjutant General of New Mexico, died early yesterday morning at her home in Sante Fé. Mrs. Herring was the adopted daughter of Dr. J. Seward Webb, her uncle. She was married to General Herring two years ago in Montclair, N. J., and went to Sante Fé. Mrs. Herring is survived by two children by her first husband, J. Laurence McKeever of New York City and Miss Janet F. McKeever of Sante Fé, and a brother, Major W. D. Webb, U. S. A. Mr. McKeever left for Sante Fé last night.

SAMUEL T. DAVIS, JR., DIES.

Special to The New York Times.

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Sept. 1.—Samuel T. Davis, Jr., President of the Locomobile Company of America, died at his Summer home here this morning, after an illness of several days, due to ptomaine poisoning. He was taken ill in his office last Saturday. Death was produced by cerebral hemorrhage, which followed the poisoning.

Mr. Davis was born in Washington, D. C., and was in his forty-third year. He was graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in New York in 1895 and was the head of his class. After this he became associated with Amzi L. Barber in the asphalt business and for a time was Manager of the plant in Porto, Spain. He was a pioneer in the automobile business and when Mr. Barber formed the Locomobile Company in 1899 he went to Bridgeport, Conn., as Manager. His enthusiasm for motor-propelled cars was so great that fifteen years ago he drove a steam car to a world's record over the Coney Island Boulevard. His record was 1:15 for the mile, and Henri Fournier drove a gasoline car the same distance in 0:51 1-5, making another world's record.

In 1897 Mr. Davis married Miss Irene Barber, daughter of Amzi L. Barber, and made his home at Ardsley-on-Hudson until 1902, when he removed to Bridgeport and built a Summer home at Sasco Hill in this town.

Mr. Davis was the founder and first President of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers, which became the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in which he was a Director at the time of his death. He was one of the original members of the Automobile Club of America, and in addition to a number of other clubs and organizations, belonged to the New York Yacht and University Clubs of New York.

In addition to his widow, a daughter, Miss Irene Davis, survives him.

It is said that his firm has recently profited largely by war orders and that Mr. Davis was weakened by overwork and business cares when stricken by his fatal illness.

MARQUIS INOUYE DEAD.

One of Four of Japan's Elder Statesmen Was ex-Minister of Finance.

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—Marquis Kaoru Inouye, one of the Elder Statesmen of Japan, died today of nephritis at the age of 80 years.

He was born in the Yamaguchi Province of Japan, and became Minister of Foreign Affairs in 1885, when 50 years old. Three years later he was appointed Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, relinquishing this portfolio to become Minister of Home Affairs in 1892. In 1894 he was Minister Plenipotentiary to Korea. He had been created a Knight of the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George by the Court of St. James.

His son, the Marquis Katsunoske Inouye, has been Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the British Government.

The death of Marquis Maoru Inouye leaves surviving only three members of the powerful group of "Genro" or Elder Statesmen, whose work and influence have had so much to do with the upbuilding of modern Japan.

Marquis Inouye, although an octogenarian and long lacking in vigor of body, retained his strong mental powers well to the last and continued to exert the marked influence he had long possessed over the financial and other affairs of the empire.

His career throughout his active political life, which dated back to the early '60s, was a distinguished one. At first possessed of anti-foreign ideas, he soon became a convert to the doctrine that Western civilization should be welcomed to Japan, and was active in the establishment of cordial relations with foreign powers.

Marquis Inouye was notably identified with Japanese finances, one of his early posts having been Minister of Finance, while industrial affairs also engaged his active interest. He and the remaining Elder Statesmen are credited with having been virtually the guiding forces of the empire during the critical days of the Russo-Japanese war, the Marquis paying particular attention to the nation's finances.

GERMAN HISTORIAN DEAD.

Felix Poppenberg, a Widely Known Essayist, Succumbs in Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Felix Poppenberg, widely known German essayist and historian, is dead at his home in Berlin, the Overseas News Agency announces.

Felix Michael Julius Poppenberg, Ph. D., was born in Berlin in 1869 and educated at the Friedrich-Wilhelm Gymnasium and the University of Berlin. He wrote many essays on history, literature, and civilization, his principal works being essays on Zacharias Werner, Maeterlinck, "Northern Portraits," "The Art of Books," "The New Scene," "The Living Garment," and "Rococo." He was a correspondent of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Museum for Art and Industry and a member of the Goethe Society and the Society for German Literature.

Obituary Notes.

BRUNO AND EDISON AID CHILDREN'S PLAY

Gather Greenwich Village Youngsters and Furnish Music for Dance and Drill.

PIED PIPER IN A HATBAND

Street Amusements Halt as Boys and Girls Flock Into Washington Square.

Down in Bleecker Street yesterday afternoon a street piano was banging out a one-step, half a dozen couples of little girls were swaying on the sidewalk, and scores of boys clustered up and down the street were playing that they were soldiers and fighting the Austrians, when a tall man in a pepper-and-salt suit, and a hat with a wonderful band, came along and looked over the crowd.

The girls were dancing, but they were dancing as if they had taught themselves. When the music stopped the tall man went among them and began to tell them about a place up in Washington Square, where there was better music, and some teachers who were going to teach them new and wonderful dances just for fun.

Some of the boys stopped their play and came down to hear what was going on, and from farther away other children noticed the crowd gathering, and trooped in toward the edges of the knot of listeners. The hatband attracted everybody's attention. It is the most wonderful hatband in New York, and even in the polychrome streets of Little Italy it stands out like a birthmark on a blonde. And so before long there were dozens of children grouped about the big man and ready to follow him to the place where the wonderful music and wonderful teachers could be found.

The man was Guido Bruno, and the promised land he was telling them about was the Children's Hour on Washington Square arranged by Charles Edison and Mr. Bruno by arrangement with the Park Department. There was a phonograph waiting for the children, and teachers; and because he wanted all the children in Greenwich Village to have a chance at it Bruno thought he would go out into the highways and byways and gather them in.

By the time he had the group in Bleecker Street ready to follow him a girl appeared in a white hat and white skirt and blue jersey. Many of them knew her already as Miss Frances Humler, who had been a worker at the Greenwich Settlement House and who was known and loved by almost all the children south and west of Washington Square. So the crowd was somehow divided, and Bruno told all the little girls to follow Miss Humler up to the square, while he took charge of the boys. When he had grouped them around him he looked over the array of wooden swords and stick rifles.

"Now, boys," he said, "how many of you want to be soldiers and fight for Italy?" They all did.

"All right. But if you want to fight you'll have to know how to march."

So he lined them up somehow and in a minute or two—he was once, they say, a captain in the Austrian Army—he had a squad of boys formed in a column and able to keep step.

"Now, then—left, right—" And so he led them off on the march to the dance. But not directly—the column filed around and about through one street after another of the Italian quarter, and then through the realm of the long-haired and undomesticated artists, and everywhere along the streets the boys fell in at the end of the line.

And so the procession went on and into Washington Square.

There they found Miss Humler and the throng of little girls who had followed her to the park; and they found two other teachers like unto herself in blue and white; and a phonograph was already turning out dance music. The girls took to it eagerly, and some of the boys presently and rather shamefacedly followed suit. Some of the boys couldn't be persuaded to dance; so Bruno reorganized his army and drilled the bearers of lath swords and broomstick rifles and then started them marching in regular order around the park.

Hovering outside the edge of the circle was a man whose rôle was as important as any. He was Patrolman Sullivan of the Mercer Street Station, and his job was to see that none of the youthful rough guys of the neighborhood broke in and spoiled the party. And they didn't.

The children's hour will be a regular feature every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock.

CHANGES IN NATIONAL GUARD

Major Babcock and Major Campbell Put on the Retired List.

Major Louis L. Babcock, Judge Advocate of the 4th Brigade, N. G. N. Y., has resigned, and at his own request has been placed on the retired list after more than fifteen years service. He served in the 65th New York Volunteers in the war with Spain, and first joined the guard as a private in the 65th Infantry in January, 1890.

Major Samuel A. Brown, Medical Department, Surgeon on the staff of Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer, commanding the 1st Brigade, has resigned on account of business. He joined the guard as an Assistant Surgeon of the 12th Infantry in April 1903.

Major William F. Campbell, Medical Corps, Surgeon attached to the 2d Brigade, has been put on the reserve list at his own request.

Captain Charles W. Martyne of the 23d Infantry, at his own request has been placed on the retired list after more than 25 years service.

Clinton M. Lucas has been commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the 1st Field Artillery, and assigned to Battery D. Lieutenant Edward J. Westcott of the 10th Infantry has been assigned as an assistant to Adj. Gen. Stotesbury. Edward F. Winnek has been commissioned Second Lieutenant in the 3d Infantry, and assigned to Company B.

RAILROAD MEN PENSIONED.

Pennsylvania Adds 56 Employes to Its "Roll of Honor."

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced yesterday the retirement with pension of fifty-six of its employes who had served the road from twenty to fifty-four years each. These men were put on the company's "roll of honor." The railroad reported that since it adopted the retirement plan in 1900 $11,610,191 had been paid out and that there were 4,479 former employes on the "roll of honor." In addition to these, 4,448 men who were on the roll have died.

Timothy A. Sullivan, a painter in the car shop in Altoona, Penn., was at the head of the service list among those retired yesterday. He worked for the company 54 years and 3 months, having begun when less than 16 years old. There were several others who had worked for fifty years with the company. Among them was Thomas McGovern, a section foreman at Buffalo. He was born in 1845, and, according to his record in the company's annals, "left the schoolroom to engage in the civil war." He enlisted in a Buffalo regiment when he was 16 and after two years of active fighting was wounded and honorably discharged. He then became a brakeman.

An employe retired on July 1, after nearly fifty-two years of service, won the distinction of receiving as a gift a "carload of gold pieces" from his associates. This was Charles H. Cantwell, yardmaster at Wilmington, Del., and the gift was presented to him at a banquet in his honor. The car containing the gold pieces was a small model in complete detail of a Pennsylvania hopper car. It was constructed of mahogany and mounted on a standard roadbed of rails, ties, and stone ballast. It was loaded with $5 gold pieces and contained $225 in all.

BEGS POLICE TO SAVE HER FROM ABDUCTOR

An eleven-year-old girl, frightened and out of breath, ran up to Policeman O'Donnell of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station at Forty-second Street and Ninth Avenue last night and told the policeman that she had just run away from an Italian in the Pennsylvania railroad station. She wanted the policeman to protect her, she said, because she was afraid the Italian would catch her and take her away.

After she was taken to the West Thirty-seventh Station, she told Lieutenant Stevenson that she had been kidnapped by the Italian from her home in Shamokin, Penn. She gave her name as Katherine Klezynski of 902 Hemlock Street, Shamokin.

According to Lieutenant Stevenson, the child said she was returning home with a can of milk yesterday when an Italian jumped over a fence surrounding the Polish Catholic Church in Shamokin and grabbed her by the arm. He hurled her can of milk away and took her to the railroad station, where they boarded a train which brought them to New York at 7:30 o'clock.

On reaching the Pennsylvania station the Italian told the girl to wait for him in the women's waiting room while he purchased two tickets for another train going South. As soon as he was out of sight the child ran out of the station and was wandering about the streets until she met Patrolman O'Donnell.

Detectives of the Second Branch Bureau made a search of the Pennsylvania station last night, but found no trace of the kidnapper. The girl was then told to walk about the concourse as well as through the aisles of all the trains about to depart for the South, but no man appeared to claim her. The police of Shamokin were notified and the girl was sent to the Children's Society.

AUTO LOAD OF SIX LANDS IN HOSPITAL

Machine Starts With Man Hit by a Beer Bottle, But Crashes Into Street Sweeper.

George Edwards of 5 Beach Avenue, Rockaway Beach, became angry at Walter McKeeve of 2 Fourth Street yesterday morning in a chop suey restaurant and struck him over the head with a beer bottle because he thought McKeeve had insulted his girl companion. John O'Connor of Roger Avenue, Inwood, L. I., was passing in an automobile belonging to Mrs. Hattie Stillwagon, and the injured man was put in and rushed for the Rockaway Beach Hospital. In the machine were also Harry White of 405 Boulevard, Robert Cannon of 27 Waverly Avenue, and Frank Donaldson of Wainwright Place, all of Rockaway Beach.

As the machine sped along, without lights the police assert, it crashed into a street sweeper at Boulevard and Eldert Avenue, throwing the occupants of the car into the street and bruising Louis Reh of 20 Bruce Place, the driver of the sweeper. Reh was added to the passenger list of the machine, and it continued to the hospital with six injured after having started with but one.

GIRL SWIMS HUDSON TWICE.

Mary E. Miller, 14 Years Old, Makes the Round Trip in 1:51.

When she was 4 years old, Mary Elizabeth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Miller of 600 West 142d Street, won a silver trophy in a swimming race at Bath Beach, Bensonhurst. Three years ago she swam across the Hudson from New York to the Jersey shore, and a year later covered the distance a second time. Yesterday she not only swam to the Jersey shore, but made the return trip as well. She is barely 14 years old.

She dove into the Hudson at the foot of 149th Street shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday. A second later her head appeared and she struck out for the distant goal. Almost at the same time a motor boat put out filled with a party of her friends, and a rowboat with her father followed her. He called directions to his daughter, guiding her course toward Fort Lee. The young swimmer showed wonderful speed, combining the double overhand stroke with the trudgen. There was almost no tide to interfere, but there was a strong northwest wind, which made the water choppy. Her arms flashed in steady rhythm, however, and fifty-six minutes after she started her hand touched the Jersey side.

Miss Miller did not pause for a rest, but instantly turned on the homeward journey. This time the course lay straight across the river. The tide was beginning to work against her, and the battle became harder. Her friends called their encouragement, for this was the supreme test. The swimmer showed no fatigue, but once when her father spoke to her she said she was very hungry. Nearing the New York side the swimmer increased the speed of her stroke, and 150 yards from shore broke into the Australian crawl, the stroke of the racing swimmer. This was to show that her long journey had not exhausted her. When she climbed on the float at the West End Yacht Club, at the foot of West 164th Street, fifty-five minutes had elapsed since she left the Jersey shore.

Miss Miller said after the swim that she had at no time felt exhausted, the only thing that bothered her being that she was very hungry.

NO CHOLERA ON LINERS.

24-Hour Quarantine on German Steamers to be Lifted Today.

The thirteen steamers of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Lines lying up at the companies' piers in Hoboken were quarantined yesterday until 10 o'clock this morning as a precautionary measure by order of Surgeon General Blue, from Washington. This is the result of the discovery of illness on board the Hamburg-American steamer President Lincoln and the two small steamers moored outside her, away from the pier.

There was no idea among the doctors that it was Asiatic cholera, it was said, but as the sixteen patients had developed intestinal trouble, with a high temperature, it was considered better to quarantine the vessels for twenty-four hours and not to permit the crews to mingle. There was no sickness of any kind on the North German Lloyd steamers.

Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, Health Officer of the Port, visited the President Lincoln yesterday with a bacteriologist from the Quarantine station, and said he found that eleven of the crew had been sick, but had now practically recovered and were back at work.

From his investigation, he said late yesterday afternoon, there was no real cholera on the steamer, and it was a case of intestinal trouble through eating or drinking something that had disagreed with the men. He would order the quarantine to be removed from the ships at 10 o'clock today, he said.

CATCH BIG SHARK AT CONEY.

Eight-Foot Man-Eater Dragged Upon Beach by Four Men.

After a hard struggle lasting nearly half an hour, the shark whose rapidly moving fin has terrorized bathers at Coney Island for two weeks was caught and killed yesterday by Frank Selino, assisted by Hugh Joyce and four others.

The fishermen and lifeguards said last night that the shark was undoubtedly a man-eater that had come North on account of the warm water of Summer, looking for prey. He has been seen for the past two weeks and has alarmed many bathers, so that they refused to return to the water after his fin had been seen.

The shark is eight feet long and weighs more than 230 pounds, and last night was placed in a tool house, where he was an object of curiosity to hundreds.

TRADE GAINS NOTED BY RESERVE BOARD

MONEY IS TOO PLENTIFUL

Bank Surpluses Large and Rates Low — No Business Depression Found and War Orders Continue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Federal Reserve Board's monthly summary of conditions in the twelve reserve districts show an absence of business depression, and the coming of the Fall harvests seems to be looked forward to with hope in agricultural communities. The general activity of industries affected by the demand of the Allies for war material continues, with good effect upon the production of iron, steel, wool, worsted, machinery, and leather. There is also a slight improvement in coal, though Pennsylvania mines are still running at half time. Banking conditions are unfavorable, with large surpluses and rates so low that bankers are not eager to make loans on outside paper.

The continuing war demand has made a great market for labor and skilled mechanics seem to be at a premium everywhere.

"Industry was more active, particularly in iron, steel, machinery, wool, and leather. Foreign orders are still the leading stimulus. Labor troubles appeared in various places, but the differences were adjusted in most cases and some long standing strikes were settled. Suburban real estate is dull; in New York City a slow improvement continues.

Bank Clearings Here Up Half a Billion

"The New York bank clearings in July totaled $8,695,413,567, an increase of $514,928,945 over July, 1914. Other statistics compared for the same periods show: Building permits issued 50, for structures to cost $4,097,080, a gain of 7 in number, but a decrease of $508,270 in amount; new incorporations, 84, with authorized capital $27,400,000, an increase of 28 in number and $12,330,000 in amount; New York State failures, 207, with liabilities of $2,473,510, a decrease of 37 in number and $5,276,715 in liabilities; transactions on the Stock Exchange, bonds, $56,489,500, an increase of $4,792,500; stocks, 14,326,813 shares, an increase of 6,436,214 shares and of 3,426,000 shares over June. A noteworthy volume of business was also transacted on other exchanges.

"On July 31 the combined figures of the members of the New York Clearing House showed loans, $2,577,944,000; deposits, $2,695,302,000, and excess reserves, $180,384,050. Compared with June 26, loans increased $101,647,000, and deposits $112,738,000, but excess reserves decreased $12,868,000. Money rates remained practically unchanged; bankers' acceptances, 2 1-16 to 2⅜ per cent, and prime commercial paper, 3¼ to 4 per cent., with occasional sales at 3 per cent."

"While early in the month a slight hardening tendency was noticeable in the money market, the month is ending with conditions much the same as previously reported. Call money to brokers is freely offered at 3 per cent.; six months' commercial paper, 3½ to 4 per cent.; loans to country banks, 3 to 4 per cent.; town notes, 2½ per cent.; bank acceptances, 2⅛ to 2¼ per cent.; excess reserve in Boston banks, $41,411,000, a decrease of $4,563,000 from the same date last month."

From Richmond it is reported that the tobacco crop promises local benefits, while in most of the Southern States a great increase in cotton warehouse facilities suggest that glutting a falling market will not be repeated this year.

Minneapolis reports favorably of wheat crops and wheat prices; while Dallas, alone in the agricultural States, seems despondent as a result of long droughts, followed by devastating rainfall.

More Consolidated Exchange Seats.

The recent period of activity in the stock market has led the Consolidated Stock Exchange to decide on the issue of a number of new memberships. The Consolidated deals in ten shares as the unit instead of 100 as on the Big Board. Seats on the Consolidated have been selling at about $1,000, and the Governors hope to sell a number to men who want to deal in stocks for their own account.

BANKERS SEE GOOD TIMES.

Declare "Almost Unbelievable Prosperity" Is Coming to the Country.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Bankers passing through Chicago today to attend the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association at Seattle, Wash., predicted that an "almost unbelievable prosperity" is rushing on the nation.

"When the bank reserves, which are greater now than they have ever been in the history of the country, are distributed, the nation will enjoy almost unbelievable prosperity," said William A. Law of Philadelphia, President of the American Bankers' Association. "The volume of money on hand is so great that it cannot find a natural outlet. The movement of the tremendous crops, with the attendant financial activity, will still further increase the bank reserves."

Mr. Law attributed the present state of business to the upset conditions prevailing in international trade relations and to a wave of economy.

WHEAT.

An active covering movement developed in the wheat market yesterday and after rather feverish fluctuations both ways prices closed with the September position 3c net higher, while the later months were up ⅝@⅞c. In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.12, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, prompt shipment; No. 2 hard, $1.14, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, to arrive; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 98¾c, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 94½c, cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo.

CORN.

The improved weather over the West and prospects of larger receipts of old corn had a depressing influence on the corn market. Longs were disposed to sell, and while the advance in wheat exerted more or less influence on the market at times, closing prices were net unchanged to 1¼c lower. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 86½c, prompt shipment.

OATS.

The oats market moved within a narrow range and closed at ¼c decline to ⅛c advance. Exporters were again in the market and sales were reported of about 350,000 bushels, but this was offset by the very favorable weather for marketing the new crop. The local cash market was largely nominal, with old crop oats quoted at 55@60c; new No. 3 white, 42@43c; No. 4 white, 41c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was fairly steady early in the session on moderate covering prompted by a firmer tone to the hog markets, but during the day values again eased off, and closed at about the lowest. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 21,000, estimated for Thursday 15,000; Kansas City received 5,000, and Omaha, 5,000.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was further depressed by the action of the exchange market, as each decline in the price of sterling exchange makes purchases in Brazil possible at lower prices to the buyer, and under present rates coffee can be placed in store here at prices equal to, if not lower, than the offers from Brazil. In the cost and freight market Santos 4s sold late on Tuesday as low as 8.20c for September-October shipment, and were offered at 8¼c for the same shipment yesterday, although prompt shipment of 4s were offered at 8.40@8.50c and Rio 7s at 6⅝c, all English credits. The local spot market was inactive and easy, with Rio 7s quoted at 6¾c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 15,439 packages. Supplies were more liberal yesterday, but there was good trading and the late advance was firmly maintained. Most of the open business in extras was at 26½c, the market closing firm at that, with the higher scoring lots bringing 27@27½c. A very considerable part of the business was in fair seconds to fine firsts at from 23@26c; the market is still abundantly supplied with that class of stock. Renovated favoring the seller. Ladles are hardening a little, and there is a good firm market for useful grades of packing stock. Creamery, extras, (92 score, 26½c; higher scoring, 27@27½c; firsts, 24½@26c; seconds, 22½@24c; thirds, 21½@22c; State dairy, finest, 26c; good to prime, 23½@25½c; common to fair, 20@23c; renovated, extras, 23½@24c; firsts, 22½@23c; lower grades, 20@21½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 22@22½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 21@21½c; seconds, 20c; lower grades, 18@19c; packing stock, June make, fine, 20c; current make, fine, 19½c; No. 2, 19c; lower grades, 16@18½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 16,071 cases. Arrivals were again somewhat larger than the corresponding day last week; the increase is apparently due to the forwarding of held stock from interior points. The supply of high qualities of fresh gathered is not large, but the trading is generally rather quiet and the tone of the market no more than steady, although values are fairly well sustained on the higher grades. Some increase in the use of ordinary storage eggs and storage dirties is affecting the market for the lower qualities of fresh gathered, which are slightly in buyers' favor. Near-by white eggs are without material change in the range of values, but the outside quotation is still extreme and reached only for exceptionally fancy qualities; many lots that usually command the top quotation have to be sold at more or less concession, and a large part of the business is in range of 30@33c, with decidedly defective goods lower. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 27@28½c; extra firsts, 25@26½c; firsts, 24@24½c; seconds, 22@23½c; thirds and poorer, 19@21½c; dirties, No. 1, 20½@21c; No. 2 and poorer, 18@20c; checks, good to choice, dry, 19@19½c; culls and inferior, 15@18c; refrigerator, firsts, 23@24c; seconds, 21½@22½c; thirds or poorer, 18@21c; State, Penn., and near-by, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 32@35c; ordinary to good, 27@31c; gathered whites, as to size and quality, 26@32c; Western, gathered whites, 25@28c; State, Penn., and near-by, hennery browns, 29@31c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 24@28c; near-by, refrigerator, whites, 26½@28c.

ROWDYISM IN CARS LESS, POLICE REPORT

COURTS PRAISED FOR HELP

Sunday Games with Beer Keg Present Given as a Reason for Much Disorder.

There is material for a temperance lecture in the report just made by Chief Inspector Max Schmittberger to Police Commissioner Woods, regarding the arrests this Summer of rowdies on the street, elevated and subway trains. Beer and bad bringing up are almost entirely reasponsible for the misbehavior of youths and young men on the party" is a continual menace to the peace of the city.

The report shows an increase in the number of arrests over last Summer, but it is pointed out that this is really due to the increase in the number of policemen engaged in supressing rowdies. Notwithstanding the increased number of arrests, the police say that rowdyism is decreasing and the prediction is made at Police Headquarters that next Summer there will be a further decrease in the number of disorderly persons who make traveling on Sundays and holidays impossible for decent folk.

The report shows that during the Summer, up to Aug. 30, 1,071 arrests were made for disorder in public conveyances, against 622 in 1914. Four districts show a great increase in arrests. In the Seventh, 125 arrests were made, against forty-four in 1914. This district takes in the lower end of the Bronx, where there are several baseball parks. In the Thirty-third District, which includes resorts along Jamaica Bay, the arrests were 199, as against 33 in 1914. The record shows the activity of Inspector Cahalane in the Thirteenth District has been as great as that of Inspector Cohen in the Eleventh District, for his men made 121 arrests, 52 more than in 1914. This district takes in Staten Island, with Midland and South Beaches. In the Seventeenth District, which includes College Point and North Beach, acting Inspector Boettler gathered in 135 disorderly persons. The record of the district in 1914 was 68 arrests. One hundred and twenty-seven arrests were made in the Fifteenth District, the same number as last year. In this district is Coney Island. There was a decrease in arrests in the Second and Fifth Districts.

In every inspection district there are now at least four men assigned to plain clothes duty on days when travel is heavy, to arrest disorderly persons.

"The ages of the prisoners range from fourteen to twenty-four," said Chief Inspector Schmittberger. "Among the older prisoners beer is usually the cause of disorder and the men are arrested returning from a day spent in some beer park or at a game where the keg figures. In the case of the younger prisoners, the cause is horseplay, indulged in to the discomfort of other passengers, and the disorder is usually a demonstration of improper bringing up.

"The car rowdy is an imported article, or he is of the first generation of those who came to this country for greater freedom. In connection with our efforts to suppress the rowdy, I want to say that the Magistrates are giving us every support and rarely are prisoners discharged without a fine."

WILSON FAVORS VETERANS.

President Grants Leave with Pay for G. A. R. Encampment.

Henry C. Stuart, Acting Collector of the Port, received word from the Treasury Department yesterday authorizing leaves of absence to all veterans of the civil war employed in the Customs Service who may desire to attend the Grand Army of the Republic Encampment, to be held in Washington from Sept. 27 to Oct. 2.

Assistant Secretary Peters advised Mr. Stuart that, under an executive order signed by President Wilson, veterans are entitled to the leave with full pay and without reference to the regular vacation allowed under the Treasury regulations. The leave also embraces the time required to reach and return from Washington.

Cultivating Conservatism.

A manufacturer, commenting on the general business situation yesterday, said much of the blame for the lagging spirit of the demand is due to the methods now being used by the retailers. "The buyers," he said, "are taking just enough to be able to say that they have something new in the house. They are offering no assortments to their customers, and it is exceedingly difficult for the purchaser to get his or her size in anything that is attractive. Every effort is being made to get rid of old stocks at prices better than they should bring. The average customer, who is disgusted with the attempts of the merchant to 'work' some thing old off on him, is continually wondering what is going to happen. He sees this spirit of conservatism and retrenchment on every side. Is it so strange then, that he thinks twice before spending his money? The storekeepers for no reason at all are teaching him to be very, very careful, with the result that there is no snap to what trade is being done."

Replacing Foreign Goods.

The salesmanager for a leading shirt and collar concern picked out a certain fabric that will be used in the line for the coming Spring. "This," he said, "is a cloth that we imported before the war. There was nothing made in this country that could equal it, so we were forced to buy it from a foreign manufacturer. Since the war started, however, American manufacturers have bent their efforts to making goods that they were formerly content to allow the foreigners to make. This piece of goods is domestic made and as good or better than anything we got from abroad, and from now on we will use it in our manufacturing."

Will Push Design Bill Again.

According to information received here by merchants interested in the movement, the bill providing for the registration of commercial designs that was buried at the last session of Congress will be brought up again in December and pushed hard. The necessary work will be done by representatives of the National Registration League, which has in its membership a large number of leading houses in a wide variety of trades. The bill in question, which was settled upon by those interested as the only satisfactory means of protecting owners of original commercial designs from the loss entailed by their prompt theft by less inventive and scrupulous merchants and manufacturers, provides for their bulk registration at a low fee. In case of dispute, it is provided that priority of registration shall be regarded as evidence of real ownership.

Trying to Vary Shoe Styles.

Reports from the shoe trade indicate that retailers of the better class of goods are trying to work out individual styles to take the place of the black shoes with white stitching that are now so generally popular for Fall. But it is further said they apparently can not stop the demand. One of these dealers is showing a woman's button shoe made entirely of one piece of black kid, including the button fly. For one reason or another a shoe of this kind will have to be retailed at $12 to $15 a pair. Another dealer is showing an all-patent leather, gypsy-cut lace shoe, with five rows of white stitching up the front to give the foot a slim appearance. Quite a little business is reported on dark tan lace shoes for women, in the heavier weights and better qualities.

Exports of Domestics and Duck.

Exports of domestics and cotton duck were heavy in the week ended Aug. 28, according to a statement issued yesterday at the Custom House. Shipments of domestics aggregated $334,020, while cotton duck exported had a value of $189,078. Cuba was the heaviest buyer of domestics, their value being $69,017, while Haiti, notwithstanding unsettled political conditions, took goods worth $56,201. Domestics for Central America were manifested at $35,022. San Domingo shipments totaled $27,793. French purchases of domestics shipped to Havre were set down at $37,587. The British War Office took duck worth $89,407, while shipments to Glasgow reached $69,297.

Printcloth Sales Very Large.

Active buying of gray goods, said by some to be the largest in a long time, was a feature of the cotton goods market yesterday. Printcloth sales were especially heavy, from all accounts, these constructions selling in a large way for delivery in the net sixty days: 39-inch 68-72s at 4½ cents, 39-inch 56-44s 3 3-16 cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 3⅞ cents, and 38½-inch 60-52s and 60-48s at 3½ and 3⅜ cents, respectively. Mills were not anxious to take contract business, and many of them were asking prices for late delivery goods that the buyers did not care to meet just yet. Sheetings were more active, some large sales of 36-inch, 48 square, 4-yard goods being reported, among others, at 4⅝ cents. Some good inquiries for drills were told of, among them bids of 4⅜ cents for 37-inch 3.95s. The mills, however, wanted at least 4½ cents, and it was figured that this price would be paid today, barring unforeseen events. A good and varied business in fancies was done. Staple spot prices were:

39-inch, 72-76s	5⅛c	38½-inch, 60-52s	3½c
39-inch, 68-72s	4½c	38½-inch, 60-48s	3⅜c
39-inch, 56-44s	3 3-16c	27-inch, 64-60s	*2¾c
38½-inch, 64-60s	3⅞c	27-inch, 56-52s	2⅝c

Sardines Getting Scarcer.

The activities of German army contractors in buying up large stocks of Norwegian sardines at what seem here fabulous prices, are interfering with American importers getting their usual supplies of this fish. Sardine fishing in Norway continues in a satisfactory way, according to letter advices received by handlers in this city, but the prices asked for new stock were described by a factor in the trade yesterday as "crazy." While firms here desire to place orders for fresh supplies, they feel that present prices are prohibitive. Stocks are getting low, but importers in many instances are not charging high prices for the stocks on hand. It was said in the trade, however, that when the present supplies are exhausted, there will be a big jump in rates.

Buyers May Learn Something.

It has been suggested that, because of the difficulties confronting the makers of women's garments this season from the standpoint of getting in their fabric supplies, the retail buyers should cooperate in placing their orders earlier than usual. A dress goods salesman, who mentioned the topic, said little in the way of such co-operation can be expected from the retail buyers. "They pass up all warnings," he said, "and it is useless to try and get them to specifiy their requirements a minute before they are good and ready to put in their orders. I would almost say that, if every dress goods mill in the country were to burn down tomorrow, the retail buyers would not be at all disturbed. They have adopted the policy of disregarding all kindly warnings. All present indications point to a scarcity of dress goods this Fall, and I wouldn't be at all surprised if some of the buyers are to be taught a lesson."

Gem Imports Increasing.

Importations of precious stones at this port for August show a gain over previous months of the calendar year, according to a report given out yesterday by Appraiser Sague. The August entries of gems of all classes, including pearls, had a value of $1,561,502, which was a better record than the same month last year, when imports were appraised at $1,122,446. In August, 1913, when importers were rushing gems into the country in anticipation of the higher rates carried in the present tariff, entries totaled $3,781,975. Of last month's entries, $1,209,408 represented cut gems paying 20 per cent. ad valorem duty; $306,236 taxed at 10 per cent. as uncut, and miners' and glaziers' diamonds, free of duty, valued at $45,858.

Will the Orders "Stick"?

The chief concern of the men's wear branch of the piece goods market is whether the orders that have been booked on Spring fabrics will "stick." The clothing trade has not been doing so well for several seasons past, and the fabric sellers are more or less puzzled over the situation as it stands. They have been constantly warning the cutters-up of the dyestuff scarcity and the higher prices that raw wool and yarns are bound to reach, but the response to these warnings has proved larger than anticipated. In case there is a sudden change from a dull to a brisk demand in the clothing trade, certain mills, that have followed the custom of other seasons and taken more orders than they can deliver so as to allow for cancellations, may find themselves in trouble. On the other hand, it is beyond question that all the orders for lightweight goods are bona fide. The question is now how much leeway must be allowed for cancellations.

Wash Goods Still Active.

There has yet been no marked diminution, in jobbing circles, in the demand for Fall wash goods, and indications are that the initial buying of these goods by the retail trade will continue longer than usual this year. This is due not only to the fact that it began somewhat later than commonly, but also to the great variety of goods shown, which naturally made buying slower and more difficult. Some surprise is expressed that, in spite of the lateness of the wholesale season, a good deal of the business now being placed is coming from territory outside of the so-called Metropolitan district. One of the features of the demand of late has been the increased call for plaids in the weights most suitable for school and play dresses.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

The Board of General Appraisers yesterday overruled a claim for shortage made by Alexander Murphy & Co., Philadelphia. The contention was that 600 bobbins were missing from cases when they were opened at the importers' store. The Customs Examiner reported that while he did not count the number of bobbins in each case, he checked up the accompanying cards and found that they corresponded with the invoices. Duty was accordingly taken on this basis. At the hearing a witness was put on the stand in behalf of the firm, but his testimony was described by Judge Waite as "meagre." It was held that a shortage within the meaning of the tariff was not proved, the Collector being affirmed.

The board reaffirmed the right of an importer to make a great number of claims for lower duty in a single protest. The case before the board was that of A. Stein & Co., Chicago, who protested the Collector's assessment of elastic webbing. The Custom House authorities exacted duty at 60 per cent. on the ground that the merchandise was composed in chief value of artificial silk. When it came to trying the issue the Government counsel asked the board to dismiss the protest owing to the "multifarious" claims made by the importers. Judge Howell declined to take this action, the General Appraiser holding that the various claims were not so inconsistent and unreasonable as to be misleading. The importers' chief claim was for entry at 25 per cent. ad valorem as bandings, bindings, or other articles composed of cotton or other vegetable fiber. This claim, as well as the other alternative claims, were overruled.

In sustaining protests by Brown & Reese, the board held that the protest fee of $1 required by the Tariff act of 1913 does not apply to merchandise entered and liquidated before the enactment of the present law, even though the protest itself was filed after the law became effective. The merchandise involved consisted of 2,120 bales of cork shavings, which were returned for duty at the rate of 10 per cent. ad valorem under the act of 1909 as "waste." The board held that the goods should be given free entry under Paragraph 547, which specifies "cork wod, or cork bark, unmanufactured."

Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, were sustained in the contention that they should not be held liable for duty on 65 dozen collars never received. The testimony and the report of the Appraiser satisfied the board that the shortage existed at the time the importation was made. A reliquidation was ordered.

AVIATOR ATWATER IN JAIL.

Husband of Senator Platt's Former Wife Fails to Meet Court Order.

For failing to comply with the Federal Court order requiring him to pay $5,000 to his trustee in bankruptcy, William B. Atwater, aviator, was arrested yesterday by United States Deputy Marshal Doran and locked up in Ludlow Street Jail. His wife, Lillian Platt Atwater, widow of former Senator Thomas C. Platt, failed to come to his assistance.

Atwater was directed to pay the $5,000 by Referee in Bankruptcy William C. Anthony of Newburgh. The money was supposed to be the remainder of the proceeds of a trip that Atwater made around the world in 1912, when he gave more than 200 exhibition flights.

Edgar Armstrong Hamilton of 42 Broadway, Mr. Atwater's lawyer, said if Mrs. Atwater had believed her husband was justly obligated to pay the $5,000 she would gladly have paid it for him, but that she thought the referee's ruling was unfair.

ITALIANS NEED THEM.

Trying to Buy Up Medicines and Chemicals for Explosives.

Weekly Drug Markets will say today that most of the large manufacturers of chemicals and the big drug jobbing concerns have been approached within the last few days by agents acting for the Italian Government, who are endeavoring to buy up medicinal supplies as well as heavy chemicals for use in manufacturing explosives. There are, according to brokers who have seen it, over 300 articles enumerated in the list on which bids have been solicited. Included in this list are practically all the drugs and chemicals which Great Britain has prohibited from being exported, and it is because of her inability to get supplies either from that country or Germany that Italy has been forced to turn to the United States.

Narcotics, iodides, salicylates, bromides and coal tar preparations of all kinds which are used as anesthetics and disinfectants are among the pharmaceuticals which the Italians have been most eager to buy. All of these goods are extremely scarce, and so far as can be learned no large purchases have yet been negotiated.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Turn Strong After Early Decline—Status of Exchange Situation.

After a decline due to increased concern over the exchange situation—demand sterling fell all of 5 cents further in the early dealings yesterday—the stock market turned strong on the news from Washington that the German Government, through its Ambassador, had formally accepted the position of the United States that passenger vessels must not be sunk without warning and without giving those aboard opportunity to escape. That news merely bore out the forecast which had been current for a week, yet it was accepted as confirming definitely the promise that the relations of this Government to Germany would again move into smooth channels and that was regarded as news of sufficient importance to warrant a resumption of the forward movement of the Stock Exchange. But that movement yseterday hardly seemed a spontaneous reflection of increased public confidence.

Scarcely had news come from Washington that Germany had formally accepted our position when word went forth in trading circles that certain stocks would be advanced and the market very quickly bore out these predictions. It was a professional traders' market rather than a public market which responded to yesterday's news from Washington. To that extent this news, which had undoubtedly been fully anticipated, was the excuse rather than the reason for the resumption of the upbidding of stocks, which followed upon the early uncertainty. Most of the major issues rose relatively little; some of the railroad stocks, which had been strong on Tuesday, fell back instead of advancing further; and it was left to the war stocks to give the market the largest share of he strength which it displayed after the first hour of trading.

With its attention again turned to war orders and war stocks, the market was disposed to pay little heed to the exchange situation, but so far as the stock market was related to the financial situation as a whole, it had the benefit yesterday afternoon of a sharp upturn in exchange following the severe break at the opening. Much was heard yesterday of short covering in the exchange market after the price had dropped to 4.50, compared with 4.55 at the close of the previous day. There were several reasons why a decline to that figure induced short covering. For one thing, the rapidity of the decline during the last few days offered tempting profits to any one who had taken a short position in sterling bills. For another, the fall to 4.50 fulfilled longstanding banking predictions that sterling would recede to that figure as a result of the enormous buying in this market by England and by those countries which England is financing, and as a reaction from the conditions which a year ago drove sterling exchange to prohibitively high figures. In addition to these considerations the market paid attention to the fact that the British and French Governments have appointed financial delegates to visit this country to consider along with our bankers the best means of stabilizing the exchanges. It is believed, therefore, that before very long measures looking to strengthening of the exchanges will be adopted, or at all events will be under active discussion with the likelihood of some workable plan being devised.

Our bankers cannot act alone. At present the problem is chiefly England's problem. The phases which concern us most directly have to do with the ultimate effect of a demoralized exchange situation on our own foreign trade and so there is less pressure here than on the other side to deal actively with this situation. The seeds of the present movement in exchange were sown a year ago when London was insisting upon our paying our debts in gold, which we did. Had London then taken our notes instead of our gold, she would have had an easier means of settling a part of what she has since come to owe us and so, in our case, if we now take notes instead of cash we will be in a postiion to stabilize the exchanges in our favor should conditions after the war bring about a violent recovery in exchange and possibly an advance to much above the normal level of the exchange as some bankers thing is likely to happen. Markets dealing with each other cannot be indifferent to the financial position of either, and we have a very real interest in co-operating to the fullest extent possible with the London market in straightening out the exchange situation so far as it can be straightened out under the extraordinary conditions brought on by the war. It will be with this mutual interest clearly in mind that our bankers will enter upon the conferences shortly to be held with the English and French representatives who are coming to suggest and discuss means of restoring a greater degree of order to the exchanges between this country and Europe.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Edward J. Duffy has been admitted to partnership in the firm of Kean, Taylor & Co.

Governors of the Stock Exchange yesterday decided not to close the exchange on Saturday for the usual extra holiday preceding Labor Day. A petition for the extra day was not generally signed.

The Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific offers to extend its prior lien bonds maturing Nov. 1 next for twenty-five years, with interest at 5 per cent. The present first mortgage lien is to remain unimpaired. Holders who desire to extend their bonds must deposit them with J. P. Morgan & Co. on or before Oct. 1. Bonds not extended will be paid off at par and interest on or before Oct. 31.

LONDON MARKET QUIET.

Money in Good Demand and Discount Rates Easy.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Money was in good demand and discount rates were easy today. New York cable transfers slumped to 4.48½, but hardened later to 4.53.

The stock market was quiet. The chief interest was in the American section, where the low rate of exchange brought out further stock offerings, which were well absorbed at gradually rising prices. Canadian Pacific, Erie, United States Steel and Union Pacific were the most active issues. Bonds shared in the improvement and the market closed firm. In other directions the war loan was the only active stock.

Prices Heavy on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Prices were heavy on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 68 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 56 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

An Industry Hard Hit.

The eastern section of the Union is much less interested in the production of lumber than it is in pig iron, and it is not generally realized in New York that the buying power of the Northwest has been seriously interfered with by the absence of a demand for lumber. A report just issued by a committee of shareholders in a company now shut down and in financial straits reflects the unfavorable situation of a very important industry at this time. It says in part:

"Conditions in the timber and lumber industry could not be worse. A large proportion of the mills, both in British Columbia and on the Pacific Coast of the United States are shut down, being unable to operate at a profit, and it was apparent that many of these companies were on the verge of insolvency. Except in a few favored cases there are no ships to carry lumber for export, and there is no hope for a general betterment in present conditions until the war is over and international trade reaches a normal basis. It is estimated that there is an overproduction of 2,100,000,000 feet hanging over the legitimate demand. Hard times and depressions in the lumber industry are not new. They have been with us since 1907 and have gradually been growing worse, until the climax came in the cutting off of the ship supply to fill export orders. There are fundamental reasons to account for this. Iron and concrete are two of them."

Fixed Charges an Embarrassment.

Conservative bankers, from time to time, call attention to the evil of borrowing money that has to be returned on a certain date, only to tie it up in the form of a permanent investment. A bank loan is essentially part of a commercial undertaking, and when it is used to build plants or buy rails there is likely to be difficulty in arranging the financing necessary to take it up at maturity. The greatest evil in the lumber industry has been the bonding of timber and sawmill properties, and the customary overcapitalization. It is said in the Northwest that almost every timber mill with a bond issue has suffered financial embarrassment. Timber properties do not lend themselves to bonding because the lumber business is one of violent ups and downs. Usually before a mill with fixed charges to meet goes bankrupt it sacrifices its stumpage to meet interest and sinking fund charges, and this stumpage is generally what is called "the best logging chance."

A Stranger on the Exchange.

Although it was listed, no sale of Electric Storage Battery stock had taken place on the New York Stock Exchange for nine years, and the appearance of a buying order for 100 shares yesterday caused a little flurry of interest. The market was quoted at 66 bid and 70 asked, then 68 bid and 70 asked, and finally 69 bid, at which price the 100 shares changed hands. Electric Storage Battery is a war stock which has been actively dealt in on the Philadelphia Board, and it was thought yesterday that some one was trying to make a market for the issue here.

Winchester Shares in Demand.

Any doubt as to the genuineness of the market for Winchester Repeating Arms stock as quoted on the curb was removed yesterday when two shares were put up at the weekly auction sale of securities. They sold for $2,500 each, which is the price at which a capitalist is reported to have acquired a block of 100 shares recently.

August's Failures.

The fact that the country's business mortality during the last month made a relatively better exhibit than in the same month for any recent year is taken by Dun's as an indication that the weak spots in the general situation are being eliminated. Commercial failures are still above the average, but last month there were 344 fewer defaults than in July. The number of defaults in August was large, but the amount of money involved was less than half that of 1914.

Optimistic Railroad Reports.

The New York Central and the Pennsylvania followed the procession yesterday with reports of earnings for July which set the optimists talking. Business men who have returned recently from the West report that hundreds of smokestacks which have been idle for months are spreading prosperity broadcast along these lines between New York and Chicago. The New York Central's increase of about 35 per cent. in net, and the Pennsylvania's increase of about 25 per cent. in net, compared with July, 1914, is excellent food for the optimists.

No Idle Cars.

In connection with the Pennsylvania's good report came also the statement that practically every piece of equipment on the Pennsylvania lines, East and West, was in use. Several months ago the Pennsylvania reported 75,000 idle cars. In spite of this the company ordered new equipment. The basic movement underlying the freight increases, it is contended by some, is the production of war supplies which must be moved to the seaboard. If this is true then the equipment may be pressed beyond capacity when the big grain crop begins to move eastward.

Frisco Reorganization.

A new feature of the San Francisco Railroad reorganization plan under consideration, it is understood, provides for a syndicate that will buy all the first mortgage bonds which the stockholders are to get in return for the $50 assessment on the stock. Under these conditions, it is believed, the high assessment may not prove so objectionable. Another new feature unofficially reported is one providing for a voting trust for the stock. A syndicate will underwrite the plan, it is said, if it can be assured of the formation of a voting trusteeship. The plan is not yet ready for presentation and no official analysis of it has been authorized. It is understood, however, that the last detail will be arranged in a short time.

Learning in Odd Lots
We specialize in Odd Lot service and welcome Odd Lot orders—any amount—1 share, 5 shares, 99 shares.
You can gain practical investment experience better by distributing the money you have to invest among a number of issues of good stocks and $100 bonds than by putting all your money into one investment.
Besides, diversity increases the average of safety.
We welcome small accounts. We have found from experiece that small accounts which are started right and kept right, grow larger.
Just at present, when income return on time-tested securities is so liberal, the Partial Payment Plan, which enables you to buy at prevailing prices with an initial deposit and succeeding monthly payments, is most popular with people who are opening accounts.
Over 4500 investors have bought standard stocks and bonds through us on its terms.
Send for Booklet 15, "Partial Payment Plan."

To help you invest wisely
Before purchasing securities, either for investment or speculation, you should secure full information about the property back of the security. It is the business of our Statistical Department to provide such information to our clients.
This department is at the service of investors; also advice and counsel of the principals of this firm, if it is desired.
Small investors will be interested in our "Partial Payment Plan." Write for our free booklet T 2, describing this method of investment.

Build an Income
by making a small cash outlay and paying small sums monthly till your purchase is completed. All interest or dividends are yours from date of first payment.
Our Partial Payment Plan will explain how to lay the foundation of a regular income from high-grade stocks or bonds of small par.

One Advantage of the Partial Payment Method of buying established dividend-paying securities is that it Does Not Require a Large First Payment
The many other good points of this attractive plan are explained in our Booklet 28, which we are pleased to send on request.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Advices from Washington that the submarine problem had been settled had a leading influence in changing the course of the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The dominating factor early was the demoralization in foreign exchange rates. In the latter rally a number of the "war stocks" were particularly prominent. The most active stock was United States Steel common, of which 23,600 shares were sold. A large volume of odd-lot business was handled by commission houses.

FINDS NATION PROSPEROUS.

American Exchange Bank Issues Reports of Its Correspondents.

The American Exchange National Bank has summed up business conditions and the outlook as reported by more than a thousand representative bankers and business men. The replies turned mostly on the effect of the cotton embargo and the activity due to war orders. The information collected from the various sources is summarized as follows:

"Taking the country as a whole, it is in a prosperous condition. There is convincing testimony as to this in almost every report from which we quote. It looks as though we will continue gradually into better times. The distribution of the money received from abroad covers a great range of territory. Our farms, mines, and forests have all been drawn upon to supply the needed material. People in all parts of the country must share in the profits derived from our export trade. The railroad situation is improved and the outlook for the future is much brighter. During the last few months we have witnessed the reconstruction of many businesses. The mistakes of the past are being corrected and business is on a sounder basis now than at any time during the last decade. The Federal Reserve system has exercised a quieting influence, and the fact that the people understand the banking system better than ever before has been largely instrumental in maintaining confidence in our ability to successfully solve the problems of the day. The bankers and business men of the country are co-operating as never before in the upbuilding of our industries. They foresee the approach of a period of peace, prosperity and plenty."

WESTERN PACIFIC DEFAULTS

Trustee Under the Mortgage Will Begin a Suit for Foreclosure.

Formal default was made yesterday by the Western Pacific Railway on its $50,000,000 first mortgage bonds. The semi-annual interest was technically defaulted on March 1, but the mortgage permitted six months within which to make payment. Two semi-annual coupons amounting to a total of $2,500,000 now remain unpaid.

It was announced yesterday that the Equitable Trust Company, Trustee under the mortgage, would proceed with a foreclosure suit. This suit will probably be brought in California, in which State the Western Pacific was incorporated. The Bondholders' Committee, of which Alvin W. Krech is Chairman, it is expected, will bid for the property. It is proposed to discharge the receiver and let the bondholders operate the road.

No definite plan of reorganization has been proposed by the Krech Committee, but work on a plan will now be started. It was announced yesterday that nearly 90 per cent. of the $50,000,000 bonds had been deposited. There has been no indication of organized opposition to a foreclosure.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad guaranteed the payment of the interest on the Western Pacific first mortgage bonds, and some action may be taken against that road. The board of the Denver meets today to take action on the annual report. It is understood that the earnings were better than expected, but there will be no surplus available to meet the guarantee on the Western Pacific bonds.

CITY PAYS OUT $43,240,500.

Redeems Notes Issued Last Year to Meet Debt Due in London.

Controller Prendergast yesterday redeemed $38,540,500 of coupon notes, being part of the $57,000,000 issue made a year ago. He was also prepared to redeem $7,000,000 of registered notes of the same issue, and the warrants were given out as rapidly as the noteholders called for them. Altogether the city redeemed $43,240,500 yesterday. It was the largest single redemption operation ever undertaken by the city.

The notes redeemed yesterday were part of the $100,000,000 6 per cent. loan obtained last September to pay off obligations falling due in London and to meet other debts. Next September $18,000,000 more will be paid off, and in September, 1917, $25,000,000 will be paid, thereby winding up the loan.

The Controller announced that, beginning Oct. 1, the stock and bond division would take over the work of paying coupons on all city obligations. This task has heretofore been performed by the trust companies under contract with the city. A commission had to be paid to the trust companies, and this amounted to $17,000 last year. New methods of doing the city business are responsible for this change. The work is being done without hiring any new employes in the Finance Department.

TO THE HOLDERS OF

Missouri Pacific Railway Company Trust Five Per Cent. Bonds due January 1, 1917, and

Missouri Pacific Railway Company First Collateral Mortgage Five Per Cent. Bonds due August 1, 1920

The Missouri Pacific Railway Company having been placed in the hands of Receivers, as authorized by Article Fifth of the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment, dated July 1, 1915, which Plan neither makes provision for the payment of the above bonds at maturity nor for their extension, but on the contrary for their exchange par for par into a security in our opinion of inferior lien, and as announcement has been made that the interest due September 1, 1915, on the Trust Five Per Cent. Bonds will not be paid, the undersigned, as owners or representing owners of a large amount of both series of said bonds, have agreed to act as a Protective Committee.

Bondholders are requested to deposit their bonds with the Columbia Trust Company at its office, No. 60 Broadway, New York City, the Depositary of the Committee. All bonds so deposited whether registered or coupon must be in negotiable form, and coupon bonds of either issue must bear all coupons maturing subsequent to August 1, 1915. Certificates of Deposit will be issued and application will be made to list them on the New York Stock Exchange.

In the judgment of the Committee, it is imperative that immediate concerted action be taken by the bondholders for their own protection and it is, therefore, requested that bonds be deposited promptly. Copies of the Deposit Agreement now being prepared may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

The Committee will arrange to advance to depositing bondholders the amount of interest due September 1, 1915, upon the Trust Five Per Cent. Bonds of 1917 at the time of deposit or upon presentation of certificates of deposit for appropriate stamping. Ownership certificates in accordance with the Federal Income Tax Law must be presented. Similar action will be taken as to the interest due February 1, 1916, upon the Collateral Mortgage Five Per Cent. Bonds of 1920 in case that interest should not be paid.

TO THE HOLDERS OF

PRIOR LIEN BONDS

Dated October 26, 1885; Maturing November 1, 1915, of the

VICKSBURG, SHREVEPORT & PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

The undersigned, the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railway Company, successor to the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad Company, offers to extend the above-mentioned bonds so that they shall mature November 1, 1940, with interest at the rate of 5% per annum, payable at the office or agency of the Company in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, semi-annually, on the first days of May and November in each year, the present First Mortgage lien of said bonds to remain unimpaired, both principal and interest to be payable in gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness. Payment of the normal Federal Income Tax, as now constituted, is assumed by the Company.

VICKSBURG, SHREVEPORT & PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY.
By Larz A. Jones,
President

New York, August 30, 1915.

Referring to the above notice, the extension privilege applies only to the holders of such bonds, who shall deposit the same with us at our office, 23 Wall Street, New York City, on or before October 1, 1915.

At the time of deposit the coupon due November 1, 1915, will be cashed.

Upon such deposit, temporary receipts will be issued, exchangeable for bonds, with the Extension Supplement and new coupon sheets attached, for a principal amount equal to the principal amount of the bonds deposited. Copies of the Extension Supplement may be had on application at our office.

On or before October 31, 1915, at our office, we will buy, at par and accrued interest, the bonds of holders who do not desire to avail themselves of the above privilege of extension. On and after November 1, 1915, such bonds will be purchased at par, ex coupon.

WARNING!

Some clever but unscrupulous persons are taking advantage of the gullibility of certain brokers in the curb market, giving orders to purchase stocks, claiming immediately any profits that accrue from the transaction and disappearing entirely if a loss is sustained.

They have been operating particularly in the issues of

and, while it seems hardly necessary to warn brokers against accepting orders from persons unknown to them, some experienced, though foolish, ones have done so, and regret it.

FINANCIAL.

31 Pine Street, New York City, July 1, 1915.

To Holders of Preferred Stock of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of Article III. of the Certificate of Organization of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company, the Board of Directors of said corporation has elected to call all of the preferred stock of said corporation issued and outstanding, and deliver in exchange therefor certificates of stock representing an equal amount in par value of the Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock of Augusta-Aiken Railway & Electric Corporation, a corporation of the State of South Carolina, such exchange to be made on October 1, 1915, and said Georgia-Carolina Investment Company and its said Board of Directors do hereby call all of said preferred stock for exchange as aforesaid on said day.

Holders of preferred stock of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company are hereby required to present their certificates, properly endorsed in blank, on or after October 1, 1915, at the office of the undersigned, David H. Thomas, Secretary of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company, 31 Pine Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, for surrender and exchange for certificates for an equal amount in par value of said Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock of Augusta-Aiken Railway & Electric Corporation. Said exchange will be without expense to the holders of said preferred stock of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company. Stockholders are requested to have their endorsements of certificates to be surrendered properly authenticated.

Holders of record as of 12 o'clock noon on September 15, 1915, of preferred stock of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company will be entitled to receive on October 1, 1915, a dividend of 1¼% on the par value of their stock; but, as provided in the Certificate of Organization of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company, upon and after October 1, 1915, all dividends upon the preferred stock of said corporation will cease, and the holders thereof will have no rights whatsoever in respect thereof except to receive from said corporation, upon demand and surrender of the certificates representing the shares of preferred stock severally held by them, the amounts of said preferred stock of said Augusta-Aiken Railway & Electric Corporation to which they shall respectively be entitled as aforesaid.

The transfer books of Georgia-Carolina Investment Company will be closed to transfers of preferred stock at 12 o'clock noon on September 15, 1915, and thereafter, pending further action of the Board of Directors.

By order of the Board of Directors.

DAVID H. THOMAS,

COTTON IRREGULAR AND CLOSES LOWER

Futures Here Respond to Great Strength at Liverpool and Then Break Sharply.

NET LOSS ABOUT 10 POINTS

Decline in Foreign Exchange Confuses Sentiment and Is a Disturbing Factor.

Cotton was active and highly irregular yesterday, with every bullish and bearish factor bidding for supremacy as influences on prices. Liverpool showed great strength, with an advance of 21 points in spot cotton on sales of 15,000 bales. The near positions were 20 English points, or $2 per bale, higher than Tuesday. One private cable said:

> Market firm. Little offering; good demand for near positions owing to further decline in exchange.

The local market made only a partial response to Liverpool's strength, but worked 10 to 12 points over Tuesday's closing. On the bulge which carried prices close to their high level of Monday, before the issuance of the Government report, there was heavy selling, which caused a break of about 25 points. The market closed steady at a net loss of about 10 points.

The foreign exchange situation is disturbing the trade element on the Cotton Exchange. Yesterday's break to $4.50, with the possibility of a still further decline, naturally puts a damper on the bullish enthusiasm of those who realize the difficulties arising from this abnormal situation. The cost of importation by Europe is greatly increased, and while the chronic bulls take the view that cotton is a necessity instead of a luxury and must be bought regardless of price, there are many conservatives who believe that these purchases will be reduced in volume if Europe finds difficulty in making satisfactory payments.

The weekly weather report was almost ignored as a factor. The reading of the summary was less favorable than expected, and considerable stress was laid on cool weather, which is said to have retarded growth in the northern sections of the belt. In Texas, wet weather is said to have caused some rotting of bolls. Rust and shedding were reported from some sections, and boll weevils were reported as active in Texas.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were quiet, 7 to 10 points decline. The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 10 points decline, 9.75c. for middling. Futures closed steady.

FINANCIAL.

REORGANIZATION OF NEW ORLEANS, TEXAS & MEXICO RAILROAD COMPANY.

To the Holders of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Division First Mortgage Gold Bonds of St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company and of Certificates of Deposit representing said Bonds, issued under the Agreement dated May 28, 1913, between Holders of said Bonds and the Undersigned Committee:

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agreement dated May 28, 1913, between the undersigned Committee and such holders of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Division First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company as have become parties thereto in the manner therein provided, the Committee has prepared and adopted a Plan and Agreement for the reorganization of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railroad Company and its subsidiary companies, and has filed a copy thereof with the Depositary.

Any holder of a certificate of deposit issued under said Agreement of May 28, 1913, may, at any time within thirty days from the date hereof, upon surrender to the Depositary of his certificate of deposit, with a properly executed transfer thereof if registered, and upon payment to the Depositary for account of the Committee of the sum fixed by the Committee as a fair contribution for the compensation and expenses of the Committee, to wit: $6.50 for each $1,000 bond, and of the additional sum of $11 for each $1,000 bond to reimburse the Committee for the withdrawing bondholders' pro rata share of all the indebtedness, obligations and liabilities of the Committee, withdraw from said Agreement dated May 28, 1913, and thereupon shall be entitled to receive bonds to the amount of, and of the series represented by, his certificate of deposit. Holders of certificates of deposit who shall fail to withdraw their bonds within thirty days from the date hereof shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

Holders of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Division First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company who have not already deposited their bonds under said Agreement dated May 28, 1913, may deposit the same under said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization at any time within thirty days from the date hereof.

Holders of certificates of deposit issued under said Agreement of May 28, 1913, or under said Plan and Agreement who desire, pursuant to the provisions of said Plan, to subscribe, to the extent of twenty per cent. of the face value of their deposited bonds, for the First Lien Gold Bonds of the new Railroad Company provided for by said Plan and thereby secure the benefits accruing by reason of such subscription, must, on or before September 24, 1915, surrender their certificates of deposit to the Depositary and receive in lieu thereof new certificates of deposit evidencing also their subscriptions and the rights acquired by virtue thereof under the Plan.

INTERBOROUGH DIVIDENDS.

Rapid Transit Company Declares 5 Per Cent. for the Quarter.

The Board of Directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company declared a quarterly dividend of 5 per cent. yesterday, making a total of 20 per cent. for the fiscal year. This is equivalent to last year's payments, but in that year there were regular dividends of 10 per cent. and two extra dividends of 5 per cent. each. It is understood that the dividend, hereafter, will be on a regular 5 per cent. quarterly basis. The dividend declared yesterday is payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 22. The report on Interborough earnings will be out Tuesday.

At the meeting of the board of the new Interborough Consolidated Corporation, the holding company for the subway corporation, a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on the preferred was declared, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 10. This is the second quarterly dividend paid by the new company. The preferred stock of the old Interborough Metropolitan Company still outstanding can share in the dividend. Owners of this stock can get the two payments, or a total of 3 per cent., on their stock by exchanging it for the preferred stock of the new company. There are about 50,000 shares outstanding.

The question of fixing the amount of interest on the New York Railways 5 per cent. adjustment income bonds for the six months ended June 30 was again referred to a board of arbitrators. For the corresponding period last year the rate was 1.288 per cent., and the rate for the first six months of 1915 was 1.769 per cent. H. H. Porter and James Marwick of New York, and W. G. Ross of Montreal constitute the Arbitration Committee. The same committee served on the two former occasions.

To Clear Submarine Boat Stock.

As a result of a meeting at the offices of Pouch & Co., a committee of Stock Exchange houses has formulated a plan for the special clearance of Submarine Boat Company stock. The details are to be announced next Wednesday. The Submarine Boat stock is traded in on the curb, and the regular New York Stock Exchange Clearing House has no official connection with the proposed clearance plan.

DEMAND STERLING GOES DOWN TO $4.50

LOSS FOR DAY HALF A CENT

British Bankers May Arrive Today to Discuss the Problem, but Outlook for a Big Loan Is Poor.

Demand sterling, which closed Tuesday at $4.55, broke to $4.50 yesterday, and cables declined to $4.51. Exchange on the other European financial centres was sympathetically weak.

Yesterday's break of another 5 cents in the value of the English pound caused less consternation than would have resulted had the financial world not become accustomed to demoralization as the result of successive declines, which have carried exchange rates to new low levels each day recently.

As nearly as could be learned, sales made at the bottom figure yesterday were of limited volume, although a number of the most active houses had demand offered to them at that figure. On the other hand, the foreign exchange expert of one of the leading international firms said that no good paper was sold yesterday for less than $4.51½.

Whatever the bottom point was yesterday, it was not held for long. The upturn that succeeded the violent drop carried demand back to $4.54½, at which figure it was within half a cent of the closing price on Tuesday.

One reason for the recovery was found in the growing belief that the English financiers who are on their way here to discuss the Allies' debt with this country are on board the St. Paul, which docks today. New York bankers have not been able to get word as to the plans of the visitors, but they will not be at all surprised if the English members of the Conference Committee arrive today.

What the effect of the discussions to be held with the visiting bankers will be depends on their acceptance of the views of local financiers as to the gravity of the situation. There is a consensus of opinion among American bankers that an external loan of the size favored by the English cannot be placed with investors here. They agree that $100,000,000 is about the maximum amount of bonds that can be included in any plan for restoring British credit.

In some quarters there is a disposition to let exchange seek its level, on the theory that each new decline means an increase in the amount of goods which this country will import, the difference in exchange acting practically as a reduction in the price of the article imported. Against this theory it was pointed out that some American firms had been unable to increase their imports, or, indeed, to get their regular supplies from abroad. The diversion of men to the armies and the munition factories has left mills shorthanded. The importers of woolens, especially, have had difficulty in getting goods.

The National City Bank, whose officers will figure largely in the credit discussions, takes up some phases of the problem in its monthly letter, which is out today. It says:

"But conditions will remain abnormal while the war lasts, and will have to be met with unusual efforts if the situation is to be kept under control; and if it is not kept under control there is likely to be serious interference with our foreign trade. There is no doubt that rates have been sustained in a material degree by the common expectation that arrangements would be effected for stabilizing exchange on something approximating the normal basis.

"The Allies still have large holdings of gold. It is as certain as anything can be that is taught by experience that the continued importation of gold is a menace to the orderly progress of business in this country. It is perfectly true that so long as the fabric of credits is not enlarged additions to the gold reserves will do no harm and serve to broaden the base under the situation; but bank credit is so readily available for a thousand inviting purposes that it is too much to expect of the people of the United States that they will abstain from using it for long at a time. It is certain that they have never persisted in such self-restraint, and that the bankers have never been proof against their persuasions. There is no Money Trust strong enough to close the vaults against the public when it is in earnest about wanting accommodations."

DISQUIETUDE IN LONDON.

Intimated That Government Will Act on Exchange Problem Soon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Some disquietude has been caused in London financial circles by the apparent inactivity of the Government in the face of the serious problem created by the recent fall in American exchange. I am able to say that the supposed inactivity is more apparent than real, and that definite measures have been taken by the Chancellor of the Exchequer to deal with the question in a way which it is hoped will bring about an entirely satisfactory settlement, both from the point of view of American interests and British credit.

As THE NEW YORK TIMES editorially pointed out some time ago, the United States doesn't require the gold which has been sent westward in driblets. This essential fact has obtained due recognition here, and before long an official announcement will be made which is likely to have a very favorable influence on conditions governing the rate of exchange.

The financial edition of The Daily Telegraph, writing on the American exchange today, says:

"There may be a few who are more anxious to covered, with the possibility of a yet lower level temporarily being reached, but as the position is now fully realized by the Government, one step toward its amelioration has already been achieved.

"There were sales of American securities again on a large scale yesterday, and the prices obtainable for bonds are such as surely to tempt the most conservative holders.

"At the present rate of exchange the seller gets what is to all intents a bonus of about 7 per cent., due to the fact that $453 will now buy $100, against a normal rate of $486. These sales will help to restore the equilibrium, quite apart from the special measures that are awited from the coming conference between the French and British delegates and the American bankers."

The financial editor of The Morning Post, commenting on the fall of the American exchange rate, says:

"The public should understand that, whatever steps may be taken to deal with the situation by the obtaining of credits in the United tSates, nothing can so materially and permanently relieve the situation as an actual reduction in our purchases abroad. Over and over again when exchange has been adverse to the United States, instead of being in its favor, as it is today, the situation has been righted by the rapidity with which the people in that country have faced the situation and by a process of economy have drastically curtailed their imports. In our own case the position is in rather different, owing to the many necessaries of life imported from abroad. The need, however, is all the greater that we should during the war cut down all these imports which are not really essential."

SUGGESTS AMERICAN LOAN TO FRANCE

Better Way Than by Flood of Gold to Stabilize Exchange, Says Senator Aimond.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—"France could send before the end of the war a billion and a half francs in gold ($300,000,000) to the United States without affecting her financial position in Europe," said Senator E. Aimond, an eminent authority on financial questions and spokesman of the Finance Committee of the Senate, today.

"While we can do this, and will do it if America insists," he continued, "we on this side consider that the greatest service which can be rendered to France is to co-operate in stabilizing the exchange market, which Americans can do to their own advantage, as well as to ours, by granting a loan the proceeds of which would pay for supplies purchased in America. The only alternative is to submerge American banks with gold to meet all payments. This we can do as easily as was done a few years ago, when the Bank of France sent 100,000,000 francs to relieve the situation in Wall Street.

"Although France can send a billion and a half francs in gold to meet obligations near that amount now outstanding, the effect in the United States might be somewhat the same as that upon the mythological personage who was choked by his own riches. Business is not done today with gold, but with paper, and what the finances of both countries need is that their paper be maintained by the equilibrium of exchange values."

WAR PUSHING STEEL MILLS.

Domestic Buyers May Find It Difficult to Get Orders Filled.

The weekly reviews of the steel trade show that the bulk of new business is still coming from abroad, rather than from mills manufacturing for the domestic trade. The Iron Age says:

> The main features of the steel situation are the large amount of war business offered, particularly in bars and wire, and the fact that the possible open-hearth steel output of the remaining months of this year is practically all under contract. Thus the very moderate pace at which new domestic business is coming in brings no misgivings.
> There are signs that with each month the war is taking a larger part of the country's steel production.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> August was another month of unusually heavy output for the steel works of this country. There is not the slightest evidence of any easing up in the tremendous demand for tonnage that is being made upon makers, and the situation, if anything, is becoming more congested. The heavy buying, directly or indirectly, for the account of European belligerents, which is being done at lucrative prices, is raising a condition where purely domestic consumers are facing increasing difficulties to get supplies, because the ultimate limits of crude steel outputs have about been reached. In merchant bars a lighter home consumption and a fair amount of stock at the beginning of this movement have enabled most buyers to meet the changed conditions without embarrassment.

TO SELL REMAINING SHIPS.

Pacific Mail Steamship Co. Will Dispose of Seven More Liners.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Negotiations are pending for the sale of the remaining seven vessels of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, it was stated today by A. F. Frey, assistant to the general manager. Mr. Frey said the sale might be made in a few days.

Five large vessels in the transpacific trade were sold a month ago and three smaller vessels two weeks ago. The seven vessels involved in the present deal are the City of Para, Peru, San José, Pennsylvania, Newport, San Juan, and Aztec, all under the American flag, running to Mexican and Central American ports.

The company announced in its previous sales that it could not operate under the Federal Seamen's act, effective next November.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—JULIUS BLAUNER, as Trustee in bankruptcy, &c., Plaintiff, against N. REISLER IRON WORKS, INC., et al., Defendants.

Pursuant to an order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, herein dated August 27th, 1915, the undersigned as Receiver of N. Reisler Iron Works, Inc., will receive written bids for the purchase of all or any part of the personal property of said corporation, located on the premises No. 801 East 137th Street, Borough of Bronx, New York City, at the office of said Receiver, Room 1804, 27 William Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, up to and including the 7th day of September, 1915. Terms of sale to be cash on confirmation by the court, and the Receiver to reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

Property consists of machinery and tools for ornamental iron work and miscellaneous iron, wagons, and office furniture. The same may be inspected at the premises, No. 801 East 137th Street, Borough of Bronx, New York City.

Dated August 30th, 1915.

HUGH A. BAYNE, Receiver.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Indications were apparent last night of a disturbance of some intensity off the North Carolina coast and storm warnings were then displayed on the Atlantic seaboard, between Cape May and Cape Hatteras, in anticipation of strong northeast winds, probably reaching gale force off this section of the coast.

There have been scattered showers in the last twenty-four hours along the South Atlantic Coast and in the Northwest, while in other parts of the country the weather remained fair.

Temperatures near or below the seasonal average prevail generally, except in the north plains States and the Upper Mississippi Valley, where readings are ten or more degrees above normal.

Indications are that fair weather and moderate temperatures will continue Thursday and Friday east of the Mississippi River, except that overcast skies are probable along the Middle Atlantic Coast and in Southern New England.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate to fresh north to northeast; Middle Atlantic Coast, strong northeast and north, probably reaching gale force; South Atlantic Coast, fresh north to northeast, except strong off the Carolina coast.

Eastern New York and New Jersey—Fair in interior, cloudy on the coast Thursday and Friday.

Western New York—Fair Thursday and Friday.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Probably fair Thursday and Friday.

Northern New England—Fair Thursday and probably Friday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	71	60	4 P. M.	85	69
6 A. M.	69	68	6 P. M.	83	67
9 A. M.	76	61	9 P. M.	76	65
12 M.	84	64	11 P. M.	74	64

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 64; for the corresponding date last year it was 78; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 70.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 60, at 8 P. M. it was 66. Maximum temperature, 70 degrees at 3:40 P. M.; minimum, 58 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 64 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 61 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.32 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.34 inches.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Nominations Committee of the Board of Education has sent a request to the Board of Superintendents asking them to report, at least two months before the expiration of the term of office of any officer, any recommendations that such officer may have made within the last five years for the improvement or betterment of the schools and the actual work done by such officer in that direction.

Although he favored a complete trial of the Gary school plan in this city, Associate Superintendent Meleney does not believe in putting swimming pools into elementary schools. On this subject he is quoted as saying:

"I am opposed to swimming pools in the several schools of the Bronx because they are not at all necessary. I favor swimming, but I think that one or two swimming pools can be used by several schools as a group."

In its semi-annual report to the Board of Education the Local School Board of the Twentieth District, Manhattan, says there can be wider and wiser use of the present school equipment, and that the principles of the so-called "Gary Plan" might be applied with great benefit to the district in the interest of economy in buildings and efficiency in educating boys and girls who now have too much time on the streets.

The commission announces an open competitive examination for Sanitary Bacteriologist, for both men and women, on Sept. 22, 1915, to fill several vacancies in the Public Health Service, for duty in the Hygienic Laboratory, Washington, D. C., or for field service, at a salary of $1,500 a year. The duties of this position will be to assist in the study of stream pollution, water supplies and sewage disposal, and other public-health problems. Applicants should be competent to make the usual chemical and bacteriological examination of water and sewage. Competitors will be examined in general biology; chemistry; bacteriology, and education, training, and experience. Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their thirty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

American Real Estate Company Sells Two Plots in East Bronx to Builders—Congressman George Loft Leases Forty-second Street Building at Aggregate Rental of $1,008,000.

The American Real Estate Company has sold two plots comprising about seven and one-half inside lots on the north side of 181st Street, between Vyse and Daly Avenues, the Bronx, to Abraham Kuttler, Jr., and Aaron Klein.

The plots are being improved by the erection of four five-story non-elevator houses, which will be finished and ready for occupancy early in the coming year.

The American Real Estate Company is the owner of the balance of the block, which is bounded by 181st Street, Bronx Park South, Vyse and Daly Avenues, facing Bronx Park.

Unusually sound rental conditions prevail in this immediate neighborhood, and it is understood that negotiations are under way for the sale of additional plots in this block by the American Real Estate Company.

Congressman Loft Leases Forty-second Street Store for $1,008,000.

One of the largest recent leases in the vicinity of Grand Central Station was closed yesterday by Congressman George Loft, who leased for a term of forty-two years, at an aggregate rental of $1,008,000, the six-story building at 11 East Forty-second Street.

The building, which is owned and occupied by F. G. Schmidt, occupies a lot 22 by 102 feet. Possession will not be obtained until April 1, 1916, when the lessee will make extensive alterations and use the property for one of his chain of candy stores.

Another Columbia College Leasehold Sale.

An investor has purchased from Frank B. Taylor the four-story private dwelling, 16 West Fifty-first Street. The structure occupies a lot 21.6 by 100.5 feet and is a Columbia College leasehold.

Bronx Sales.

Richard H. Scobie has sold for Mrs. Elizabeth Klein 456 East 138th Street, the four-story and basement, brownstone dwelling, on lot 16.8 by 100. The same broker sold the adjoining house, No. 454, a short time ago to an investor.

$85,000 Brooklyn Trade.

An investing client of A. Eisenstein has purchased from the M. B. Smith Realty Company 1,722 to 1,726 Union Street, Brooklyn, two four-story apartments on a plot 105 by 100.

In part payment the buyer gave 1,426 Gerhardi Avenue, a two-family brick dwelling in the Woodhaven section. The Union Street property was held at $85,000.

Brooklyn.

The Samuel Galitzka Company has sold for the K. & G. Holding Corporation to a client the two-story brick one-family house, 567 Seventy-seventh Street, on plot 18.5 by 100 for occupancy.

The Jerome Property Corporation of Brooklyn sold 407 Second Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, a two-story and basement, brownstone, private residence on a lot 20 by 100, for Mrs. S. F. Bieth to Mr. J. J. Carpper.

Long Island.

Burton Thompson & Co., Inc., sold for Miss S. S. Wakeman to a client fifty-five acres located on Glen Head and Cedar Swamp Roads in Northern Nassau County. This property adjoins the 103 acres recently sold, by the same firm, to Mr. Audley Clarke of Brooklyn. The purchaser proposes to improve the property with a handsome residence.

The Seidel Realty Company has sold for Ida Sprague a parcel of land on the east side of Eighth Avenue, near Vandeventer Avenue, in the residential section of Astoria. The purchaser, Martha Hansen, will erect a two-story brick private dwelling.

Goldschmidt & Macdonald sold for the estate of I. Phillips a house on the southeast corner of Central Avenue and Lafayette Place, Woodmere, on a plot 90 by 125 to Dr. J. Bunker, who will occupy the house after extensive alterations are made.

Westchester County.

The Robert E. Farley Organization has sold at Greenacres, Westchester County, the residence of Harvey W. Craw to R. Durstein.

Elsie Janis, the actress, has bought Philipse Manor, the 300-year-old Colonial place near Tarrytown. She plans to preserve the house as it stands.

Upper Montclair Residence Sold.

The new residence situated at No. 177 Lorraine Avenue, Upper Montclair, New Jersey, has been sold to Carl Bonwit of New York City. The property is located on part of the estate of the late Walter F. Duryea. F. M. Crawley & Bros. of Montclair were the brokers.

Boynton Estate Sold.

Bryan L. Kennelly has sold for the estate of Frank Boynton a place in the Berkshires, near Great Barrington, consisting of about 400 acres, with buildings, to a client, who intends to make extensive alterations and occupy it. Isaac B. Wakeman was associated as broker in the sale.

Recent Buyers.

Another 56th Street Business Lease.

Royal Scott Gulden has leased the residence at 48 West Fifty-sixth Street, for the estate of Gustavus Sidenberg, to Madame Katherine Elise, a dressmaker, who will alter same for her business.

Up to a few years ago Fifty-sixth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, was wholly a residential block. Now there are twenty-two buildings used for business purposes and forty private residences, fifteen of which are in the market. This street will eventually become a business thoroughfare.

$100,000 Apartment House Lease.

Rice & Hill have leased for the Pinta Realty Company to a client for a long term of years at an aggregate rental approximating $100,000 the six-story elevator apartment house known as Melrah Hall, at 608 and 610 West 139th Street. The building covers a plot 125 by 100, and accommodates forty-eight families.

New College of Dentistry Building.

Plans have been filed for the construction of a seven-story fireproof college building for the New York College of Dentistry. It will be located on the south side of Forty-second Street, 291.8 feet east of Second Avenue, with a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 98.9 feet. Shape and Bready, the architects, have placed the cost at $50,000.

$2,345,400 for Queens Buildings.

According to a report issued yesterday by Supt. John W. Moore of the Queens Building Bureau, the total estimated cost of new buildings in that borough for the past month was $2,345,400. There were applications for 582 new buildings. This is one of the record months of the year and shows an unusual activity in building in that borough.

The principal operations were brick tenements and two-story brick dwellings in the Ridgewood and Maspeth sections; factories and loft buildings and tenements in the Long Island City section and frame dwellings in Woodhaven. There has been an unexpected development of stores and dwellings on Jamaica Avenue in the Richmond Hill section of the Fourth Ward.

Commercial Leases.

M. M. Hayward & Co. leased for James Bradley to a client a two-story and basement garage to be erected on plot 40x100 on the south side of 102nd Street, 175 feet from Broadway, for a term of twenty-one years; the aggregate rental is $100,000.

Louis Kempner & Son have leased for William Waldorf Astor the store at 2482 Broadway to E. W. Theodoroff and F. R. Landau.

Rice & Hill have leased for Joseph Shenk for a term of years to Harry V. Dodge the store and basement at No. 1692 Broadway for automobile tires.

Barnett & Co. have leased the store at No. 2104 Third Avenue to Jacob Gintell.

Nelson, Lee & Green have leased the store at No. 13 West Forty-second Street together with the larger portion of the first floor for a long term to Maurice Mendel, dealer in gowns and millinery.

Ernest Hafner in conjunction with Felix Isman has leased the store and basement at No. 10 West Sixtieth Street to the Ford Commercial Body Co.

Real Estate Notes.

The following streets are to be paved in the near future: Haven Avenue, 170th to 172nd Street, and Second Avenue, Third to Fourth Street.

The Roland Hotel, at 56 East Fifty-ninth Street, has been taken over by the Fleischmann Corporation for ten years at an aggregate rental of $120,000, and will be managed by Charles R. Smith.

Supreme Court Justice Whitaker has appointed Chester J. Byrne Receiver of the premises at No. 6 East 132nd Street, a five-story tenement, pending foreclosure proceedings.

OSBORNE'S UPLIFT FELT ON THE ISLAND

Calisthenics and Dancing for Woman Prisoners to Music of Mrs. Cram's Piano.

PROGRAM FOR LABOR DAY

Talent, Temporarily Torn from Broadway, to Give Big Entertainment on Island.

"The Rosary," played and sung yesterday afternoon by a Black Patti temporarily residing in Tier No. 2 of the Woman's Prison on Blackwell's Island, introduced a new plan which from now on is to be a beneficent feature of the prison life. The piano is a Steinway upright and is the gift of Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram. The women of the prison, it is said, are to have the montony of their lives varied and their physical condition improved by calisthenics and dances to music. Just how this idea is to be developed has not yet been decided. It was heard at the prison, through Commissioner Davis, that Mrs. Cram was to make the gift, which was very much needed, and not long after it arrived on Monday morning Mrs. Cram appeared to see that it had made the trip in safety.

All this has been brought about through efforts to emulate Warden Osborne's work at Sing Sing.

The piano is now in the matron's sitting room on the second floor of the central building of the prison, where it can be, if desired, moved from one side to the other, to the men's prison or to the women's, and used for the entertainment of either. There are already two parlor organs in the prison, presented last Winter, but they have been housed on the "Flats," the lower floor of the prison, where with the dampness from open windows alternating with heat from the radiators they are both threatened with pneumonia and have husky voices quite out of tune.

There is musical talent in the woman's prison, and it is all to be brought out in an entertainment which Mrs. Cram is planning for Labor Day. A glee club of colored women was started a year ago by the chaplain's wife, Mrs. William Nichols, which did some very good work. It was made up of from twelve to fourteen colored girls who, sitting in the rear of the chapel, assisted with the services on Sundays and sang plantation songs, which they liked better under the name of folk songs, and other music at other times.

Owing to the temporary nature of the residence of the members of the club, its music is of varied excellence. Sometimes there is a good soprano and sometimes none and the club at times is made up entirely of altos and then there will not be one. But under the circumstances the music has always gone well and been greatly enjoyed by all the inmates of the women's prison. The new piano will give new opportunities.

The Black Patti who introduced Mrs. Cram's piano played only for a select audience of four and it did not matter that she began her program with the "Rosary," and wound up with a popular Irish air. The Black Patti of yesterday is not known by that name at the prison, though professional names flourish there.

When a woman at the prison refuses to give a name she gets one that is easy to remember. So from time to time the names of all the popular actresses are to be found within the walls; there have been any number of Mary Andersons and Bernhardts and more familiar names of American actresses. The Black Patti had not refused to give her name, but it is not necessary to mention it:

She is a professional colored pianist, and she likes "The Rosary." "Oh, I'm just crazy about it," she said yesterday. "I always play it at moving pictures when there is a priest in the scene or a church. It makes me feel like I was in heaven." The Black Patti's visit to the island was an accident. She was playing one evening at a house which was raided, and she shared the fate of others in it.

"It is the first time I have ever been in this place, and it will be the last, too," she said. "Ninety-three days and I've almost forgotten how to play."

There is a man, a vaudeville performer, in the men's prison who may take part in the Labor Day performance, but the real musical day in the men's prison is New Year's. Then all the inmates who have any musical talent are allowed to volunteer for a performance, and the men in the cells have their share —if they like the performance they applaud, and they boo any unfortunate they dislike.

Any one who wishes to do anything for the women's prison on the island may send over some material—white Swiss or something of that nature—for curtains for the dining room. There are eight great windows in it now entirely bare of adornment. Miss Harris, the Superintendent, was granted the privilege of having a part of the walls painted red, to give a less dismal look to the place, and now, she says, if some one will only give her curtains for the windows and window boxes with red geraniums she will be quite happy. It will take from forty-five to fifty yards for all the windows.

Held for Threat to Hang Wife.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 1.—John Skricki was committed to jail today on a charge of having threatened to hang his wife. She fled from him to the home of her brother, Michael Holub, when it appeared to her that he intended to carry out his threat. Skricki located her and bombarded Holub's house with stones until he was arrested.

PARTNER HELD IN CORD CASE

CAMDEN, N. J., Sep. 1.—After having been questioned all afternoon by Public Prosecutor Kraft as to his business relations with Samuel S. Cord, the wealthy real estate dealer, whose body was found yesterday afternoon on the River Road, near Pelair, with five bullets in it, Olaf Peterson, who is also a rich real estate dealer and promotor, was arrested and held tonight on the order of the prosecutor of Camden County as a material witness.

Peterson, whose home is at Riverton, was a partner of Cord in the Buchanan Lumber Company and other enterprises, and he will be held pending further investigation of the circumstances surrounding his partnership.

This action occasioned some surprise, as the theory of the murder which had found favor with the authorities all day was that Cord had been killed by some one who owed him money and was unable to pay. He did a large business in small loans on houses and lots in the lower end of the county, and was known as a man strict in collections and very prompt in foreclosure. He had founded and built up the town of Laurel Springs, where he lived, and many people there owed him money, for which they had given their homes as security.

The view that Cord was murdered by one of these men, either for revenge or from fear of action he would take, was supported by the fact that no notes, memoranda, or legal papers were found in the dead man's pockets, although he usually carried many papers around with him.

Coroner Henry Baskey and County Physician Frank Stem say that Cord had been dead about twenty hours when his body was found on Tuesday afternoon. No one has been found who saw him after he left his office in the Bullitt Building, Philadelphia, at 4 P. M. Monday.

When Cord was first found it was believed that he had been killed by an automobile, as the body was much lacerated. It is now thought possible that his murderers met him shortly after he left his office, took him out in an automobile, and then killed him in the car and threw his body out.

He was found several miles off the road to Laurel Springs, his home, and in a lonely spot; all five bullets had apparently been fired into him at close range, and it is thought that the injuries on the body may have been caused by its striking the ground and rolling into the ditch after being thrown out of the car.

John Harned, a Camden lawyer, who had been Cord's attorney for twenty-five years, holds to the theory that the dead man was killed by robbers. Though Cord's watch and purse were found on the body, a diamond stud was missing, and the large diamond set of a ring had also been removed. Mr. Harned thinks that Cord was killed by thugs, who took the diamonds and either ignored or overlooked the other valuables or were frightened away before they had a chance to get them. The officials, however, point out that if Cord were thrown out of an automobile the diamonds might have been knocked loose and have been lost.

CATCH ELOPING COUPLE IN THE GRAND CENTRAL

Former Court Messenger in Waterbury Ran Away With Niece of Judge Who Aided Him.

When the train from Boston arrived at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to the Grand Central Station Detectives Dietsch and Manning of the Second Branch were among the crowd that gathered around the gate. They were waiting for a man who was with "a pretty girl with a baby face and a white hat trimmed with flowers," according to a description furnished by the police of Waterbury, Conn., where the couple came from. When the two came out into the waiting room the detectives asked the girl if she was Agnes McDonough, and when she admitted it they detained her and arraigned her companion, Angus McKay, on a charge of abduction.

McKay, who is 24 years old, was up till Tuesday a messenger in the District Court in Waterbury. For some time he had been courting seventeen-year-old Agnes McDonough, who is a niece of Judge McDonough of Naugatuck, an old friend of McKay's family and the man whose influence got him his place. The girl's widowed mother thought that a schoolgirl of 17 was too young to think of marrying, and her family gradually changed from friendship toward McKay to open disapproval.

On Tuesday Judge Reeves dismissed McKay from his place as messenger; there were some trifling irregularities in his accounts, and since his love affairs had been going badly he had not paid attention to business. This disgusted him with Waterbury, so he went to Miss McDonough and asked her to go to New York and marry him.

Mrs. McDonough, when her daughter disappeared yesterday, promptly informed the Waterbury detectives. They sent out a general alarm.

McKay was locked up in the East Fifty-first Street Police Station on the charge of abduction.
